

Goldfine 'Paid Hotel Bill' for Justice Who Presided Over Suit Against Industrialist

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators uncovered information Tuesday that Bernard Goldfine paid a hotel bill one time for a federal judge who once presided over a suit against one of Goldfine's companies.

The jurist, U.S. Dist. Judge William T. McCarthy of Boston, disavowed himself after Goldfine personally was made a party to the action involving his firm, the East Boston Co.

Several members of the House Commerce subcommittee sharply criticized the Securities and Exchange Commission, which brought the case, for what they termed failure to crack down quickly.

But SEC Chairman Edward N. Gandy said inquiries from the White House and from senators had nothing to do with a six-year delay in prosecuting the case against Goldfine, a friend of Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aide.

Adams has acknowledged making inquiries to federal agencies on Goldfine's behalf at a time when he was accepting gifts and hotel hospitality from the wealthy Bostonian.

The story of the hotel bill came out indirectly.

Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), who presided at the hearing, said the committee will ask Goldfine whether he paid hotel bills for Judge McCarthy. Another committee member, Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.), said he understands Goldfine entertained the judge in New York and Boston.

A Goldfine lawyer, Samuel P. Sears, said Goldfine paid only one hotel bill for McCarthy, in New York. Sears said that was before Goldfine even knew that his East Boston Co. would be involved in a court case.

After contacting Goldfine by telephone, Sears told reporters that McCarthy did his best to repay the hotel bill charge of about $80 that Goldfine picked up but Goldfine wouldn't take the money.

At his home in Cambridge, Mass., Judge McCarthy said in response to an inquiry: "I have no comment to make except to say it wouldn't be fair to the committee or to anyone if I should comment without knowing what I am commenting about."

'Absolute Failure'

Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) said the SEC had been guilty of "absolute failure . . . to exercise its responsibility" in not pushing a case against Goldfine's East Boston Co. The SEC had accused the firm of not filing required annual reports.

Bennett wanted to know if SEC hadn't dropped a move for a criminal action when it settled the case with an agreement for East Boston to pay a $3,000 fine and to comply with the report filing requirement.

"I don't think that is the meticulous way of stating it," said Irving M. Pollack, assistant general counsel of the SEC. He said what was achieved was a settlement, without criminal action, after the federal judge in the case frowned on party penalties.

Then, Bennett persisted, all SEC got was $3,000 "for a willful failure to file a report over an eight-year period."

"We didn't have a very appealing jury case," Pollack replied. "The case didn't move very fast in the commission and it didn't move very fast after it got into court."

Personnel Shortage

Gandy said one factor was a shortage of personnel. Moss asked if there is less inclination now, with less personnel than in 1950, to prosecute.

"The 63-foot rocket, the most advanced ballistic weapon in the U.S. arsenal, streaked high into the clear Florida sky, blasting out a thick stream of yellow flame. The test apparently was part of the closing phase of a highly successful series designed to prepare the missile for deployment in the field within the next few months. The huge white missile roared straight up for 35 seconds before it curved toward a more horizontal course and sped toward the southeast."

It disappeared like a fading star when engine burnout occurred after about 2 1/2 minutes and the missile began its ballistic or free flight toward target.

As usual, the range for this shot was not disclosed, but Redstone has traveled as far as 500 miles.

The animals had been killed at the farms of Frank Wiens at Ferns Corner near Falls City, and Andrew Campbell at Perry Dale, north of Dallas.

Both men had served terms at the State Penitentiary and Heffley had been released about one month ago.

Job Given To Cardinal

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Another important Vatican assignment was given Tuesday to Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, patriarch of the Armenian Roman Catholics.

Pope Pius XII made the 62-year-old prelate a member of the Vatican's consistorial congregation.

Reuther Acts To End Missile Plant Strike

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Walter P. Reuther moved Tuesday to put quick end to an unauthorized strike of United Auto Workers at the Chrysler missile plant.

The UAW president and other top executives of the union summoned officers of the local involved in the strike to appear at 1 p.m. Wednesday before the 25-member UAW executive board.

The union said officers of Local 1245 will be asked to show cause why an administrator should not be placed over the local.

The strike was started Monday by members of the local, which represents 450 of the plant's 3,500 employees.

The unionists violated no-strike orders of the UAW leadership in walking off the job and picketing the plant. The picketing of the government-owned plant 16 miles north of Detroit crippled production of the Army's Redstone and Jupiter missiles.

Youth Atop Truck Killed At Overpass

PORTLAND (AP)—A 17-year-old Norwegian seaman was killed here late Monday night as he hitched a ride atop a big express truck. His 25-year-old companion was reported in fairly good condition following the accident.

The coroner's office said Bjorn Olsen, Kongshamn, Tromsø, Norway, a crew member on the freighter Lancelon, was struck and killed when the truck on which he was riding went under a pedestrian overpass.

Egil Hogstli, a fellow crewmember, was not struck but he fell off the moving truck and suffered a head injury.

The coroner's office said it was not known why the men were on the truck. A fellow seaman said he saw them climb on when the truck stopped for a red light. Olsen was struck when the truck went under the failing School overpass, a few blocks south of the light.

William Byers, Grants Pass, the driver of the truck, apparently did not know the men were aboard, police said.

Turkey Served Up Nine Different Ways at Rites

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman

PORTLAND—More than 250 growers, processors, food dealers, newspaper, television and radio folk enjoyed turkey served in nine different ways Tuesday night at Malory Hotel for the Mid-Summer Turkey Kick-Off.

Following the buffet dinner, Noel Bennion, Corvallis, secretary of the Oregon Turkey Growers Association, told the group that in the past 10 years per capita production and consumption of turkey in the United States has doubled, while the retail price has been reduced 50 per cent. The price reduction, according to Bennion, has been brought about by reduction in cost of production, processing and marketing.

"It's surprising how these benefits have all been passed on to the consumer," Bennion continued. "For example, 10 years ago the average industrial worker had to work 29 minutes to buy a pound of turkey, while this past year the same worker had to put in only 12 minutes to buy that pound."

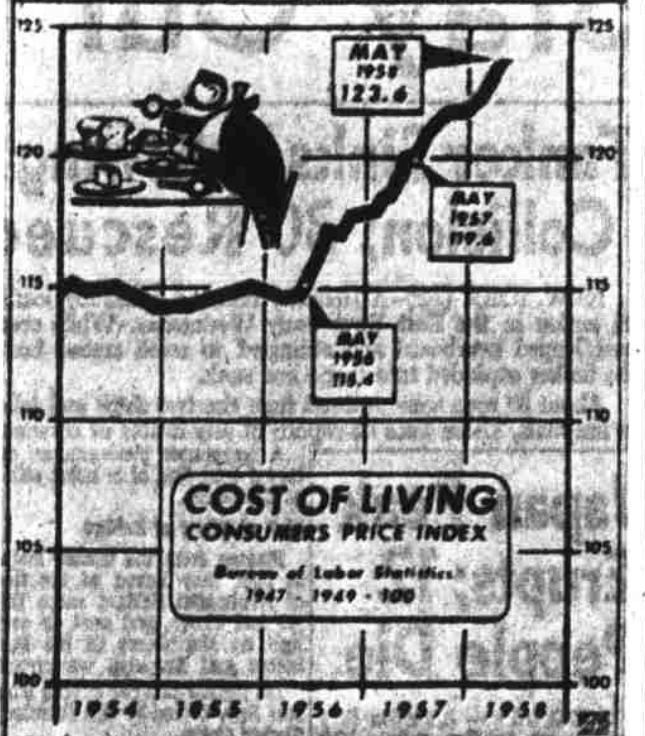

Bennion said this same trend will continue. As a result, he added, turkey consumption will double again within the next 10 years. He said that in the past, the turkey industry used to think of beef and pork as its main competition, but the future economic battle will be between chicken and turkey. The production and retailing cost of chicken and turkey are similar and lower than other meats, throwing the two into the same kind of competition.

William Geurts, manager of the Oregon Turkey Growers plant at Salem, also spoke briefly, telling of the new methods of processing which "prevented turkey from becoming tough."

Other speakers covered new methods of preparing turkey, many of which had been demonstrated in the turkey dishes served, and which will be described later by Maxine Buren, Statesman food editor, who also attended the kick-off dinner.

Harold Davis of the McMinnville Turkey Show, was toastmaster. Special guests were members of the California Turkey Association, and Gene Beals, secretary of the National Turkey Growers Association.

Army Missile Streaks Into Florida Sky

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army launched another Redstone medium range ballistic missile toward space Tuesday night.

The 63-foot rocket, the most advanced ballistic weapon in the U.S. arsenal, streaked high into the clear Florida sky, blasting out a thick stream of yellow flame. The test apparently was part of the closing phase of a highly successful series designed to prepare the missile for deployment in the field within the next few months. The huge white missile roared straight up for 35 seconds before it curved toward a more horizontal course and sped toward the southeast.

It disappeared like a fading star when engine burnout occurred after about 2 1/2 minutes and the missile began its ballistic or free flight toward target.

As usual, the range for this shot was not disclosed, but Redstone has traveled as far as 500 miles.

Two Vehicles Flip in Rain

The first rain after a continued dry spell apparently was a factor when two cars rolled over Tuesday in separate accidents. One accident was on Salem Bypass and the other at Silverton Road and McCain Avenue, state police reported. Neither driver received a scratch, officers said.

A car driven by C. A. Patty, El Cerito, Calif., rolled about 7:40 a.m. near the Silverton Road crossing on the bypass, officer Henry Hepler said. Patty was apparently passing a car when he lost control on slick asphalt, Hepler added.

The second spill occurred about an hour later. The car, driven by Edward J. Zach, Mt. Angel, hit a slick spot while rounding a curve near McCain Avenue and overturned in the ditch, officer Norman Johnson explained.

Appreciation Pay Sent State Troopers

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—State Police received a letter, postmarked Kittery, Me., which began: "I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the state trooper who so courageously assisted me on Highway 80 out of Huntington on Feb. 20."

The letter, containing no other details of the incident, was signed, "Uncle Joe Santa—J.W.B." Enclosed was a $5 bill for the "Santa Claus Fund." Because the State Police Department has no such fund, the money was deposited in the State Police Disability and Retirement Fund.

John Day Rancher Bound Over to Grand Jury on Murder Charge

CANYON CITY, Ore. (AP) — Robert E. Sproul, 43, a prominent John Day rancher, was bound over to the Grant County grand jury on a charge of first degree murder after a preliminary hearing here Tuesday.

Sproul is charged with slaying Harlin H. (Link) Williams, 47, his brother-in-law. The two had been quarreling for some time over right-of-way on a road on Williams' property.

Saturday, armed with pistols and rifles, they met at the line fence joining the ranches. Williams was fatally wounded by pistol shots in the chest. Sproul was not hit.

"Two witnesses were called in the short hearing before Justice of the Peace I. B. Hazeltine here Tuesday. Dolly Williams, Brogan, brother of the dead man and brother-in-law of Sproul, was present at the shooting. He appeared with State Police Sgt. Gail Haynes.

The grand jury is scheduled to meet Wednesday.

Nippon Ship Arrives for Portland Visit

PORTLAND (AP)—The sailing ship Kaiwo Maru, a training vessel for Japanese Merchant Marine cadets, arrived here Tuesday after a 37-day cruise from Japan.

Eighty cadets and officers stood at attention on the deck of the ship as a group of Portland officials went aboard to welcome the Kaiwo Maru here.

Portland will be the ship's only port of call in North America. It will leave here next Tuesday for Hawaii. The ship carries 20 officers, 87 cadets and 46 regular crewmen.

West Outdoor Writers Form Organization

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—The Outdoor Writers of the West drafted its own constitution Tuesday and became an independent organization. It had been a division of the National Outdoor Writers.

Tom McAllister of the Oregon Journal in Portland was elected president of the new group. Other officers include Ed Neal, San Francisco (Calif.) News, first vice president; Casey Bown, Utah Fish and Game Department, Salt Lake City, second vice president; and Howard Gray, Seattle, Wash., secretary-treasurer. Gray is an outdoor photographer.

New Medical Association Chief Sees Return to Compassion for Physician

By KATHERINE PINKHAM
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A big, easy-mannered Wisconsin surgeon who talks about putting compassion and warmth back into the age-old art of medicine is the new president of the American Medical Assn.

He is Dr. Gunnar Gundersen who operates a family clinic at La Crosse, Wis. He was born there 61 years ago, the son of a Norwegian doctor. He "never had any other idea" than to become a physician himself. His five brothers are doctors. So are two sons.

With his 6-foot, 190-pound frame relaxed in a stiff hotel seat in the midst of AMA convention turmoil, Dr. Gundersen expounded a philosophy of optimistic belief in his profession, his fellow men and evolutionary human progress, undimmed by awareness of the violent, changing world about him.

Gundersen spoke with approval of a trend toward human and spiritual factors in treating patients.

"The intangible element made up of compassion and warmth is regaining its proper place," he said. "We are rediscovering that philosophy is just as important as technology and that the human personality can't be subordinated to crisp efficiency."

A small city man all his life, he added with a twinkle in his Scandinavian blue eyes behind the rimless glasses, "to chew a little." He started doing that during the war, he said, when he was both stopped smoking. He found it was comforting at times to chew behind a surgeon's mask in the operating room.

He said on a visit to the Soviet Union last year he found Soviet doctors "open and free" in discussions.

His foreign contacts began in high school. He went to preparatory school in Oslo, Norway, for three years. He returned to graduate from the University of Wisconsin in 1917, after another three years. He got his M.D. at Columbia in 1920 and served his internship at the La Crosse Lutheran Hospital, next door to the Gundersen Clinic.

Despite the fact of his crowded life, Gundersen seems to move, talk and think without trace of tension or strain. He finds his recreation outdoors — gardening, reforesting a 120-acre of hill land at La Crosse for posterity. He skis some, too, "right out of the kitchen door."

He likes to smoke cigars. And

British Columbia Runs Ferries in Strike Threat

VICTORIA, B. C. (CP)—Ottawa should follow the British Columbia government's action in averting a Black Ball ferry strike and settle the Canadian Pacific Steamship tie-up, Premier Bennett said Tuesday.

His opinion was echoed by Art Pelt Bryan, secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Both were commenting on a statement made by A. DeB McPhillips, Progressive Conservative federal member for Victoria.

The provincial government took over operation of the ferries at one minute after midnight Monday, the time the company had set to make the last run between Nanaimo and the B. C. Mainland.

Two unions, representing deck officers and engineers, were scheduled to go on strike Tuesday noon, cutting Vancouver Island off by water from the mainland of B. C.

Premier Bennett announced Monday afternoon the government was using the wide powers of the B. C. Civil Defense Act to keep the ships running.

McPhillips said after the move was announced that similar action by the federal government in connection with the CPR tie-up was not necessary.

Way Cleared by Russians for A-Ban Conclave

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Tuesday eased the way for a Geneva meeting July 1 of East-West technical experts on ways of policing a ban on nuclear weapons tests. The Soviets named the Czechoslovak and Polish members of their delegation.

The action was made known in a note Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson.

The Soviets added that they expected to appoint a Romanian member to the panel—apparently to offset the U. S. decision to include a Canadian on its seven-member team. The other nations are the United States, France and England.

Official sources said the general tone of the note indicated there would be no Soviet opposition to the proposed meeting opening on schedule.

Lawyer Wins S. Carolina Governor Bid

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Ernest F. (Fritz) Hollings, 36, tall and handsome Charleston lawyer, won a smashing victory Tuesday in the Democratic primary for governor of South Carolina.

Returns from 1,581 of the state's 1,596 precincts gave the 36-year-old Hollings 187,570 votes to 142,421 for Donald S. Russell, 52, former president of the University of South Carolina.

Financier's Stock Transaction Tied By Court Decree

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court issued an order Tuesday temporarily restraining financier Louis E. Wolfson from alleged manipulation of American Motors Corp. common stock.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frederick Van Pelt Bryan also ordered Wolfson, one of the principal stockholders, to show cause Thursday why a preliminary injunction should not be issued.

The restraining order was obtained by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Paul Windels Jr., SEC regional administrator, said the SEC charged Wolfson with making public announcements that he was continuing with American Motors when actually he was liquidating his holdings in the company's stock.

Wolfson, in a statement from his Jacksonville, Fla., office, said that "Any charge or accusation of manipulation or fraud by reason of anything I have done is ridiculous and will be proved to be unjustified in due course."

Wolfson declared, "I have just returned from a hospital, am now convalescing and for more than a week have had no personal participation or knowledge of stock transactions affecting my interests."

He said he had not owned any AMC stock for several weeks.

The SEC charged that Wolfson and others were engaged in transactions, practices and course of business which operate as a fraud and deceit upon purchasers and sellers of American Motors Corp. common stock listed upon the New York Stock Exchange.

Windels said the temporary restraining order, in effect, forbids Wolfson to sell any more stock until more facts are known to the public.

Lawyer Doubts Murphy Link To Galindez

NEW YORK (AP)—Atty. Morris Ernst Tuesday belittled purported evidence linking a missing American flyer to the mysterious disappearance of Jesus de Galindez. He called it old stuff that was never borne out.

Galindez, an outspoken opponent of the Trujillo regime in the Dominican Republic, disappeared in New York March 12, 1956. Opponents of Trujillo have attempted to establish that Galindez was spirited to the republic by an American free lance flier, Gerald L. Murphy, and then assassinated by agents of dictator Rafael L. Trujillo.

Murphy, himself, disappeared in the Dominican Republic in December, 1956.

Hired by Trujillo

Ernst was hired by Trujillo to investigate the Galindez mystery. He reported that he found no evidence of a Trujillo plot against Galindez or even, for that matter, any proof that Galindez was dead.

Monday Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.) displayed some cryptic notes on yellow paper, a notebook and a pilot's logbook to Washington newsmen. He said they were found in Murphy's Dominican apartment and claimed they backed "up to the hilt," a connection between Galindez and Murphy. Porter invited Ernst to examine the documents.

West Vanport Purchase Up For Study

PORTLAND (AP)—The City Council Tuesday said it will meet with the General Services Administration to discuss the purchase of the West Vanport site.

The GSA earlier said it had appraised the 653-acre tract at $351,000.

Mayor Terry Schunk said the initial meeting between the council and the GSA will be held here Monday.

The tract is the one-time site of a government housing project in World War II.

The city has said that if it bought the land, it would use half of it for recreational purposes, the rest for industrial sites.

Victims of Fireworks Interred

SALVADOR, Brazil (AP) — The north Brazilian village of Santo Amaro buried its dead in mass graves Tuesday in the wake of a disastrous fireworks blowup that killed 100 holidayers and injured 300 others.

Some victims of the blasts that wrecked a festive market place and sent firecrackers and rockets shooting in all directions, were charred beyond recognition. They were buried under nameless crosses.

The State of Bahia, scene of the Santo Amaro tragedy and a fireworks factory explosion at Feira de Santana that claimed seven lives and injured 40, launched an investigation.

The Santo Amaro disaster occurred when a short circuit touched off rockets and firecrackers, in an outdoors booth at the fair grounds. Fire quickly engulfed the neighboring stands.

Most victims were women and children scrambling for safety. Many were electrocuted as a high tension wire fell in their path.

As a result of the explosions, a temporary ban was placed on sale of fireworks in the area. Efforts to ban fireworks in Brazil have been defeated by merchants who do a thriving business in them. Fireworks traditionally are used on the June festival days of Saints John, Anthony and Peter.

Ethiopian Airlines, which fly passengers between Central Europe and East Africa, have a stateroom in three planes which can be transformed quickly into a stateroom and executive suite for use of Emperor Haile Selassie.
