By D. HAROLD OLIVER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Democratic Advisory Council today adopted what was described as a no-compromise stand on civil rights. It also directed its staff to study the need for recommending new legislation, possibly to cover other than just voting rights. The 24-member council, which includes former President Truman and Adlai Stevenson, voted unanimously not to make public its civil rights statement until tomorrow. However, several of the 17 members who met here today indicated its tenor.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, a strong supporter of civil rights legislation, said he was satisfied with the statement. He said it means the Democratic party will never back down on civil rights.

Vote Against It
All Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler would tell newsmen about the civil rights statement was that one of two Southern members present voted against it. One member said the lone dissenter was Mrs. Benjamin B. Everett, North Carolina national committeewoman. The other Southern member present was Camille F. Gravel Jr., Louisiana national committeeman.

Harriman said the council held up immediate publication of the civil rights statement in order to give newspapers for an eight-page declaration against tight money and high prices.

The economic statement approved by the Council criticized the Eisenhower administration for what it called a "negative" policy to combat the "worst peacetime inflation" in history.

Soviet Drive 'Aimed to Cut' Europe Oil

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 20 (AP)—Giuseppe Saragat said today the Soviet Middle East drive aims at cutting Europe's oil supplies and crippling its industrial development. The Italian Social Democrat leader spoke at the closing session of his party's national congress here.

Declaration Reaffirmed

One member of the Council said the civil rights statement, adopted just before the Council ended two days of private sessions, reaffirmed a Council declaration of Sept. 15, which criticized President Eisenhower's alleged lack of leadership in the Little Rock, Ark., school integration crisis. The September statement also said Gov. Orval Faubus' action in keeping Negroes out of the Central High School there with National Guard troops was not the position of the Democratic party.

That was nine days before the President ordered federal troops into the city. The statement approved today also was reported to have criticized Eisenhower for not appointing by now the Civil Rights Commission and a new assistant attorney general provided for in the civil rights bill passed earlier this year by Congress.

That bill confined itself to assuring voting rights to Negroes and other minorities, but several Northern Democrats have indicated they might move next session to broaden the act to cover other rights embraced in the old "Title 3," which were eliminated from the bill before passage. These rights may come within the scope of the Council staff study called for in the new policy statement.

Harriman was asked whether the new statement represented a compromise of Chairman Butler's statement several months ago in Raleigh, N. C. Butler said then that any threat of a third party from Southern Democrats would not deter the national party from continuing to take a strong civil rights stand.

"Absolutely no," Harriman said, allowing himself to be quoted. "The issue has been made and the Council is going to stand by it."

Thurman did not attend the meeting but sent word he approved the economic statement, which was acted on before civil rights. Stevenson was at the session.

The council's economic statement said the cost of living has risen in the last 19 months every month but one. "This is the worst peacetime inflation in our history," it said, adding the administration has had "only one policy—the characteristically negative one of raising interest and tightening the money supply."

"By the ordinary test of results this policy has failed," the council said. "It has failed for 19 months."

Kuss Work on Robot-Manned Moon Rockets

MOSCOW, Oct. 20 (AP)—A Soviet scientist reported today that Russians are working out several different routes for robot-manned space rocket flights to the moon.

The scientist, Prof. V. Dobronraov, said the calculations for one have already been completed. Flight time on the routes, he said, will vary from one to five days. He made no prediction when the pioneer flights might take place.
