At Lewis and Clark Candidates For May Fete Announced

BY RAMONA SALMINEN
Statesman Correspondent

PORTLAND — Three Portland girls have been selected to be in the run-off elections for May Fete queen. Nancy Hill, Peggy Manning and Joyce Fields were elected Tuesday by the student body. The identity of the queen will be kept secret until May Fete, May 2.

Also before the student body for their consideration is a proposed senate-system constitution to replace the present university type of government. The new constitution would give more students a chance to participate in government and get rid of several useless committees and commissions.

The student council is presently conducting a student poll as to negative or positive feelings about covering the outdoor swimming pool with a $2,000 plastic bubble. This would enable swimming classes to be held on campus and provide winter recreation. However several consider the fancy bubble as a bubble and additional debt. No administrative action has yet been taken on the matter.

Stewart Hall, women's dormitory, will present their annual house dance Saturday evening. Planning to attend this gala social event is freshman Sidney Weeks and her escort.

With mid-term just around the corner, beginning next Monday, social life has come to rather a halt while busy students prepare for a week of examinations.

Goldenweds Celebrate

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at a reception on March 16 at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Watson. They were married in Salem and have resided here most of their married life. (McEwen Studio).

Anniversary Ends With Program

Over 400 Girl Scouts from Benson, Lincoln, Linn, Marion and Polk counties gathered on the Patio Shop of Meier and Frank's in Salem Saturday to celebrate the 50th Anniversary week of Girl Scouting in the United States. The girls portrayed their program, based on the 11 fields of interest, by showing displays and live exhibits to all who visited the Patio Shop.

Homemaking projects were shown by various troops illustrating how Brownies, Intermediates, and Senior Scouts learn to fill their role in the home. A First Aid demonstration was given by Troop 20, Salem Mariners, with the assistance of the Sea Scouts of Salem. The Mariners also displayed a boat with equipment.

Holly Troop 46 set up an out-of-door camp and cooked their dinner over the stove. Intermediate Troop 29 of Salem sang Girl Scout songs and danced several numbers.

Installation of senior planning board officers climaxed the day. Past president, Jane Bodenweiser, installed the new president, Carolyn Jarvis. Both girls are from Salem. Other new officers are vice president, Jo Ann Enigh from Corvallis, and secretary-treasurer, Jo Ann Denton from Albany.

The installation was followed by a style show put on by the Senior Scouts who modeled uniforms from 1912 on up to the modern "Space Scout" of tomorrow, designed by the Salem Senior Troop 26.

Displays included international flags; a rock collection from Salem, camp-crafts and homemaking projects. Troop 215 of Silverton sponsored a pillow display; Corvallis topped the largest number of displays shown.

Dear Ann Landers Her Social Program Leads to Headaches

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm only 18 but I think I know what I want. At present I'm going with a fellow who is 23 and looks like Pat Boone.

We've been going steady 10 months. My mother pointed out that he's taken me out on actual dates only three times since last March when I accepted his I. D. bracelet.

I don't think it's anything against a fellow if he doesn't like to run around, but I'm beginning to think the big attraction in staying home all the time is the necking. He only wants to come over when he's sure we'll be alone. Even then he never likes to play records. He wants to turn on the TV so he can turn out all the lights.

When I told him how I felt, he said I was squirrely and that he is a normal boy. What do you think?—SOO-ZEE.

I think this "normal boy" has a one-track mind and the traffic is very light there.

If you're smart, you'll tell him that you're tired of the cloistered life and you want to get out where there are lights and find out if you can still see at night.

The social program you describe can't possibly lead to anything good and it very well might lead to serious trouble. (P. S. Pat Boone has a beautiful voice, a wife and four kids. What has your lounge-lizard got to brag about?)

Dear Ann: I'm an old grandpa but I can still see well enough to read your column every day. It makes me glad I've got my sight.

The letter from the woman who was disgusted with her sons because she caught them helping their wives in the kitchen was a prime. Your answer was just right, Ann. You told her a wife who works outside the home to help bring home the bacon, has a right to expect her husband to help her fry it.

My grandfather never washed a dish in his life. He worked 16 hours a day in the fields and didn't have time to help grandma in the house. And she could have used the help, too, because she was putting in the same hours. She raised eight children, made her own bread, churned the butter and took care of cows and chickens.

There were no automatic washing machines, dryers, dishwashers, air-conditioning and other labor-saving devices. Yet, those were called "the good old days." I'd like to know what was so good about 'em?—FOGEY.

Dear Fogey: The best part of "the good old days" is that they're gone.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)
