Sizeable Mitt Action Due in Hoag-Archuleta, Dillich-Sullivan Tiffs; Duane Seeking Kayo

It's nose spreading time again at the Ferry Street Garden tonight as Matchmaker Harry Plant produces his second punching party establishment indicates another top bin on the bulging side will surround Plant's 28-round show.

After his punch-packed debut two weeks ago, the customers have been clamoring for more. Tonight they get it in the form of what looks like a sizzling 10-round main event, a six-round "elimination" semiwindup and three four-round prelims offering again the three Salem comers who clouted out wins on Plant's inaugural.

Round View Pressed

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Round View, who boosted his stock for the rich Flamingo by romping to a 10 length victory a week ago, found the going tougher today as he barely held on to win the $3,800 South Wind purse at Hialeah park.

Jack Von, Salem's rising 186-pounder from Sam Duncan's local academy of boxing, a keyo winner two weeks ago and looking impressive as a corner while delivering it, tonight goes against Portland's Bobby Ford, classed as a promising corner himself.

Bud Abney, Salem 146-pounder and Von's stablemate, meets Ruben Ruiz, Mexico, in another four-master. Abney won by TKO on the first show. The opener pits Leon Moore, 131, another winner two weeks ago, against Walt Hegge, Portland. This will be Hegge's first pro fight, Moore's second.

Packey McFarland will referee, more seats have been made available in the punch parlor and the doors open at 7:30 p. m. First fatucating is due at 8:30.

Armory pro fight customers expect a ding-dong semiwindup battle tonight when Jack Dillich (above) and John L. Sullivan (inset) meet in their lightweight six-rounder. The winner bills with Leo (The Lion) Turner here in two weeks.

The Vikings, screened away from the Spartan goal by a rugged defense, have played better games this season. They couldn't get through the Spartans for many shots and those they did get were hurried most of the time.

On the other side, six-foot five-inch Center Ray Perin of the Spartans had himself an "on"

Corvallis led 9-5 at the quarter, 15-8 at halftime and 27-20 at the third period. The Vikings, bursting forth early in the third frame, cut the margin to 23-20, but then fell back, driving Dick Hendrie, Center Bunny Mason and Roger Dasch teamed to spark the spurt.

Told you so dept: You think Matchmaker Harry Plant's five and six hundred dollar payoffs for his main events won't draw the better battlers to the village? Then wonder why leather-fisted lads such as Young Freddie Steele of Vancouver, B. C., Jackie Turner of Victoria, Bliss Croft of Tacoma, Benny Jerome of Spokane and Kenny Lindsey, Canadian welter champ, have delivered written interest in exhibiting wallops here? The Wednesday off-night night dates for that much geld are very enticing to the fistic fraternity.

Incidentally, it will cost Plant considerably more than peanuts to pull Leo (The Lion) Turner in for his date two weeks hence, but the matchmaker figures it will be well worth it if Leo's opponent turns out to be a capable as is hoped. The majority of the fistic faithful hereabouts are still hankering to see Leo get his clock cleaned, but good. Trouble is, clock cleaners of that caliber aren't too numerous. . . . To basketballing: You're noticed by now, no doubt, that Oregon City's Pioneers are the first to make reservations for the prep hoop derby at Willamette next month. It will mark the tenth consecutive year that Oregon City comes to chase for the state title, certainly an example of the coaching ability of Pioneer Coach Dan Jones. It's getting so a state tournament just isn't a state tourney unless Oregon City's fast-pedestling kids are here. Early this season the Joneses pitched with the Vikings and were soundly trounced. They looked like anything but a tournament team, but Jones at the time told that the kids would "come around" all right. Now they're the first of the 16 gangs to win their way to the classic—which speaks for itself, and Mr. Jones. . . . Congratulations too, for the earliness with which the Pioneers decided their district title. Pictures, publicity, etc., can now be mastered on the Joneses and readied for the tourney program. A foo on these districts which wait until two or three days before the classic starts before they decide who's to come. . . .

District Hoop Derbies Shaping Up Well

How are the prep district derbies shaping up? One by one let's take a look:

District No. 1—Baker's strong Bulldogs appear to have the berth on the downhill pull. No. 2—The Dalles heavily favored. No. 3—Tossup between Bend's Lava Bears and Prineville. No. 4—Either Medford or Klamath Falls, two strong clubs. (Medford has beaten the Pelicans once this winter and they play again Friday night.) No. 5—Myrtle Point has been whipping all other quints in the district, and by comparatively one-sided scores. No. 6—Eugene out in front and going strong.

No. 7—Lebanon out in front and favored since Corvallis has practically eliminated itself by taking whippings from both Bud Page's gang and Albany. No. 8—McMinnville should have little trouble. No. 9—Hillsboro ditto McMinnville. No. 10—Astoria easily over weak Seaside and Tillamook teams.

Salem and Silvertown Due for Dogfight

No. 11—Salem or Silvertown, and it looks like a dogfight in their tournament starting February 22 at Mt. Angel. Same Mt. Angel could pull a surprise. No. 12—Oregon City already in, with a good Molalla team finishing out of the chips. No. 13—A good Central Catholic team and a good Sandy quint to fight it out. No. 14—Veronia favored. No. 15—Washington of Portland by virtue of the Portland prep title it is highly favored to snatch. No. 16—Tossup between Benson Tech and Commerce of Portland, the berth going to the team which finishes second in the Portland city chase.

That's what the tourney picture looks like right now. But don't forget, probably there isn't anything in athletics as unpredictable as a high school basketball team. They can get frightfully hot or equally cold in the upcoming district playoffs, and when that happens most anything can happen, and usually does.

But with such colorful and historic quints as Astoria, Eugene, Oregon City, Baker and Medford favored to grab tickets, it should be a dinger of a classic again this time. A Salem entry after two years of absence wouldn't be exactly deteriorating to the picture. But the Vikings have their pre-tourney work cut out for them, believe us.

'Loquacious Larry' Waxes Hot Over Admission Prices

By Jack Hand
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees quoted the rule book to Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler today and told him he was out of order in criticizing any increase in baseball admission prices.

After MacPhail had announced an average increase of 7 1/2 percent in Yankee stadium seat prices for 1946, Chandler was quoted as saying that after the poorer wartime ball he thought the public was entitled to a better brand without paying more for it.

MacPhail, the man generally credited with making possible Chandler's election less than a year ago, said he had been assured by the commissioner that he had not been misquoted. Then he cut loose with a printed statement calculated to make Chandler's ears burn.

"If Commissioner Chandler has been correctly quoted regarding admission prices, MacPhail stated, "it is evident that the commissioner has failed either to study his contract with the major leagues or comprehend the scope of his duties and responsibilities."

"The major league agreement confers on the commissioner administrative powers limited to enforcing the baseball rules adopted by the two major leagues. On his own initiative his activities are restricted to the investigation of conduct detrimental to baseball."

The Yankees' operating expense will be over $1,000,000 according to MacPhail, including farm system costs. The club grossed $922,480, exclusive of taxes, in 1945 on 887,662 paid admissions for a net of $672,695 with the league and visiting clubs' cut taken out.

The new seat scale probably will be $1.25 for general admission, $1.75 for reserved seats and $2.50 for boxes. The bleacher price (60 cents last year) has not yet been determined.

'Cleanie' Pair Cops 'Tag' Go

Persuasive Paavo Katonen got himself tagged in last night's thrill-packed tag team wrestling match at the Ferry Street Garden—which was gleefully grappling music to the mat multitude—and the cleanie duo of Angelo Martinielli and Al Szasz came up with the win in the grudge go with Paavo and meanie partner Red Dawson.

Paavo and pal came within a whisker of winning the thing at that. The Finn had Szasz in a bad way in the third fall, but didn't have him far enough away from the corner Martinielli was perched behind. So when Katonen started to put the crab hold clincher on Szasz, Martinielli paid off a debt he owed Paavo from the week before. He loosed a booming kick to the Katonen back, over the Finn with Szasz suddenly on top and the referee did the rest, but quickly.

The surprise ref, tonight Tony Ross. Having had considerable trouble with the meanie boys, Anthony wasted no time in counting 'em out in the finale. Which was very okeh with the clients.

The meanies had taken the first fall when Katonen rammed Martinielli's head into partner Dawson's outside the ring, the deed nearly inciting a riot. The cleanies evaded it up when Szasz backed Dawson into that dangerous corner in which Martinielli resided, and then the two ping-ponged the red-headed gent into submission.

The whole shebang was rip-sporting all the way and Matchmaker Elton Owen can bring back his team tussling most any time. It was that popular with the fans.

Walt (Th' Sneez) Achiu copped himself a win in the opener with nasty Marty Petroff by winning the third fall of their thriller with a series of ju-jitsu and flying tackles.

In the rough and tumble of the second period, Washington was given a technical foul when Coach Ike Edmanson went onto the floor illegally. Earlier Anderson was put off the floor for roughing.
