GINGERBREAD HOUSE
IN THE WOODS. You have to drive up a long lane to get to this little hideaway. And when you get there, the birds are singing (there must be a hundred of 'em), the natural wild growth smells good and there in a clearing, is this redwood and white cottage with a big front porch and old brick trim. Inside the cottage (two bedrooms and a small den), there is provencial patterned wallpaper, knotty pine, a little breakfast nook with beamed ceiling, a huge old brick fireplace. There is an acre and a half, all wild growth, and the water you drink is good, sweet spring water. Listed for $10,500 with a $7300 loan which can be assumed. Not far out.
