Dear Ann Landers

Child Better Off With Father And No Yard

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: My life is one royal mess. Perhaps it's unfair to shift the blame, but both my parents and in-laws have contributed handsomely to ruining our marriage . . . When my husband and I had our first tiff I phoned Mother and Dad long-distance. They told me to get on the next plane and come live with them. I was seven months pregnant and mother warned me against staying with my husband if he upset me. Like a fool I left him . . . The following day, my in-laws come to our apartment, took all my husband's belongings and moved him into their house. They told him I was a spoiled brat and urged him to divorce me . . . Now our baby is three months old. My husband has written that he wants me back. I want to go. But my folks keep saying the baby will be better off in their spacious home than cooped up in a small apartment with no yard . . . They also tell me if I go back to him I can't come home if we have another fight. Please help me. I want to do what's best for the baby.—ANGELA

Your child will be far better off with a father and no yard, than in that gold-plated squirrel-cage. Get on the next thing that moves and go back to your husband. Let's hope your folks keep their word and don't permit you to come home if you have another fight. It's too bad this rule wasn't in operation earlier . . . Your parents have short memories. They forget the times in their marriage when they may have wanted to throw in the sponge. But they stayed together and settled their differences because no mahogany-paneled doors were open to them . . . The biggest favor parents can do for their married children is to let them work out their own domestic problems—alone . . . Dear Ann: I'm a girl, 15, and rather mature for my age, at least as I've been told . . . I have a stepuncle about 70 years old who is a pill. Whenever I hear he's coming over I try to be at my friend's house. My big complaint against him is that he always grabs me and kisses me on the lips whenever he sees me. I just hate it . . . I've just about decided to paste him one the next time he pulls this. Do I have your permission?—LINDA

Sorry, Linda—pasting a man his age is out of the question. Simply be fleet of foot and give him your cheek next time. If he complains, buy him the record "I'm a Big Girl Now"—and give it to him, gift-wrapped . . . (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)

Elected President

Mrs. Paul W. Harvey Jr. of Salem, who was elected president of the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church of Oregon at the annual meeting held in Eugene Tuesday, Mrs. Harvey, who is an active member of the Women's Fellowship of the First Congregational Church here, has served as first vice-president of the state group the past year. The fellowship represents fifty churches in Oregon. (Kennell-Ellis Studio.)

Barbecued Meat Attracts

EMMA KAUFMANN " . . . pies keep them coming" By MAXINE BUREN Statesman Woman's Editor

Though the anticipation of barbecued beef, pork or ham, hot from the oak-basted oven brings many customers to the Oak Barbecue Pit, popular restaurant on High Street, the homemade flavor of fresh baked bread and pies lures them back again . . . Tom Elliott, owner of The Pit for the past seven years gives Emma Kaufmann, pastry cook a lot of credit for his dining place's distinctive food. Recipes for homemade bread and pies are those Mrs. Elliott used to prepare in The Pit's kitchen before three youngsters arrived to keep her busy at home . . . The Elliots came to Salem from Canada via Seattle and Eugene. Though the place, filled to the doors, holds only 88 customers, the establishment serves from 300 to 350 daily—lunch and dinner. More customers come for lunch, Elliott tells me, but the cash register says they spend more money at dinnertime . . . Of course the meat, cooked in the brick pit, with a distinctive sauce is the featured food. A super roast of beef, deliciously brown on the outside, juicy on the inside, came out of the pit while I was looking around . . . Though the fresh homemade bread comes out of the oven in large quantities, Emma Kaufmann's department makes its biggest hit with its pies. Customers have a choice of five pies daily. One super, deluxe pie is featured one day each week and as I visited The Pit on Wednesday, I found that a delicious lemon pie was the Big Name dessert for the day . . . Here is a recipe for that specialty:

THE PIT LEMON PIE

1/4 cup cold water	Grated rind 1 lemon
1/4 teaspoon salt	1/2 cup lemon juice
7 tablespoons cornstarch	3 eggs
1 1/2 cups hot water	1 tablespoon butter
1 1/2 cups sugar	6 tablespoons sugar (for meringue)

Mix cold water, salt and cornstarch together. Combine hot water, sugar, grated rind of lemon in a saucepan and bring to a boil over direct heat. Add cornstarch mixture and cook until thick and smooth (about 15 minutes), stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks slightly, stir into other mixture and cook a few minutes longer. Add lemon juice and butter and blend. Cool . . . Pour into a baked shell, spread with meringue made from the egg whites and 6 tablespoons sugar and bake at 325 degrees 25 to 30 minutes or until meringue is firm and lightly browned.

Display Invites Guests to Bush House Museum

Emphasis this week in the display case at the First National Bank is directed to the Salem Art Museum—Bush House. A painting from the current One Man Show of Martha Redd's watercolors and drawings, information about the Bush House museum and a welcome to the people of Salem to further enjoy their museum, are included in the case . . . The painting on display was done in the Northwest hills of Portland by Miss Redd, a former Salem resident, on wrapping paper with a home-made pen. Entitled "Hilltop Homes", the painting is a good example of the use of unassuming subjects and materials by the artist . . . The Salem Art Museum-Bush House is located at 800 Mission Street adjacent to the popular picnic and play grounds of Bush's pasture and is open everyday except Monday from 2 till 5 . . . Those interested should check with the camp registrar, Mrs. Clyde Richards Corvallis, or with the area office in Salem before turning in their registrations . . . Something new has been added to the Camp Smith Creek schedule this summer, an 11 day all camp session. A primitive unit will operate during the same 11 days at nearby Howard Creek . . . A registered nurse is on duty 24 hours a day at Smith Creek, and a doctor is on call at all times.

Violet Fanciers Elect Officers

Mrs. Charles Furrette was hostess to members of the African Violet Society when Mrs. Bert Hulst was elected president. Mrs. Jack Pedersen, vice president; Mrs. Al Nolan, secretary - treasurer . . . Mrs. Charles Warren talked about a recent visit to the Portland African Violet show . . . The June meeting was announced for the home of Mrs. Arthur Hoernig with Miss Lyla Looney as assisting hostess. Present were violet fanciers from Salem, Dallas, Independence and Hubbard . . . Women's Catholic Order of Foresters of Salem will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Miss Pearl Bailey, 1440 N. Liberty St. A white elephant sale will take place.

Camp Smith Creek Opens In June

All girls interested in attending one of the sessions at the Girl Scout Camp Smith Creek should register now, according to Mrs. T. A. McMinn of Corvallis, established camp director . . . Camp Smith Creek is located 28 miles east of Salem in the Silver Creek Falls recreational area. Registrations are now open to non-Scouts and, according to Mrs. McMinn, room is left in the following sessions: June 23 to July 5; July 23 to August 3; August 10 to August 16; and August 17 to August 23 . . . Those interested should check with the camp registrar, Mrs. Clyde Richards Corvallis, or with the area office in Salem before turning in their registrations . . . A registered nurse is on duty 24 hours a day at Smith Creek, and a doctor is on call at all times.

Bridge Players Tie for First

Tying for first place in the Knights of Columbus Duplicate Bridge junior division were Mrs. J. G. Lewis and Mrs. Paul Van de Velde and Mrs. J. H. Meusey and Cyril Meusey. Others winning points were Mrs. J. H. Shoemaker and Mr. Dave Twoby . . . In the senior division winners were Mrs. L. Park and Ellis Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Schechtman, Mrs. E. W. Hughes and Henry Kropp, Pat Stewart and Mrs. Burris, Mrs. Elvone Osborn and Lin Miles and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lewis.
