At Lewis and Clark

Tolo Dance Scheduled Saturday

By RAMONA SALMINEN
Statesman Correspondent

PORTLAND — Main event of the forthcoming weekend at Lewis and Clark is the AWS Tolo dance, February 22 in Templeton Commons. This dance, with a folk dance flavor, will replace the annual Sadie Hawkins dance.

Barbara Mouser, Woodburn, and Ron Hubbs, Silverton, plan to attend this costume dance with their dates.

At the second in a group of English department coffee hours, Eugene O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon" was discussed February 20, in connection with the campus production of the play. Students and faculty will participate in this discussion.

One of the largest specimens of a granite erratic discovered in this part of the state has been given to the Lewis and Clark geology department. Dr. James Stauffer, geology professor and finder, estimates the rock to weigh two to three tons. Members of the Oregon Country Geological Society have donated a plaque and base for the rock which will be situated outside the science building.

In the following years LC will have some changes in their curriculum following the studies of the curriculum. Certain departments will require a comprehensive senior examination, will increase the semester hours for major study to 30 or more and will urge students to include a language in the studies to obtain a BA rather than a BS degree.

Thirty-six new students have registered for the spring semester bringing the total enrollment to 1025. Barbara Bennett and John Beardalee are here this semester from Willamette University.

At Oregon State

Three Men Tapped for Honorary

By NANCIE OWENS

CORVALLIS — Principal freshman interviews were held at Oregon State on Saturday, February 14, in the Memorial Union. Selected as school chairman for the season were Mary Clark from South Salem, and Dick Buchanan, graduate of North Salem. Among the many that they scheduled for interviews with the visiting high school administrators were Brenda Aachenbrenner, Marilyn Zeller, Cynthia Chase, Judson Smith, Geri McAllister, Roger Ayres, Don Peters, Chuck Hammerstad, Dick Gabriel, Margie Anderson, Margo Hudkins, Joan Osko, Marilyn Murphy, and Claudia Peterson, South Salem graduates. Also scheduled for interviews were Jo Wilson, Bill Hansen, Steve Jackson, Rex Simms, Judy Seamster, Donna Hammond, Bob Russell, Bob Richardson, Don Hunt, Pat Jones, Tom Myers, Ralph Morgan, Vernon Wait, and Gary Smith, of North Salem.

In the dramatic field Mary Clark has been named head of properties for the Associated Independent Student's presentation of "The King and I" to be given on May 2 and 3 during Mother's Weekend. Mary Kay Vaigt, a graduate from Salem High School, has been cast in the lead part for "The Four Poster", speech department play scheduled for presentation on March 6-8.

Co-Chairman of Pageant

Another event of that weekend is "Ages of Rhythm", the 1958 Seahorse's water pageant. Vicki Ward has been named co-chairman of the show, and Sue Borders is heading the committee in charge of lighting.

Because of their high scholarship, three Salem-area freshmen have been elected to membership in Phi Eta Sigma, the men's national freshman scholastic honorary. Making a 2.5 or above, which is the qualification for membership, were Terry Copley of Salem, Kenneth Marx of Rickreall, and Russell Miller of Dallas. Also selected for membership in an honorary is Marilyn Kurtz, recent initiate of Lambda Kappa Sigma, the women's pharmacy honorary.

Holding new house offices in Phi Sigma Kappa are Bob Ohmart, secretary, and Glenn Dodge, inductor. Other house elections are being completed this week.

Various house dances and the annual Foresters' banquet are planned for this weekend.

Camp Fire Girls Are Active

A new group of 5th grade Camp Fire Girls of Hoover School was started recently at the home of Mrs. R. A. Harlan by the O-Ki-Hi 6th graders of Englewood.

The O-Ki-Hi group, with Mrs. Virgil Pade as guardian, will earn the Golden Jubilee charm upon receipt of a charter by the new group, thus becoming "big sisters."

All-Blue Bird and Camp Fire groups of Englewood School are making plans for the annual PTA school carnival to be held Friday, February 21.

The fourth grade Sunrise Bluebirds of Englewood School entertained their teachers and mothers with a Valentine party on February 12 at the home of their leader, Mrs. Donald L. Rasmussen.

Guests included the mothers of the Bluebirds and Mrs. Dorothy Dougherty, principal of Englewood School; Mrs. Helen Addison, Mrs. Pat Brutka and Mrs. Florabell Sell, teachers from Englewood School; Mrs. Jean Thibeau, Richmond school teacher; and Mrs. Virgil Pade, Neighborhood chairman for Camp Fire.
