Brucker, Taylor Say Army Weakened by Administration Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Brucker and his chief of staff, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, testified Monday that they need 55,000 more men than the administration is allowing for the Army next year.

Brucker told a senate appropriations subcommittee, however: "We are not here in any sense to upset the decision of our superiors."

The senators are considering a 99-million-dollar item the House added to the Defense Department budget to keep Army strength at 900,000 during the fiscal year starting July 1. The Pentagon recommended 870,000 men.

Cutback Ordered

Under questioning by Chairman Dennis Chavez (D-NM), Brucker said the Army recommended to Secretary of Defense McElroy last September an increase in manpower to 925,000.

"The Defense Department had tentatively ordered a cutback to 850,000 men at that time, Brucker said, but on appeal McElroy agreed to 870,000 a 30,000 reduction from the present strength.

The Army secretary emphasized that he and Taylor are bound by the higher decision. "We've done all in our power," he said.

Logic Unchanged

When Chavez reminded him he could express an opinion without bucking the decision, Brucker said: "I can say that we have seen nothing since last September to change the logic of our request. On the contrary, we see many things to corroborate our judgment."

Taylor spoke in a similar vein. "I have not changed my position that a force of 925,000 is the minimum required strength we should have for the coming fiscal year," he told the subcommittee.

Questioned by the senators, the general said that to provide for a fully modernized force adequate to today's needs would require between 12 and 13 billion dollars a year. The administration has budgeted $8,690,000,000.

Consultant for State Board of Control Named

W. Reid Hanson, Salem, has been named consulting engineer to the State Board of Control, it was announced Monday.

A civil engineer with national and international experience, Hanson will review all plans and specifications for board construction, supervise needed maintenance at state institutions and advise the board on all related matters.

The board employs four construction inspectors who supervise current construction and for whom Hanson will be responsible.

Resident of Salem much of his life, Hanson served with the Army in Europe during World War II as a topographical draftsman and later obtained an engineering degree at Oregon State College.

Hanson has had experience in airport construction in Alaska, freeway construction in Seattle and worked for Morrison-Knudsen in Spain, Alaska and French Morocco as engineer in charge of air bases and radar installations. He has recently been design engineer for Clark and Groff firm of Salem in charge of the Salem-Stayton water line.

Hanson lives with his wife and two children on Scenic Drive.

Burns Lumber Plant Closes; Pickets Appear

BURNS (AP)—The Hines Lumber Co. plant west of here was closed Monday when pickets appeared from another Hines operation at Westfir.

The International Woodworkers of America have been striking the Westfir plant in a dispute over company efforts to have fallers and buckers paid on an hourly basis instead of by piecework.

The workers at the Burns plant are members of the rival Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union, but they respected the picket line, idling nearly 800 people.

Last week pickets from the Westfir operation appeared at another Hines plant at Dee, but they picketed there for only a day.

Benefits of Ideas Swap Told Lawyers

PORTLAN D(AP)—West Coast lawyers may hold a series of future meetings to exchange ideas about methods of legal practice.

The president of the Oregon State Bar, George Neuner, said Sunday such meetings would be very useful, and he predicted they will become an annual affair.

He spoke at the concluding session of a three-day meeting of the Oregon, Washington and California Bar associations here.

It was the first such meeting ever held.

Neuner said attorneys would be of more value to clients and their communities if they cooperated with lawyers in other states.

PORTLAND (AP)—Blonde Brenda Crabtree, a 21-year-old hatcheck girl, Monday was named Portland's first Miss Raindrop.

Boy Decapitated By Propeller of Stolen Airplane

VICTORIA, B. C. (CP)—A 15-year-old boy was decapitated near here Monday night when he apparently ran headlong into the whirling propeller of a stolen private float plane.

John Marrison, 15, of nearby Saanich was killed instantly in the freak acident and his 16-year-old companion, Robert Turnbull, suffered severe shock.

The tragedy occurred when the boys managed to start the engine of a plane and taxied across a lake, apparently unable to get the craft into the air.

On its way the plane struck a rowing boat the boys had been using earlier.

The plane rammed the almost deserted beach and the boys jumped from the plane.

Police said Marrison apparently was decapitated by the blades of the propeller when he ran from the craft.

Reich Official Backs Off on News Threat

BONN, Germany, (AP) — Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano Monday backed down some on a government - proposed bill which would send German newsmen to jail for writing defamatory stories about the private lives of foreign heads of state and their families.

The draft law, sharply criticized in the German press, must win Parliament's approval and that is regarded as unlikely.

Von Brentano told a news conference he would not mind if Parliament makes some changes in the draft. He said the bill is not intended to curb freedom of the press.

Police Catch 4 Escapees

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — Four young malcontents who broke out from the State Reformatory here Monday morning were back again shortly after midnight. Two were captured about 9:30 p. m. Monday night and the other two were caught just before midnight.

The captures were made in a heavily wooded area three-quarters of a mile from the reformatory. The prisoners were wet, cold and hungry when returned to the reformatory. They had escaped from the maximum security cellhouse at 8 a. m. shortly after the breakfast hour.

After the capture of Robert Hagara, 20, of Olympia, and David Martinson, 19, Auburn, 50 law enforcement officers, forming as a flying wedge, went through the wooded area. They were aided by use of high-powered flood lights as they pushed through the bushes.

Hagara, who had been convicted of second degree burglary, and Martinson, convicted of car theft, had surrendered peacefully to guard. Lt. Kenneth MacDicken, correctional lieutenant at the reformatory, said they were not armed.

Mexico Bus Crash Kills 17, Hurts 20

MAZATLAN, Mexico (AP)—An open-air bus loaded with a weekend crowd overturned and burned on a bridge near here late Sunday, killing 17 persons and injuring about 20.

Fifteen persons died instantly in the crash and flames. Two more died Monday.

Officials said the speeding bus hit the edge of a bridge, and sparks ignited several cans of gasoline tied to the running board and front fenders.

Ike Against Bill Aimed at Labor Abuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration came out Monday against the Senate labor bill aimed at corruption in unions.

Two of the bill's co-sponsors, Sens. Irving Ives (R-NY) and John F. Kennedy (D - Mass) promptly denounced the action as due to ignorance of the measure or yielding to political pressure.

The administration position was presented by Secretary of Labor Mitchell in a statement. He said the bill would weaken, not strengthen present corruption curbs.

The measure is designed to curb abuses by giving rank-and-file members greater control over union affairs and by requiring public reporting of union financial dealings.

Ex-Fire Chief, Successor Kill Each Other in Gun Duel

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—A disgruntled former fire chief and his successor killed each other in a blazing gun duel Sunday. Investigators said Monday it was a grudge fight.

Dead are Fire Chief Amos Gray, 36, and former Fire Chief Vernon Blackburn, also 36, who had been fired by the City Council one year ago following a fight with the chief of police.

Police Chief Epp Laferty said Mrs. Gray, who was present during the shooting told this story:

She and her husband were sitting in their quarters above the fire department when Blackburn entered, brandishing a .32 caliber automatic pistol.

"I'm going to kill you," Blackburn was quoted as saying.

Mrs. Gray told officers she stepped between her husband and Blackburn and began screaming.

Gray pushed his wife aside and drew a revolver, warning Blackburn not to shoot.

Blackburn fired once, hitting Gray in the chest. The fire chief slumped to his knees, firing three times as he went down. Each shot hit Blackburn.

Blackburn died 15 minutes after the shooting. Gray lived for an hour and a half. Mrs. Gray was not injured.

Officials said Blackburn had held a grudge against Gray since the latter was named fire chief. Laferty blamed the shooting on the grudge.

House Votes Money For Jobless Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted swiftly Monday to put up $665,770,000 to carry out the unemployment compensation extension voted by Congress last week.

The appropriation bill goes now to the Senate for approval and then to President Eisenhower, who asked for it.

The House action, on a voice vote, followed quickly on Appropriations Committee approval. The committee said it was sure the amount was sufficient, since some states may not participate.

States can accept or reject the money, which has to be paid back later. The federal advances are designed to let each state extend by 50 per cent the period in which jobless benefits may be given to workers who have exhausted their claims.

This would mean another 13 weeks of payments in more than half the states which now have 26-week benefit periods.

Machine Gun Kelly's Widow Seeks Release

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The widow of the late George (Machine Gun) Kelly, seeking freedom from a life imprisonment sentence for the 1933 kidnaping of oilman Charles Urschel, testified Monday she had been told to plead guilty.

Mrs. Kathryn Kelly, 54, first witness called as the case opened, nervously told U. S. Dist. Court Judge W. R. Wallace that prior to her trial she attended a session in the court chambers of U. S. Judge Edgar S. Vaught with her attorney James H. Mathers, and that both had urged her to plead guilty.

However, Mrs. Kelly said she refused to make a decision and on arraignment the following day she pleaded innocent.

Kelly died in the Leavenwoth, Kansas, federal prison three years ago while serving time for the kidnaping.

Meade Alcorn Defendant in Suit

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn Monday appeared as one of eight defendants in a 7½-million-dollar federal court civil suit.

Alcorn charged in court that threats of complaints to President Eisenhower were made in an attempt to blackmail him.

The action was brought last week by a stockholder of the Seymour Manufacturing Co. Alcorn also holds stock in the company.

The stockholder, George E. Matthies of San Francisco, Calif., charged that the defendants conspired to evade income taxes and conspired to defraud the Seymour Co.

Runaway Car Carries Two Tots to Death

CAMERON, Ariz. (AP)—A runaway automobile plunged the two small sons of a vacationing Texas family to their deaths in the gorge of the Little Colorado River Monday.

Coroner James Brierly said the parking brake apparently had not been engaged when Mr. and Mrs. Frank Qualls of Brownsville stepped out of the car to look at the scenery.

While the parents watched helplessly a short distance away, the car rolled about 25 feet, dropped off the table-like edge of the cliff and plummeted 500 to 600 feet to the bottom of the gorge.

The victims were James Qualls, 5, and his brother, Harold, 15 months. Their father is a school teacher.

A steeplejack and three other men lifted the bodies to the top of the gorge with ropes.

Council Asks Study of City's Track Problems

A review of Salem railroad track problems was called for Monday night by Salem City Council.

The aldermen referred to the Salem Planning Commission two otherwise-routine new bills for renewing Southern Pacific franchises for spur tracks on Front Street between Ferry and State and on Trade Street between Cottage and Church Streets.

Mayor Robert F. White said city officials are still giving thought to plans for getting railroad tracks off Trade Street. The mayor also said the city is not satisfied with the way SP is keeping up its tracks on city streets.

Among other items in legislation stage but deferred for more study was the bill to make the new arterial street plan a part of the city law on subdivision regulations. This was held up pending final county hearing on the street plan today and Salem Planning Commission hearing June 24.

Paving Job Tabled

Aldermen at their City Hall meeting tabled the controversial Glen Creek Road paving job that would cost property owners about $51,000 and the city, $20,000.

They said the city wouldn't have money for it in the coming year, but they asked city engineering officials to get options on right of way needed along that part of the 3,870-foot project that lies between Patterson Avenue and the West Salem fire station. About five feet more width is needed there.

The Council completed legislative action on a new business zone to permit building of a new Waldo Avenue motel in south Salem.

Bills were introduced on the new city budget and on changing name of Koehler Drive to Idylwood Drive SE. Both will be up for final action June 23 after public hearings that night at City Hall. Another bill readied last night would give Parks Advisory Commission members fixed terms on staggered basis.

Park Chief Commended

The parks board commended Parks Supt. Walter Wirth for the good condition of Salem parks. The compliment was in a letter telling the Council of the recent park inspection trip.

Aldermen voted to allow Robert Corey to make parking changes at his drive-in at Hood and Capitol Streets NE, including a cutback of Hood Street to permit angle parking. Since the Citizens Advisory Traffic Council had advised against the Hood Street change, the Council served notice on Corey the permission would be revoked if traffic or accident rates on Hood Street increased.

Edward C. Kruger, 1415 Fourth St. NE, protested an illegal parking ticket he received and urged that the city make sure curbs are painted yellow wherever a new no-parking zone is established.

Kruger said he had been accustomed to parking in front of a market at Broadway and Market Streets for 20 years, and didn't notice the new signs last week. Mayor White and City Engineer J. H. Davis agreed the curb should be painted yellow.

The elderly citizen's complaint led to a brief but heated exchange between the mayor and Police Chief Clyde Warren when the latter defended his patrolman for making the arrest rather than giving Kruger a warning.

Low Bid Accepted

City Council accepted Walling Sand & Gravel Co.'s low bid of $27,000 for 15,000 cubic yards of crushed rock in four grades. Three other Salem firms entered bids ranging up to $28,050. Bids for asphaltic concrete also were approved, for various designated projects, for Salem Blacktop Co., Central Paving Co. and American Asphalt Paving.

Outside water service for W. A. LaFountaine at 1132 Park Ave. NE was approved. Transfer of license to Henry J. Rund as new proprietor of Dutch Mill tavern was recommended to the state. Paving of Hines Street between 15th and Mission, at property owners' expense, was approved.

Four parking changes recommended by CATC last week were approved by the Council — two-hour parking at Commercial and Bellevue; no-parking on east side of 21st near Mission; no-parking on Willow Street between High Street and Mill Creek; loading zones at 1049 and 1055 Second St. NW.

CAA to Mark Its 92-Plane Fleet With Orange Fluorescent Paint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration is going to mark its 92-plane fleet with bright orange fluorescent paint to lessen the chances of aerial collisions.

The agency said Monday a test on one of its DC3s showed that the paint, which reflects light, makes a plane more visible against any background.

Five airlines have indicated they plan to buy special high-conspicuity paint of one type or another for their planes, or are investigating its use.

But spokesmen for the air transport industry generally said the CAA program appeared to be more an intensifying and expansion of its evaulation program rather than evidence of successful completion.

The Air Transports Assn. plans to await more information as to the effectiveness of the paint in all light conditions, and as to the paint's durability, rather than encourage each airline to conduct its own evaluation.

The CAA planes are to have 15 to 20 per cent of their surfaces coated with "blaze" orange fluorescent paint — a piercing flame color—bordered in black.

The wing tips will be painted, and there will be two wide stripes on the upper and lower wing surfaces.

The tail assemblies also will be painted, and there will be a wide stripe along the under side of the plane.

The sides will have an orange stripe extending the length of the plane. Paint also will be applied to the nose of all the planes except those with airborne radar equipment. Fluorescent paint on the nose of a radar-equipped plane would interfere with radar signals.

LSU Faculty Probe Backed In Race Issue

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The Louisiana House of Representatives voted Monday night to investigate 59 Louisiana State University faculty members who signed a petition opposing bills to close public schools ordered to integrate.

The House action came in the unanimous adoption of a resolution hurriedly drafted by its Education Committee soon after the group approved the eight prosegregation measures.

The resolution directed LSU President Troy Middleton and deans of each LSU college to appear before the House in an open hearing Wednesday afternoon.

"I think a great danger exists at LSU to our boys and girls," said Rep. John Garrett, the top segregation leader in the House. "If these professors are openly advocating integration and other things, I wonder how far reaching this situation goes."

The other two pleaded guilty and are serving 18-month sentences.
