INFORMAL FLOWER SHOW

Its inaugural new feature of its regular meetings, the Salem Men's Garden club will hold an informal flower show at its session Thursday night. Members have been asked to take with them some flowers or collection of flowers blooming outdoors now. The publicity committee will compile a list of all the blooms and if there is sufficient variety will publish it to the advantage of the club and community. Ernest Luter is chairman of the March calendar discussion scheduled for the meeting, while W. G. Nibler will discuss early spring planting and Walter E. Snyder will show wild flowers in picture. The meeting opens at 7:45 p.m.

2000 Chickens Land at Airport Aboard Plane

Two thousand and one passengers got off United Air lines at McNary field Tuesday afternoon at 3:19. Of these, 2000 were baby chicks, the first ever delivered by airplane at the Salem airport.

There to greet them was their new owner, Mark Lewis of Turner, who loaded them rapidly on his farm truck and whisked them away before they could catch cold. Lewis said that they were a new breed, Austra Whites, a cross between the White Leghorns and the Black Australopes. His were hatched at Berry's Sunflower Hatchery at Newton, Kansas, from where they left late Monday afternoon. They were 15 hours en route.

While the Austra Whites are, Lewis said, a dual purpose chicken, he was getting these for laying purposes. He maintains 1500 layers, 6000 broilers and 2000 turkeys on his ranch three miles southeast of Turner.
