Dear Ann Landers
She's Drowning in Sea of Easy Debts
By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann: I'm in a mess and too ashamed to go to anyone I know. Please tell me what to do. I'm going crazy. I'm drowning in a sea of debts and there's no land in sight. I've been married almost five years and my husband makes a good salary. He's always given me his check and kept a small allowance for lunches and gasoline. I've obligated myself all over town. I bought a color TV set, new refrigerator, new rugs, an automatic washer, and many things which seemed easy to handle on time payments.

Now I'm afraid to answer the door or the phone for fear it's a bill collector. If my husband knew of the shape we were in financially I'm afraid he'd break my neck.
Don't give me a bawling out. I know I deserve it, Ann, but what I need is a way out of this mess.—IN DEEP
The first thing to do is pull yourself together and make a list of your debts. Decide how much you can pay on each bill every week. Go to your creditors and tell them you're in a bind. Explain your intent to pay your bills in full, and ask them to be patient. Then, take an oath on a stack of dining letters that you're not going to buy one nickel's worth until you're completely out of hock.

Your real problem is self discipline. Once you've put your foot down (on your pocket book) you'll be surprised at how many things you can live without.
Dear Ann: Is there any way I can convince the girls I meet that a man doesn't have to be tall to be a good husband? I'm 5 feet 6, the same height as Carmen Basilio.
Ever since my college days I've been jilted for a taller man. I'm 42 years old and still a bachelor. The average girl is shorter than I am. Why does a five foot girl insist on a six foot man? Shouldn't a girl be content with sobriety, honor, kindness, loyalty and intelligence regardless of physical height? If a man is cheap, a liar and a drunk does it make him less attractive if there's six feet of him lying in jail or staggering in the gutter?

I've contacted matrimonial agencies, Get-Acquainted Groups and Lonely Hearts Clubs but I find that 3 out of 4 women specify a man must be tall. What's the answer?—G.L.B.
I haven't got an answer, but I do have a question. Why does a man with honor, sobriety, kindness, loyalty and intelligence look for a wife in a matrimonial agency or a Lonely Heart Club?
What in the world kind of a woman do you expect to find in such places? I can tell you. Or better still, you tell me—you've had the experience. Short men get married every day—must be another reason you're single.
(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)

Couple Wed At Dallas Nuptials

Miss Marian JoAnn Ratzlaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Ratzlaff, became the bride of Calvin Paul Ewert of Reedley, Calif. Friday evening at the Dallas Mennonite Brethren Church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Ewert of Reedley, Calif. Dr. David J. Wienen officiated at the 8 o'clock rites assisted by Dr. John Houser, Mrs. Harlan Ratzlaff who was the organist and J. C. Kiewer sang. The bride wore a white gown of tulle and nylon tulle over satin lined with iridescent sequins and pearls. The bouffant skirt was tiered with alternate panels of lace and tulle terminating in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held by a lace half hat embellished with sequins and pearls. She carried white roses.

Attendants wore pink. Mrs. Robert Klassen of Oakland, Calif., was the honor attendant and Mrs. J. C. Kiewer of Reedley, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid. They wore ballaring gowns of frosted pink nylon sheer over tulle styled with matching tulle pleated cummerbunds with flowing panels. The headpieces were of white nylon sheer trimmed with seed pearls. They carried cascade bouquets of deep pink carnations and lily-of-the-valley. Alden Ewert came from Hillsboro, Kansas to be his bride's best man. Ushers included Harlan Ratzlaff, brother of the bride, Clarence Liechty, Wilbur Ewert and Dean Kiewer. LaVern Ratzlaff, brother of the bride, was the groomsmen.

The bride's mother chose a light blue sheath dress with matching bolero and hat and black accessories. She carried a cascade of pink roses and white feathered carnation corsage to her son's wedding. Reception in Church Parlor. Miss June Schultz and Mrs. George Richard poured at the reception which followed in the church parlor. Mrs. Alden Ewert and Mrs. LaVern Ratzlaff cut the cake. Assisting were the Misses Lorraine Quiring, Donna Kiewer, Eleanor Nazareus, Beverly Fleming and Margretha Goertz. For going away the new Mrs. Ewert donned a navy blue and white pinnacled dress, white hat and navy accessories. The newlyweds will live in Reedley, where the bride will teach and the groom will continue his studies in electrical engineering at Fresno State College.

Modern Etiquette
By ROBERTA LEE
Q. When a young man has asked a girl for a date a month or so in advance, should she hear from him again before the specified day?
A. This would be the courteous and thoughtful thing for him to do—in order to avoid any possibility of misunderstanding.
Q. Should a maid be addressed as "Jane" or as "Miss Smith"?
A. She should be addressed as "Jane."

Club Entertained
Mrs. Wallace Brennan told of the activities of the YWCA at the meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club Tuesday held at the Salem Women's Club. A dessert luncheon was served with bridge and pinocchio following. Guests were Mrs. Clarence Hyde and Mrs. George Esau.
