If you think the village is badly in need of a mansion for its state basketball tournament, read on to see how tough things have become at Oregon State and how badly Percy Locey & Co. needs a new hoop hall. Written to us by Irwin Harris, OSC athletic news bureau director, this is the very rock bottom for intercollegiate basketball game seating situations:

No Seats for Public at OSC Hoop Games!

"It will be impossible this season for us to give or sell any ducats for our home basketball games, because there just ain't none. Here's the situation: We have just under 4000 students this term, all of whom are entitled to get into our basketball games. Our inadequate gym holds just 2500, which won't even take care of our own students for most conference games. As a result we aren't even selling reserve seat tickets this season except for a small section of 300 Pacific Northwest Boxer club anseason ticket holders who are faculty and local Buck-a-Month club would be held Jan. 27 at the Semembers.
