

Don't Look Now...

but . . . 700 boys in the Boys State parade Friday, and not an Elvis Presley haircut in the crowd, which all goes to prove that all is not lost.

Kiss of Death . . . Surveyors are busy looking over Court Street this week. A widening of this main street would be a good project. Of course it is already as wide as any street needs to be (the pioneers saw to that) and it isn't practical for a state highway, but there are trees along it, and everybody knows a modern city shouldn't have a lot of old historic trees cluttering up the landscape.

Sputter, sputter . . . Often trees have to go for progress, I know, and that's bad enough, but when they cut those trees on Summer and Center to make a shadeless parking lot, I'm going to find out who's responsible and not vote for him.

Big bite . . . Pat and Shirley Ryan of Salem, who baked and decorated the "world's largest Lady Baltimore cake" for the Wallace (Idaho) Silver Company's jubilee recently slaved over a hot stove for sure to produce it. The 7-foot high cake took 665 pounds of batter and after Shirley decorated it with 200 pounds of French cream icing and also fudge Royal and satin icing, it weighed over half a ton. It took 110 pounds egg whites (350 dozen or so), 190 pounds sugar, 200 of flour, 55 of shortening, 110 pounds fluid milk and a quart of vanilla.

Girls, too . . . Those hundreds of delegates to Girls State have happily been encouraged by their advisors to dress nicely. Seeing them in summer dresses and many with hats is encouraging after that time a few years ago when shorts, on the list of clothing to bring, were worn around the streets. Congratulations on progress . . .
