(Continued from sports page) collegiate footballing from 1929 to 1933. In addition to winning the unusual honor of being named all-Northwest conference back, every one of his four years of participation, Erickson in his sophomore year became the first Bearcat athlete to receive the All-American football board's Card of Merit. And the following year he became the first Willamette player to receive mention on the All-Coast all star football team. Erickson's feats on the gridiron and his energetic participation in student activities while at Willamette earned him membership in the Blue Key national honorary fraternity, and the Booth Athletic trophy, a cup awarded annually to the senior who, in addition to maintaining high scholarship standing, has exerted a fine moral influence and has achieved the highest standing in athletics. His active part in student affairs was climaxed by his election as Willamette university student body president in his senior year.

Immediately upon his graduation from Willamette in 1933 Erickson was appointed head coach at Camas high school in Washington. During his six year tenure at Camas, Erickson led the Papermakers from the gridiron doldrums to a position as one of the high ranking medium sized high schools in Washington. In his second year Walt led his gridmen to their first win against the powerful Vancouver Trappers in 22 years, and their first victory over the equally potent Kelso high school in 14 years, feats which he was to duplicate twice again during the remaining four years he coached at Camas.

Erickson's all-time coaching record at the Washington school lists 40 victories against only 16 losses and two games tied. Two of his wins were at the expense of the perennially strong Salem high school Vikings, one of them coming in 1937, the year the Salem school was co-champion of Oregon. In addition to handling football at Camas, Walt coached baseball for five years and basketball for four years, during one of which his hoop squad brought home the first southwest Washington conference championship in its history.

In 1939 Erickson yielded to the inclination to enter the field of administration in college educational work and resigned at Camas to accept the position of dean of freshmen at Willamette, an office he has held for the past six years.

Lestle J. Sparks, professor of physical education, who held the position of acting director of athletics during the two and a half years that Spec Keene was on leave of absence with the navy, and then shouldered the load of directing the destinies of the Bearcat hoop team this winter following the latter's resignation, will continue as head of academic work in the department of physical education at the university.
