Easter Foods In Far Lands Rich, Elegant

By MAXINE BUREN
Statesman Women's Editor

While Americans limit themselves to ham, lamb roast or an occasional turkey at Eastertime, Europeans have special food, prepared with loving care, for this festive day. Special breads and cakes, often quite elaborate, are served.

Our custom of lamb for Easter probably comes from the roast lamb or kid which was served in Bulgaria, Italy, Roumania and Russia of the past generations.

England's special treat is saffron cake. Hungarians favor roast goose. A special Polish Easter cake full of almonds, was a feature of the special menu. This almond cake was called Mazierki Migdalowe:

Almond Cake

1/2 pound sweet almonds (ground)	1 teaspoon vanilla
4 bitter almonds (ground)	4 egg whites
14 egg yolks	Dash salt
1 pound sugar	3 tablespoons sweet butter
	1/2 pound flour

Mix ground almonds with butter. Beat yolks with sugar until very fine. Add to almond and butter. Add vanilla and salt. Add flour gradually. Last add beaten whites of eggs. Pour into buttered pan, put in moderate oven for thirty minutes. Test with sprig of broom. If clear it is done.

A traditional bread of the Armenians at Easter is:

Choerek

Mahleb (a flavoring favored by Armenians. It can be bought in Armenian or Greek groceries)

2 yeast cake
1 pound flour
1/2 pound butter
1/2 pound sugar
5 or 6 eggs (more if desired) Milk or water as needed

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add 1/4 of the flour, and mix. Let stand in a warm place for 1 1/2 hours or until it begins to rise. Break eggs into mixture. Add remaining flour, sugar and milk or water until dough is of light and velvety consistency. ("Must feel like lobe of ear," the Armenian cook says.) Knead, dipping hands in melted butter until all butter is kneaded into dough. Cover dough and let it rise. Put in cake or pie tin and let it rise again. Brush top with eggs, and ornament with halved almonds or sesame seeds.

Easter Week holds much significance for the Hungarian people before the present political upheaval. The first vegetables of the season were eaten on Green Thursday (following Palm Sunday). Preparations for the Easter feast were completed on Good Friday, cakes baked and eggs painted. The fire was allowed to go out, not to be re-lighted until the chimes of the bells on Holy Saturday, signifying breaking of the fast.

A bountiful Easter eve supper was served, and the next day, the Easter feast. The Easter menu would probably include chicken soup with liver dumplings or noodles, baked ham, pork or roast lamb. Stuffed cabbage with green salads, cake and black coffee would be served.

One of the more elaborate dishes is the Pashka of cheese, favored by members of the Russian Orthodox church. Here is a simple, though certainly not inexpensive, version of the dessert:

Pashka

5 pounds cottage cheese	1 pint sour cream
10 eggs, lightly beaten	2 pounds sugar
1 pint melted butter	2 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Sieve cottage cheese, mix all ingredients and heat slowly until bubbles form on edge of kettle. Chill in the same kettle, then pour into a collander lined with cheesecloth and let drip until dry enough to mold easily. Shape into a pyramid. The three sides are traditionally decorated with an angel, a cross and a lily.

Talbot Woman's Club Honored

JEFFERSON—Eleven members of the Talbot Woman's club were guests of the Jefferson Woman's club Wednesday at a 1 o'clock covered lunch luncheon in the city hall.

Mrs. Walter Kropp was elected president of the Jefferson club for the following year. Other officers selected include Mrs. Irving Miller, vice president; Mrs. Marvin Hutchings, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. Alfred Powell, assistant secretary-treasurer; and Marguerite Looney, historian.

Mrs. Miller told final plans for the library benefit style show sponsored by the club. It will be held in the high school gym Wednesday evening April 17. Members also voted to change the club meeting date to the fourth Wednesday of the month for the coming club year.

Mrs. Gohring to Head Mothers

Mrs. Wilbert Gohring was elected president of the Bush School Mothers Club at Tuesday's meeting. Other officers are Mrs. Wanda Nunn, vice-president; Mrs. Harold R. B. Hutchinson, secretary; Mrs. Noel Worley, treasurer. Mrs. Sidney Schlesinger has served as president the past year.

Mrs. Arthur Myers and Mrs. Don Allen presented the program. The club voted to turn over the proceeds of their cake walk to the YWCA swimming pool fund.

Mrs. Everett Fisher of Albany reviewed the book, "Melodies and Memories," by Nellie Melba and Mrs. Leonard McCaw sang, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert Looney.

Guests from the Talbot club included the Meadames Leo Weddle, Henry Turnidge, Gilbert Belknap, Jake Gilmour, George Mariani, John Zehner, Nelson Gilmour, A. E. Cole, Gayle Gilmour, Ernest Freeman and Lena Bursell.

Mrs. George Mason and daughter, Virginia Mason, will entertain at their home on Main street Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Ned Stephenson has invited a group of women to her home at the south city limits and Mrs. Ernest Powell and Mrs. Virgil Bailes will entertain neighborhood women at the former's home on Perry street.

During the past week, three coffees were held. Friday afternoon, Mrs. Irving Miller entertained two groups of women at her home on School street. Another group enjoyed coffee Saturday morning at the Les Shields home. Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Gilbert Looney invited guests to her home.

The coffees are being held this month, instead of the usual door-to-door solicitation.

FHA Board In Session Today

New and retiring officers of Future Homemakers of America will meet in the state library building today with members of the advisory staff, to exchange ideas on the organization's work for the coming year. This association, made up of some half million junior and high school homemaking students in the national organization, includes 4,400 girls from 114 chapters in Oregon.

Colleen Simper of Newport is retiring president. Joanne Kermbie of Ontario is the new. Among the new officers are girls from this area: Nancy Kleeman, Dallas, vice president; Ethel Ralph, Stayton, treasurer; Juanita Hawley, Brooks, editor.

Members of the advisory board for the Future Homemakers of America include one homemaker, a representative from school administration, an advisor for president (women from the officers' home towns) a member of the Oregon State Home Economics Association, a representative from Oregon State College and Miss Mildred Deischer, of the state department of education and the state advisor to FHA, Miss Bertha Kohlhaugen, of the home economics education department of the state, is chairman of the advisory board.

Today's meeting will include briefing of new officers by old.

workshops, discussion of the organization's projects for the coming year, and a luncheon meeting this noon.

Having resided in Colorado, Idaho and Utah they came to Portland, Ore., and to Sheridan in 1939, where they operated a second hand store and later an appliance and furniture store. Mr. Cooley has served as president of the Sheridan Chamber of Commerce, was one of the instigators of the Yamhill County Chamber of Commerce, and has taken an active part in the water conservation program in this part of Oregon. Both are members of the Sheridan Chapter 88, OES.

They have two sons, Hugh and Dale, associated with their father in the store, and two granddaughters, Carol and Sherry.

Floyd Cooleys to Celebrate Golden Anniversary

SHERIDAN—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd P. Cooley of Sheridan, who observed their golden wedding anniversary on April 9, will be honored with an open house and reception Sunday, April 14 at their home in Sheridan, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Cooley was born Leola Palmer at Belgrade, Neb., where the couple were married and had their first home. Mr. Cooley was born at Colburn, Kan., in Pratt County, and was the first child to be born in Pratt County, as derived his middle name of Pratt from the county.
