Where Can I Find Out?

This question, sometimes asked with tragic seriousness, has come from veterans and their families regarding a myriad of problems in recent months.

Allotments, apprenticeships, education, employment, insurance, pensions—these and many other topics are all-important, and so many offices have been set up for information on them that considerable confusion has resulted.

To provide a ready index of which office takes care of which problem, The Statesman will present a complete picture of veterans organizations in this area, showing their duties, listing their addresses, and naming those in charge.

The roster will be in full detail in Your Home Newspaper on Friday, February 22.
