Dear Ann Landers

Girl Yens for Romeo She Told Good-Bye

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 17 and in need of some motherly advice. I can't go to my mother because she doesn't understand anything about love.

I went with a darling boy for seven months. We needed, of course, but I managed to keep him within respectable limits. After awhile it got to be too much of a struggle and I decided instead of fighting him off every time we got together (which was pretty often) I'd better stop seeing him altogether.

I'm very proud of myself for being able to make the decision. I know I did the right thing because he was gaining on me fast.

The funny part of it is, Ann, I miss him even though I'm dating several boys who are much nicer and no threat to my purity. Am I nuts?—SALLY M.

Mother pls a rose on me—and make it a white one, please! Congratulations for making the right decision, before it was too late. Keep telling yourself the boy friend was up to no good and you were smart to give him the air.

Are you "nuts" because you miss him? No—not nuts—just human. The rogues and rascals sometime seem more attractive than the nice boys in the same way that the forbidden fruit appeals to the worst in our human nature.

You may have a yen for this Romeo for a long time, but it's easier to live with a few question marks than feelings of guilt and self-recrimination.

Dear Ann: My hubby and I are having a small disagreement. Our two-year-old son is brilliant and we're very proud of him.

My husband is an attorney and so is his father. My dad is an engineer. It's natural for a father to want his son to step into his footsteps. But I don't believe this is always best.

The way our son handles blocks and builds things I know he would be a truly great engineer if encouraged along these lines.—ALERT MOM

P. S. He shows no interest in law, whatsoever. What is your opinion?

Two years old and he shows "no interest in law"? Well—this is something to worry about!

Since you have 16 years or so to think about your pressing problem, I suggest you put it aside for now. By the time the boy must make the decision, he may have a few ideas of his own in regard to what he wants to do with his life.

CONFIDENTIAL: DOLL-BABY: If that was an "S.O.S." you're sunk. Your romance sounds like a jail. Let the "prisoner" free and take the bloodhounds off his trail, warden.

TO YOUNG TO KNOW: Who are you kidding, Sister? Why don't you pinch him back—and hard?

STARVING EXPECTANT FATHER: You do it to annoy your wife whether you realize it or not. Eat your snacks when she's not around if you can't exercise the self discipline that she does.

HELP WANTED: You're foolish to waste your time and energy fighting off this "30-hundred lecher" every night and twice on Sunday. Tell him not to call you any more—unless, that is, you really enjoy batte-fatigue.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelop.)

Junior-Senior Prom, Banquet Held Saturday

MILL CITY—The annual Junior-Senior Prom and banquet was held Saturday evening, with a ham dinner prepared and served by members of the Women's Club of the Christian Church at Fellowship Hall. Floral arrangements were furnished by the Mill City Garden Club.

Acting as master of ceremonies was Rodney Schaefer. The invocation was given by Judy Hoyer, and the welcome and response by Ronnie Kuhlman and Dale Smith. Members of the junior class provided the entertainment immediately following the dinner.

The Prom was held in the auditorium of Saniam Union High School, the theme being "Moonlight and You."

Decorations were prepared under the direction of Sherene Muir, complete with moonlight garden, fountain, and wishing well. Dancing was to Arnie Manke's orchestra.

A gala affair ... for the Junior High Y-Teens will be the annual father-daughter banquet on Tuesday night in the YWCA gymnasium at 6 o'clock ... a box supper will be served and as an "ice-breaker" feature the height of the dads will determine his admission, one cent per inch ... a varied program of songs, dances, pantomimes and musical numbers will follow the dinner hour ...

Visitors ... in the capital the past week have been Dr. and Mrs. S. Robertson of Cobourg, Ontario, Canada, who have been guests of their cousin, Mrs. Merle Rosecrans ... the latter's sister, Miss Frances Hodge of Portland, joined them here on Saturday ... Mrs. Rosecrans took her guests on several scenic trips and were at the coast for the high tides ... the Robertsons are stopping in Victoria and Vancouver, B.C. en route home ...

Easter guests ... at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Feltz were their son, Dennis, of Portland and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanauka and son, Tony, of Tillamook ...

At their regular meeting on Friday, April 4, Trinity Chapter No. 175, Order of the Eastern Star, entertained guests from Cedar Chapter, Seio; Euclid Chapter, Jefferson; and Cherry Assembly, Order of Rainbow for Girls. Honored and escorted were Mrs. Charles Borst, Grand Representative of the Grand Chapter; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Shelton, worthy matron and patron of Cedar Chapter; and Mrs. Helen Caywood, worthy matron of Euclid Chapter.

Invitations were accepted for receptions in Portland and Eugene. A school of instruction was held by Mrs. Raymond Hoffman and Clarence Field.

Mrs. Rogers Webb, chairman of the social club, reported on a very successful card party March 29. The girls of Cherry Assembly entertained with vocal, piano and violin solos and duets; musical skits and tap dancing. Rainbow girls participating were Judy Brendle, Worthy Advisor, Elizabeth Alderson, Colleen Kelo, Jerry Baker, Dianne Ketchum, Sharon Maccabee, Kathy Wilson and Carol George. Others assisting were Antoinette Myers, Gloria Rodriguez and Mike Folsom.

The committee in charge of refreshments was Mrs. A. E. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips and Wilmer Nelson.
