

Lecturer Tells Knife and Fork Audience of Vets' Attitudes

Men who saw their comrades die for the United States are coming home believing in the system of free enterprise as opposed to any dictatorship, whether that dictatorship be political or economic, Capt. Darrel Brady, internationally known lecturer on youth attitudes told the Salem Knife and Fork club's biggest audience Thursday night.

Defective Part Draws Blame In Bus Tragedy

CHELAN, Wash., Jan. 10-(AP)—A report issued today by the 25 Mile Creek grange said that a badly-worn and incorrectly assembled drag link was recovered from the steering apparatus of a school bus which plunged into Lake Cheelan last Nov. 26, drowning 15 school children and the bus driver.

The grange, located in the area where most of the young victims resided, said in the report that the drag link was displayed at a meeting Dec. 15 at the grange hall with state highway patrolmen.

"The state patrol presented the broken front spring and part of the steering apparatus," the report said. "The opinion of the inspector was that the spring was broken after the bus left the road."

"The drag link was found disconnected when the bus was recovered from the water. Lieutenant Spencer stated that the drag link was very badly work and had been assembled incorrectly. It was the opinion of those present that it was impossible to determine whether the drag link became disconnected before or after the bus left the road. Many were of the opinion that it became disconnected before the bus left the road and was the direct cause of the accident."

Dairymen Talk Over Problems At Convention

(Story also on page 1)
By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman

Concern over the transition from wartime controls and demands to peacetime conditions was noticeable not only in formal talks but in sideline discussions Wednesday at the opening day of the 52nd annual meeting of the Oregon Dairymen's association. Sessions were held at the Labor Temple at 445 Center st.

"It is doubtful," said Lee Holiday, Klamath Falls, president, in his opening address, "if the dairy industry has ever faced a situation through which it has been more difficult to see than at present. Looking into the future it appears to be that there are more complex problems facing us today than ever in history."

Control to Continue
In the opinion of Paul J. Messer, executive secretary of Pacific States Butter, Egg, Cheese and Poultry association, who spoke on "Decontrolling the Controls," the only present prospect for the total removal of price controls would be "through a reversal of opinion in the administration, or congressional pressure strong enough to be mandatory."

Messer questioned the desirability of this as "it would likely bring about inflation."

Certainly some upward price adjustments are in order, he continued, especially in the case of butter, to bring this product into a position to compete with other possible uses of milk."

Slaughter Encouraged
G. A. Brown, manager of Interstate Association creamery, as third speaker on the morning program, said that "unless the prices of dairy products are raised when the subsidies are removed, between now and next summer, or unless money is appropriated by congress to continue the subsidies, milk and butter production will shrink sharply. The uncertainties encourage the slaughter of dairy cows under present conditions of extremely high beef prices."

Charles Evans, Salem, opening the meeting welcomed the visitors. The afternoon was given over to the breed associations with the Oregon Holstein - Friesian group and the Oregon Guernsey Cattle club holding elections of officers, and plans laid at the Jersey club for its annual meeting to be held here January 26.

Suggestions to be offered by the dairy breed associations to the state fair board will include living quarters for the exhibitors on the state fair grounds. Committees from each will combine to meet with the fair board for further discussion.

Holstein Officers
Randall Grimes, Harrisburg, was replaced by A. J. Evers, Forest Grove, as president of the Holstein group. He will serve instead as secretary-treasurer. A. W. Lindow, Portland, was elected vice president, and the new directors are Glen Ireland, Forest Grove and Felix Hassing, Hubbard. Margaret Fruendenthal of Hillsboro was awarded the 4-H Holstein calf. Guernsey breeders re-elected C. A. Smith, Medford, as president. Others chosen were vice president, W. A. Lyons, Eugene, secretary-treasurer, Charles Evans, Salem; directors, Alex Cruickshank, McMinnville, and Lamont Rungay, Oregon City. John Reith, Oregon City, won the Guernsey 4-H calf award.

Mountain Named For Eisenhower

OTTAWA, Jan. 10-(AP)—General Eisenhower, honored by having one of the most famous peaks in the Canadian Rockies named for him, appealed today for a continuance in peacetime of the cooperation shown by the allies in war.

The chief of staff of the United States army heard Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announce at a luncheon of the Canadian club attended by 600 people that 8990-foot Castle mountain at Banff, Alberta, had been re-named "Mt. Eisenhower" as "a lasting expression of the admiration and affection" of the Canadian people.

Seattle Paper Strike Vote Set

SEATTLE, Jan. 10-(AP)—The publishers of Seattle's three strikebound newspapers and a printers' union negotiating committee reached an agreement today on a proposal to settle the two-months strike and it will be submitted to a special meeting of the full union membership Saturday afternoon.

A member of the negotiating committee made the announcement after an hour-and-fifteen minute meeting. The union membership has previously turned down several publishers' offers.

Terms of the proposal were not disclosed. The papers have been closed since Nov. 18. The printers originally asked a $2.95 a day increase and the publishers have offered $2.25 for day and $2.50 for night shifts.

Liquor Permit At Manor Put Up to State

Normandy Manor, newest of the Salem area's dinner and dancing places, held the county court's recommendation for a license to serve liquor today, but it will be up to the state liquor control commission on January 17 to determine whether the license shall be issued.

The county court by a 2 to 1 decision Thursday approved the 1946 application of Michael and Eva Flax who sought a liquor-service permit for their recently-opened site in the 2600 block on South Commercial.

The elaborately-appointed spot was developed from the Rose Lawn Funeral home building, and has been estimated to entail an investment approaching $80,000.

The 1945 application for a license to serve liquor was turned down last week. This year's request was granted after District Attorney Miller Hayden, in an opinion asked by the county, said that "the prohibition question as such as a matter of law cannot be involved in this proceeding."

Several score residents of the area involved petitioned the county court to deny a liquor license. Petitions also were entered favoring such a license.

In approving the application, the county court said "the majority... are still of the opinion that... licenses should not be granted in residential areas where the predominant sentiment is against it but we do believe it is only fair that the applicants be permitted to get their proposal before the liquor commission."

The license recommendation was dated January 17 because it is on that day the liquor commission will meet and could hear arguments pro and con on the case. Had the court not specified a date, provision of the license might have been effective immediately. County Judge Grant Murphy and Commissioner Jim Smith approved the application and Commissioner Roy Rice opposed it.

Schacht, Streicher, Frank Face Wrath of Prosecutors

By NOLAND NORGAARD
NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 10-(AP)—The whole structure for Nazi Germany's wartime economy was in the blueprint stage in amazing detail as early as 1937 and its architect was Dr. Hjalmar-Schacht, one-time "wizard of German finances," the international tribunal trying Schacht and other leaders of Nazi Germany was told today.

The prosecution said that Schacht's program for marshaling German industries, agriculture, manpower and finances for hostilities was comprehensive and practical, as was the case with other services he rendered the Nazis.

The case against Dr. Schacht, the banker with the magic touch who has repeatedly expressed pointed indignation that he was listed among the war criminals, was opened by U. S. naval Lt. Brady O. Bryson, Baltimore, Md. Earlier British prosecutors had demanded the conviction of Julius Streicher, notorious Jew baiter, for inciting murder through poisonous propaganda and of Hans Frank, former governor general of Poland, for the attempted enslavement of Poland.

'Democracy' in Japan Brothels
TOKYO, Friday, Jan. 11-(AP)—The Tokyo brothel keepers association decided today to abolish licensed prostitution and to "liberate" 300 girls of Tokyo's restricted districts.

The girls, whose debts previously had kept them in the predicament of white slaves, now will be permitted to operate by paying only for room and board and to refund "on easy payments" their debts to the brothel keepers.

The brothel keepers association announced that it had decided on the change as in keeping with "democratization."

Police Investigate Vanport Arson
VANPORT CITY, Ore., Jan. 10-(AP)—Daily incendiary fires this week have police and firemen jittery.

Only minor damage has been caused in recent blazes, but one in a shopping center last month was so costly that total damage since Dec. 18 runs to more than $200,000.

Today's fire was in a vacant housing unit. Damage was $500.

Independence Pioneer Dies in Salem Hospital

Joseph W. Rogers, 74, who lived on the same Independence area farm for 67 years, died in a local hospital, Thursday night. He had been ill since September 17.

He was born in Erie, Penn., and his family came to Oregon by boat when he was seven, transporting their baggage across the Isthmus of Panama and continuing up the coast by ship. The first winter they spent on the Coolidge farm near Rickreall, buying the Dice donation land claim the next year, where Rogers had lived since.

Partnership
He and Mr. Loe had an early day partnership in the threshing business, but in recent years he had operated a dairy farm.

The pioneer married Belle Scott in 1889 who had come to Independence from Scotland two years before at the age of 16. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. They had celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in March. Mrs. Rogers is a sister of Mrs. Stockton of the Stockton store, pioneer general store in Salem.

Survivors
In addition to his widow, he is survived by four children, Hugh and Joe, Independence; Earl, Ashland; and Mrs. Leota Lance, Albany; 10 grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be at 2 o'clock Sunday in the Smith-Baun funeral home in Independence with interment in the family plot in the Independence cemetery.

GENERAL APPOINTED
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10-(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace tonight appointed Brig. Gen. Albert J. Browning, a republican and a former business executive, as director of the new office of domestic commerce.

Men Quizzed on Missing Logger
ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 10-(AP)—Two men questioned here about the disappearance of Ernest Bowman, Kelso logger, were quizzed today on another missing Kelso man.

Sheriff Mike Southard said S. D. McClain, 67, confessed shooting Bowman Dec. 18 because "he talked too much," but denied knowledge of the disappearance of Frank Anderson.

McClain and Jack Mann, 27, held here on burglary charges, admitted last month taking Bowman for a fatal "ride," the sheriff said. No body has been found.
