County School Districts Pass Non-High Levy

Fifteen non-high school districts in Marion County have approved 122-21 an estimated combined budget of $142,166 to send some 300 students to high school.

Two districts vetoed the measure, but a majority of the combined vote made the budget legal for all districts. Most of these districts send students to Salem high schools and the levy will repay Salem for the cost of their education.

Sheridan Plans Parade, Rodeo In Celebration

SHERIDAN—Adults take over here Saturday morning at 10 in the main parade celebration of "Phil Sheridan Days."

A 15-event rodeo will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday to help the community and the valley observe the old west traditions.

The grand parade, with more than 20 units and a half dozen bands and drum and bugle corps, will march through downtown at 10 a.m.

Hundreds of youngsters paraded Friday afternoon under torrid skies. Thousands packed along the streets to watch the line of costumed kids and decorated wagons.

Winners were Mitzie Keller, horses; Nancy McKibben, decorated bikes; Sheridan Cub Scouts, marching unit; Todd Bozeman and Gail Spencer, non-historical floats; Shafer family, historical marchers under 14; Jeannine and Jeff Roke, non-historical; Larry Oldham, under 6-year-old non-historical; Jimmy Warren, decorated wagon; Sandra and Cindy Oldham, marchers under 6; and Allen Newby, motorized miniature cars.

Afterwards Mayor Fred Bozeman crowned Sharon Curry queen of the Sheridan Days and she crowned Karen Funk Junior queen.

A Buckaroo Breakfast will be held 6-9 a.m. Saturday morning at the Methodist Church. Following the 10 a.m. parade will be the grand entry at 1:30 p.m. of the Phil Sheridan Rodeo.

Two dances will be held in the evening, a rodeo dance at the VFW hall in Willamina, and a Phil Sheridan dance at the Sheridan high school.

Army Forms Space Flight Plans for Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has put on paper a plan to shoot a man into space in a Redstone missile and then bring him safely back to earth.

A spokesman for the Advanced Research Projects Agency said the Army proposal was one of several space man projects submitted by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

A list of these proposals probably will be made public soon, the spokesman said, including one from a 12-year-old boy which was so practical the research agency is considering underwriting a career in science for the lad.

A Glimpse of what the Army has in mind was obtained Friday from testimony of Dr. Herbert York, ARPA's chief scientist, before a House Appropriations subcommittee. York appeared before the subcommittee April 23 and the testimony was made public recently.

York didn't go into many details but he did say the space flight was planned to last six minutes and the vehicle selected was the Redstone rocket.

This missile, 63 feet long and using a liquid propellant, was the basis of the modified Jupiter-C missile which buried the first U.S. earth satellite into orbit Jan. 31. Presumably the Redstone would have its warhead section redesigned to hold a man. The two other sections of the missile hold the power plant and guidance system.

The ARPA spokesman said, however, "There is no status to the Army proposal at this time."

Disabled Vet Hospitalized After Attack

PORTLAND (AP)—A 60-year-old disabled veteran was in the Veteran's Hospital here Friday for treatment of severe head cuts he said he received when attacked and robbed on the Columbia River Express Highway Thursday night.

Maurice Lewis Dutton told sheriff's deputies that he was beaten by a tire iron, his wallet taken and he was thrown over a high-way railing by one of two men who stopped to offer him a ride after his pickup truck ran out of gas.

Dutton was given first aid by a truck driver Keith Huke, 33, of Portland, who found him east of Bridal Veil just after the assault.

U.S. Market for Fruit Restored In Great Britain

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Agriculture has announced restoration of a commercial market for U. S. fruit in Great Britain.

Since World War II nearly all fruit exports to the United Kingdom have been under currency conversion or aid programs. The Board of Trade in London now has allocated about 20 million dollars for imports of fresh canned or dried fruits from the Western hemisphere.

The Oregon congressional delegation has been urging for some time that the Great Britain fruit markets be expanded to take Oregon fruit products.

Girls State Will Get Down to Lawmaking Today

Associate Justice Harold Warner of the State Supreme Court. Joy Rubenstein, Eugene, was inaugurated as Girls State governor Thursday.

The boys returned to Corvallis Friday afternoon.

In simulated sessions of the Senate and House of Representatives today at Willamette University the girls will decide on bills for a sales tax, improving mental institutions, barring sale of liquor on Sunday, and requiring teaching of foreign languages in grade schools.

The Senate has passed two bills which have been sent to the House for action. One would prohibit the closed shop. The other would delete the words "18 years or older" from the law requiring a licensed driver 18 or over to accompany a driver with a learner's permit. The Senate voted down a bill to permit the use of basic school funds for science laboratory equipment.

A bill is being considered by the Senate to add 10 years to the present minimum sentence of a person convicted of selling narcotics to a minor.

One of the concluding acts today before the candlelight ceremony in the Capitol Building rotunda at 9 p.m. will be selection of two delegates and alternates to attend Girls Nation at Washington, D.C.

Twelve girls chosen for competition at 7:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium are: Teresa Adams, Prineville; Joann Aldahl, Hood River; Ann Alquist, Grants Pass; Susan Bowers, Coos Bay; Edith Brown, Salem; Marcia Callis, Springfield; Barbara Franci, Portland; Sherrie Fraser, Moro; Kathy Leslie, Eugene; Janice Martin, Heppner; Judy Sikes, Eugene; Charlene Snider, Portland.

Each candidate will give a three-minute talk on justice. They will be judged on poise, voice, appearance and speech content.

Hard-Working Women Make Annual Sessions Of Girls State Success

Girls State, ending another busy week today at Willamette University, owes its annual success to the hard work of several dozen women as well as the enthusiasm of some 250 girls participating.

Twenty-six women from throughout Oregon, many of them veterans of several of the mythical governments, played key roles in organizing and supervising activities this week.

At the center of the swirl is Mrs. Vernon Reynolds of Prairie City, director of the Girls State Commission of Oregon American Legion Auxiliary, sponsors of the program. Mrs. Claude Roland, Portland, is director of the government program, which is the heart of the seven-day session.

Instructor for Girls
Mrs. Paul Patterson, Hillsboro, widow of the late governor, is instructor for the girls elected to the Girls State Senate. Mrs. Robert Kreson, Dallas, does the same for the House of Representatives.

Hope Feted at Watermelon Man's Party

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sam Zvibleman (The Watermelon Man) had a party for an old customer—Bob Hope.

Sam's outdoor watermelon lot looked like the setting for a Hollywood premiere.

When the comedian bought his first watermelon from Sam 17 years ago he just walked out to Sam's horse-drawn cart and picked out a likely one.

Thursday night it was no private affair. Police had to keep the crowd back. Spotlights illuminated the watermelon lot and Hope rode up to it in a police car with the siren screaming.

With Hope came a busload of performers from Municipal Opera where the funny man is appearing in his first musical in 20 years. It is "Roberta," the one that gave Hope his start on Broadway 25 years ago.

Sam and Hope posed for a picture, both biting into the same watermelon slice.

Hope looked at Sam and then quipped: "Sam, shall we eat it or play it?"

The posing over, Hope got down to the business at hand. He appeared to enjoy it.

"Watermelon is very healthful," he announced with a true showman's flair between bites. "Not only that, it is very filling. I discovered that in my old vaudeville days when my pay was considerably lower."

U.S. Seeks Moscow Help For Captives

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States asked Moscow Friday night to take immediate action toward having nine American military men freed by East Germany.

The Communist East German regime has been holding the nine since their helicopter went down there June 7.

The State Department Friday night asked the Soviet government to have Russian military authorities in East Germany act at once to have them released. Moscow has maintained it has no control over actions of the East German government.

Previous U. S. efforts to obtain the release of the nine and the return of the helicopter by working through the Soviet military command in Germany and by appealing directly to the East German Communist government have been unsuccessful.

Roosters to Crow Today For Honors

ROGUE RIVER (AP)—Some 300 roosters are expected to compete Saturday in the sixth annual national rooster crowing contest in this Southern Oregon town.

A crowd of 5,000 spectators is expected for the unusual contest. The champion rooster will be the one that crows the greatest number of times in a 30-minute period.

The record, established in 1953, was 109 crows.

Ex-Home of Paper Sold

PORTLAND (AP)—The 12-story Jackson Tower Building here, home of the Oregon Journal for almost 40 years, was sold Friday.

The offer of Thaddeus B. Bruno, realtor and investment broker, was accepted by the Journal Building Company, owner of the building, which has been used for business offices since 1948. No price was disclosed.
