Dow Jones, in its story, said the impending deal was confirmed by a spokesman for William Ran-dolph Hearst Jr., president of Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc., through which INS is operated. The spokesman was not named.

In a statement, Hearst replied: "No spokesman whatsoever has been authorized to make any statement in connection with the story concerning the reported merger of the United Press and International News Service. All questions concerned with the story should be referred to the officials of these two agencies." The UP said there was no one

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C. (CP)-Billyboy and Aileah stood on a hillside near their sod-roofed cabin Friday and gazed sadly on the blackened ruins of a fram hospital as they described efforts to save their child and 11 other Chilcotin Indian tots who died in a tragic fire Thursday.
"I don't mind to talk a little," said Billyboy.

"I was just home from work. I looked up and I saw the smoke. I got my kid in there. I come running barefoot."

Combined School, Hospital

When Billyboy reached the com-bined school and hospital, on the Anaham reserve 74 miles from this Cariboo centre and 200 miles north of Vancouver, smoke was pouring from one side and flames shot out the other side.
"There was four of us," said

Billyboy. "McClure Jim, Otto Chell and Shuswap from down below." Shuswap is Chief Charley Draney of Denman Creek Reservation on the other side of the Fraser River. "We broke in the windows. The fire came out. Otto Chell broke h some of the wall. We try to get '52 PLYMOUTH Cambridge 4n up the back stairs for them kids. Smoke drove us back."
