Judge Fines Six Men on Gambling Count

Fines were levied Wednesday by Marion County District Court Judge E. O. Stadter Jr. on six men accused of gambling charges. The case against a woman charged with permitting gambling in a building was dismissed.

All had been accused after a raid on the Isaac Walton Clubhouse Sept. 13 when the clubhouse had been rented by a veteran's organization. Eleven had been charged after the raid.

Four of the men changed previous pleas of innocent on the gambling charges to pleas of guilty. The other two withdrew appeals of convictions by a jury trial in district court on gambling charges.

Victor Paul David, Silverton, was fined $250 after he withdrew his notice of appeal. Judge Stadter suspended $100 of the fine. Albert Frank DeJardo, also of Silverton, withdrew his appeal after which he was fined $100, $55 of which was suspended.

Roy Carr Blakeley, 655 Cummings Ln. N.; John Benjamin Urbie and Leonard Tague Elkin, both of Portland; and Charles Delmar Brownworth of Estacada were all fined $45 after their pleas of guilty to gambling charges.

The case against Georgia Margaret Moe, charged with permitting gambling in a building, was dismissed because of the lack of evidence, said court officials. The district attorney's office held that there was no evidence to show she had the power to permit or deny gambling on the premises.

Four still remain to be tried on gambling charges including Carl Conrad Schneider, 1665 Winter St. SE; James Ambrose Lewis, 1730 Center St. NE; Wilbur Joseph Neuhinger, 570 23rd St. NE; and Abraham C. Freisen, 165 25th St. NE. Trials are to be set.

7 Salem Police Officers Eligible for Promotion

Seven Salem police officers were certified as eligible for promotions to the ranks of captain and lieutenant during a meeting of the Salem Civil Service Commission Wednesday.

Lt. Walter Espin was certified as first in line for promotion to captain. Other Lt.s. certified were David J. Bain, Robert Mason and Donald Nicholson.

Leading the eligibility list for lieutenant is Sgt. William H. Bales. Following in order for this rank are Sgts. Marion J. Mathers and Kenneth B. Keuscher.

Eligibility for promotions is based on the results of competitive examinations administered by the commission. Police Chief Clyde Warren said there are no captain or lieutenant positions vacant at present. The top man on each list will get the first promotion in each rank.

The commission also approved the appointment of city patrolman John J. Kelly as a regular member of the police force. They deferred action on the resignation of patrol-

Hearing Tests Underway in County Schools

The yearly audiometer testing program is now being conducted in northern Marion County grade schools, said Mrs. Bernice Yeary, director of nurses at the Marion County Health Department.

The hearing tests are sponsored by the Oregon State Board of Health to rail first grade students each year. A third of all other county grade school students are also tested each year.

Miss Sharon Laverty, one of the state board audiometrists, is conducting the hearing tests. The tests are first given to pupil groups and then repeated individually for those with possible hearing difficulties. The present series will extend through February, Mrs. Yeary added.

Unander Asks Rediscount Rate Drop

State Treasurer Sig Unander asked the Federal Reserve Board Wednesday to reduce the rediscount rate in the 12th district, which includes the Western states. The rate was reduced last week in four districts in the East.

In a telegram to William McCoskey Martin Jr., Unander said economic conditions in the West and the unsatisfactory condition of Oregon's timber industry justify the reduction of the rate.

Governor Describes Work to Club

Government reorganization under the Democratic administration that started last January was described to Hollywood Lions Club Wednesday noon by Gov. Robert D. Holmes.

The governor said he was particularly proud of changes in operations of the new development department, tax commission, agriculture department, fish commission and unemployment compensation commission.

He spoke to the clubmen during a luncheon meeting in the Lion's Den.

Club President Carroll Meeks announced that a joint meeting is being arranged with Keizer and East Salem Lions Clubs.

Program Chairman Ray Cates said next Wednesday's luncheon speaker will be Mel Fox, North Salem High coach.

Salem Postmaster Sees Record Holiday Rush

Holiday mailing is expected to set an all-time high this year, reported Albert C. Gragg, Salem postmaster. Because of the expected deluge of mail, Dec. 10 has been set as a suggested deadline for all out-of-town Christmas mailing to ensure Christmas arrival.

Advance preparations are being made by the post office to handle the expected Christmas rush with extra mail clerks, carriers and extended facilities.

The monthly labor-management meeting of post office employees this evening at the post office will include discussion of particulars of the coming Christmas rush.

Postmaster Gragg has also been asked to speak at a meeting of northwest postal representatives on Christmas rush technicalities. The meeting will be Friday at the Portland Post Office.

Get Stock Now

It was also suggested that now is the time to check Christmas card lists to make sure of correct addresses. It is also time to stock up on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, tying cord, and other mailing supplies, Gragg said.

The post office is offering two free pamphlets to help solve holiday mailing problems. Post Office Pamphlet No. 2 tells of packaging and wrapping parcels for mailing. Pamphlet No. 3 gives details on domestic postage rates and fees.

Free labels to mark mailing bundles "All for Local Delivery" and "All for Out of Town Delivery" are also available at the post office. Bundles of letters should be tied with all addresses facing one way, Gragg added.

Signatures Explained

It was cautioned that only Christmas cards carrying a first class three cent or six cent air mail stamp may include a personal message. Nothing other than a signature is authorized on cards mailed at the two cent third class rate.

Gragg also pointed out that a return address on each card is socially correct, and helps to keep mailing lists up to date.

Special emphasis for early mailing was given for mailing to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico because of the available ship schedules to these points and possible delays because of weather conditions.

The suggested deadline for overseas mailing was Wednesday. Gragg emphasized that overseas mail should definitely be sent by Friday with a possibility for holiday delivery.

Gopher Wins Battle With New Cement

A gopher with a concrete appetite is giving a Salem construction crew a hard time.

The crew laid a four-inch concrete floor on top of two feet of gravel Tuesday morning at a court apartment construction job at 1867 Highway Ave. NE. Wednesday morning the crew found a gopher-sized hole smack in the middle of the floor and neatly ringed with dirt.

So, said M. L. Mills, contractor, his crew cemented their friendship with the boring rodent by filling up the hole with concrete. A few hours later they noticed a quiver beneath the semi-hardened concrete. Sure enough, up popped the gopher and gave the crowd a gnawing smile.

"What we'll do," said Mills, "is let him have his hole. Then when the building is done we'll take sterner measures."

Salem Students Qualify for OSC Drill Society

CORVALLIS, Nov. 20—Four Salem students have been picked as members of Silver Wings, air force ROTC drill society at Oregon State College. They are Richard T. Burse, Warren J. Flaks, Glenn D. Hodges and Fred K. Koken.

They qualified in tryouts conducted among the 520 freshmen men-enrolled in air force ROTC this year at the college. Silver Wings presents special drill demonstrations at campus programs and events.

Business of Tree Farming Leading Topic at Meeting

The business of tree farming will be the central topic of the 48th Annual Western Forestry Conference from Dec. 11 to 13 at Seattle, Wash. Charles Ladd of Oregon State Forestry Department, will participate in a three-man panel during the meeting.

Ladd, staff forester in charge of farm forestry and forestry nurseries programs, will be part of a panel concerning the proposed federal forestry price-reporting service. The subject relates to a federal bill designed to provide quarterly reports of basic forest products on a national scale.

The conference will include foresters from the 11 western states and Canada.

Ervin L. Peterson, former state director of agriculture for Oregon, now assistant secretary of agriculture at Washington, D.C., will discuss national agriculture programs in relation to tree farms.

Other topics scheduled for discussion include new forestry developments, soil surveys, tree planting experiences and techniques, wilderness areas, and wildlife with its relations to tree farms. Also planned are considerations of fire prevention techniques, public tree farm use, weather modification, forestry research activities

Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon bought practically all of the 1,777,888 tons of coal that India exported in 1956.
