

More grapevine stuff, the unofficial vintage, says that Jim (Mush) Torson, the long and lean ex-Oregon Stater who last fall maneuvered Grant's Generals to the state prep grid title, will be Willamette U's new basketball boss. Torson does okeh year in and out with the Generals' hoop-suiters also.

He also said "Honest John" Warren, U of O up-n-at-em man, missed by a single eyelash of getting the WU cage berth, and not because WU refused to pay him what he figured he was worth.

Considerable eyebrow shifting when Hee Edmundson of the Huskies named his personal picks for All-Northern Division hoop team honors and left off the name of Gale Bishop. But remember, Bishop joined the dribble derby after the Huskies had finished playing the WSC's for the season, and Edmundson didn't see Bishop play a league game. In case you missed it, Edmundson's team consisted of Oregon's Rick Wilkins, Idaho's Fred Quinn, OSC's Red Rocha, Idaho's Len Payne and Washington's Norm Dalthorp. Bishop should've gained at least honorable mention if only by what Edmundson has read about him in the papers.

The Bishop vs Rocha individual scoring duel in the division has nothing on our own Northwest conference, come to think of it. College of Puget Sound's Bob Fincham, the Gale Bishop of the NW boys, has things pretty much his own way with his 199 points in 10 games (up to Tuesday night), and 199 points in 10 games amounts to right per cent scoring. But U of British Columbia's Sandy Robertson, himself no slouch at collecting two-pointers (he got 67 points in two games against College of Idaho for the very best two-night performance in the northwest this season), is certainly competition enough for Fincham. Were Robertson to play in as many games as Fincham—which he won't, due to the duck-the-touch-ones way some of the NW boys go about their scheduling—he might very easily catch the CPS flyer.

himself will tell you he hasn't much of a defense on his Oregon team) go against a cacer of the Bishop caliber, they simply try to outscore him. Gill & Co. on the other hand molds a defense for the occasion, and it needn't be reminded here that often as not that defense works to perfection.

It took a peep at the Sporting News to find it out, but Charley Petersen IS with the San Francisco Seals in their Hawaiian training camp and has been getting along impressively as an infielder on one of the two squads Skipper Lefty O'Doul is hustling into shape. Another former Senator sender laboring with the San Francisco is Sam Taormina, the 1942 southpaw slugger who had to leave just before that season was over to enter the army. Slammin' Sam has been doing well in the early workouts also.

Speaking of the Senators, past and present, L. H. Gregory in his Oregonian says that Frank (Luke) Lucchesi, the pee-wee Portland outgardener of last season is a cinch for delivery to the Solons next summer. In fact, Lucchesi isn't even listed on the current Portland roster because he's so certain for duty with the Seals. Go-get-'em outfielder that he really is, Lucchesi has a tall task awaiting him if he is to outmaneuver one Chas. Augustus Petersen as a center fielder for the town nine. The baseball natives will still be talking about Peie's patrolling in Waters park in 1992. He was that good.

Robertson has scored 161 points in nine games for a 17.8 average. Fincham's stratospheric average hits 19.9 per game. Bishop's 185 points in 10 games amounts to 18.5 per and Rocha's 184 in 15 games levels off at a comparatively insignificant 12.2 per game.

The northwest may not have the best basketball teams in the country, but she certainly has her share of the individual pointmen after looking at those figures.

Comes the question: "How come Gale Bishop can score 32, 20, 30 and 27 points in four games against Oregon when he got only 9, 13, 9 and 13 against Oregon State?"

That can be answered most easily by explaining that it isn't mere chatter you hear when you're told OSC Skipper Slats Gill is a master in defensive basketball. Where does that leave Howard Hobson? It's no secret that Hobson does on the offensive phase of the court sport. His slogan, if he has one, would be something like, "don't stop 'em, outscore 'em," we're sure. Consequently, when the Hobson club plays, it feather-foots into the fifties and sixties in points scored. Oregon opposition most generally goes as stratospheric. So when the Ducks and Hobson

Last night at 6:10

MOSCOW, Idaho, Feb. 26. (AP)—The Oregon Webfoots defeated the Idaho Vandals tonight 43 to 40 and gave the Oregon State Beavers a share of first place in the Pacific Coast conference northern division basketball standings. The Ducks led at halftime 18 to 14.

The loss, first for the Vandals since they were dumped by the Washington Huskies here last January 19, could be chalked up to bad free throwing. The Vandals missed 12 free tosses, five of them in the action packed last few minutes.

The first half was much slower than last night's contest, and was marked by a host of jump balls and free throws. Len Payne gave Idaho their first lead with a minute and a half gone in the first period with a short follow up shot. Dick Wilkins tied the score a second later and then added another field goal to give the Ducks a 7-4 lead. Fred Quinn's free throw and a field goal by Payne knotted the count with eight minutes gone at 9-9.

Then Dick Wilkins, who proved to be a thorn in the side of the Vandals all night, added another field goal and Williamson a free throw and Oregon had a lead they held for the rest of the first half.

Moutenson and Hamilton swapped baskets to start the second session and a second later the Vandals went on an eight point scoring spree that found them ahead for the first time in 13 minutes with play 23-20. The Ducks came back and took the lead again on Bray's three foul shots and a looping one handed by Captain Hamilton. Oregon extended the margin with half the period gone and after a long two hander by Hamilton had climaxed a brilliant six point scoring surge in less than a minute, the Ducks led 39-32.

Oregon began to slow down the pace but Ryan and Bill Carbaugh teamed together for Idaho and with five minutes to go had whitened the lead to 39-36. Carbaugh tied the score with a one hander and Hawks fouled Phoenix as the lanky pivot man was shooting. Phoenix promptly proceeded to miss both chances and then was fouled again. Once more he missed a chance to give Idaho the lead and Wilkins sent a long one through the net and Hamilton added a free throw in the waning seconds to give the Ducks the contest.

The division title now hinges on the outcome of next Saturday's games in which Oregon plays Oregon State and the Vandals meet the Bishop-less Washington State Cougars at Moscow. Dick Wilkins was high scorer for the evening with 12 points while Grant Mortenson had 11 for Idaho.

Medford Mentor Due to Okeh Terms Officially Wednesday

Al Simpson, one of the most coaches in the state since herding the past two seasons, announced last night he was accepted by Salem high school, and will replace Tommy Drynan, who has mentored the Viking football varsity the past four seasons.

NEW VIK COACH: Al Simpson, boss of Medford's Black Tornado footballers the past two seasons, has been named football coach at Salem high school for 1946. It was announced Tuesday night by Salem Schools Superintendent Frank Bennett.

Lupien Claims Rights Violated

LEXINGTON, Mass., Feb. 26. (AP) Tony Lupien, the Harvard first baseman who claims his veteran's rights were violated when the Phillips sold him to the Hollywood Pacific coast league club, will outline his case to selective service officials in Boston tomorrow, he said tonight.

Reports from Philadelphia say the Phillies' general manager Herb Pennock's comment about the Lupien situation was: "Lupien simply didn't fit our plans."

Pennock added that Lupien would receive the same salary from Hollywood as he did with the Phillies when he returned to that national league club late last season after being discharged from the navy.

ROOSEVELT QUALIFIES FOR BASKETBALL MEET
 PORTLAND, Feb. 26. (AP)—Roosevelt high won the district 16 cage title, and the second city school ticket to the state tourney at Salem, with a narrow 29-28 victory over Commerce today.

BASEBALL NOTES:
 SAN FERNANDO, Calif., Feb. 26. (AP)—The Seattle Rainiers came to full strength today and Manager Bill Skiff counted 65 noses. The squad includes 25 pitchers. The manager announced five of his players—Outfielders Ramsey, and Ed Vanni, infielder Al Niemce, Pitcher Dewey Soriano and Catcher Bob Einar, will participate in an all-star charity game Sunday at Los Angeles between major and minor leagues.

ONTARIO, Calif., Feb. 26. (AP)—The regulars detailed the Vanaguans, 1-0, in a five-inning game today as the Hollywood Stars greeted the Vanaguans. The Vanaguans' camp total of 47 Catcher Al Unser, infielders Woody Williams and John Vavala and Outfielder Vern Reynolds, were the new-comers.

FULLERTON, Calif., Feb. 26. (AP)—Former major league second baseman Stu Martin reported to the Los Angeles training camp today. Manager Bill Sweeney reported Pitchers Clem Hausman and "Porky" Kirschner, early casualties, were recovering.

HONOLULULU, Feb. 26. (AP)—The San Francisco Seals cloaked the ball lustily in a two-hour training camp batting practice today, raising the hopes of Manager Lefty O'Doul that they would be a stronger hitting club this season. First-sacker Ferris Fair, outfielder Don White and outfielder Kermit Lewis, all are expected to lead new lineup.

BALBOA, C.Z., Feb. 26. (AP)—The New York Yankees cloaked six home runs today as they walked the Canal Zone League All-Stars 10-3 in Balboa stadium. It was the Yankees' sixth straight exhibition triumph in as many games.

MIAMI, Feb. 26. (AP)—Winston Churchill, England's vacationing former prime minister, spoke in the Orange Bowl and Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants, cancelled his team's workout in belief that the oratory of the British leader wouldn't blend with that put out by his players. Instead, the Giants went fishing.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—Connie Mack, a gentleman who doesn't usually go in for high finance, said today he's willing to "go pretty heavy" for the New York Yankees' George Sturtevant. Since Joe Gardner returned to the Yankees, the rumor mart has been buzzing that Mack was planning to sell off the Yankees.

MT. ANGEL COLLEGE, Feb. 26. (Special)—The fallacy so successfully imbedded in the Oregon High Schools Activities Association's basketball districting stick out like the proverbial sore thumb here tonight as Salem high Vikings rolled over Stayton's were but willing Packers, 54-19, in the district 11 tournament's second round of play. After the Vikings completely dominated the Packers, Mt. Angel's Peps outplayed Sacred Heart Academy's entry, 43-34, in the night's second game.

Both Salem and Mt. Angel remain unblemished in the double elimination meet while all four of the other entries have one loss. Friday night's round sends Silverton against Woodburn at 7 o'clock and Stayton against Sacred Heart at 8 o'clock. Losers of those two ball games are eliminated. Salem is due for action again Saturday night with Mt. Angel at 8 o'clock, after the winners of Friday night's two games play at 7.

Coach Harold Hawk used his two teams in quarterly meets tonight, the first five playing the first and third periods, the second five the second and fourth standings. The only consolation Coach M. Van Driessche charges had during their rough evening game when they actually out-scored the second Salem five in the second quarter.

The Vix, not hitting too much, got off to a 10-4 first quarter lead. It came the second and Stayton rallied to cut the margin to 16-12 at halftime. Center Ronnie Johnson leading the way in the point column.

With the first stringers back in the game and running the Packers dizzy, Salem raced it to 37-13 at the third quarter, holding Stayton to a single point. It was almost as bad in the fourth frame as Salem kept gallivanting on offense and checking with a tight man-for-man system on defense, same jarring the Stayton's around.

Johnson did manage to snag individual scoring honors for the lopsided session with his 12 points. Salem's Jack Fitzmaurice, with nine points, was second.

The Mt. Angel-Sacred Heart scramble was exactly that for three periods. Then the Paul Reilly Peps turned on the heat to win going away. Mt. Angel led 12-8 at the quarter, 22-16 at the half and 32-24 at the third period. Sacred Heart, although missing many many shots, closed in briefly at the outset of the fourth frame, but then Leon Berning and "Mate" Weiman teamed to give the Peps the spurt which carried them to the win.

Berning's 14 points led scoring. Weiman was a nudge behind at 13 and between the two they presented most of the argument in the Mt. Angel scoring parade. Johnson of the SHA's got 14 markers also and added with Jack Daniels were the only Acesman with consistent scoring skills.

Lynam Grabs Mat Thriller

Matchmaker Elton Owen promised "twould be one of the better, bleep bees of the semester, and he wasn't merely mumbling. For last night's mat meeting at the Ferry Street Garden was just that, and then some.

First, there were four brawls instead of the advertised three, and all four were on the oing-dog side. Then there was a bloody battle in which Tony Ross was out-toughed by Bruno Angello, he of the bare feet. And then, finally, Ex-GI Joe Lynam, the gladiator's gem, who can do no wrong as far as the customers are concerned, flattened a very surprised Paavo Katonen in two straight falls.

Angello Martinelli started off the show by using his snuffboard hold to spill Pudgy Earl Malofo in the opener. Then Affable Al Sasse, another of popularity, won the second session via foul when Will-Bert Dawson thought he'd show just how well he really can hit. Anthony Q. and Bruno battled next and came near swiping the entire show.

Bruno blanned Ross into the ropes twice and then onto the mat to win the first fall. Ross bounced right back and put a few cents on the Angello back with his pet "backbreaker" body slams to even the count. All this in a spine-tinting eight minutes. No. 3 saw Bawford Bruno belt Tony on the eye but hand, opening a sizeable 2nd bloody gash. With the tempo rising, Ross was giving with more of the backbreakers and appeared headed for the payoff when Bruno suddenly jerked Tony's curly locks, pulled him off balance and fell on him for the fall.

Katonen got off to a bad start on his part of the program by refusing to assist with Martinelli as referee. But faced with a suspension by Matchmaker Owen, Katonen caved. He was going 210, too, until Lynam sneaked in an abdominal stretch hold to sneak off with the first fall. The Finn was doing okeh in No. 2 with his hankamer's hold, but tricky Lynam jerked his foot in the ropes, hooked himself free, spun and hopped on Paavo with judoish hand slams to flatten the Finn into submission. A very liked Paavo then got into it with Referee Martinelli and the crowd cut before he lit out for the sanctity of the cellar he finished second best again.

Leslie and Parrish junior highs hoop off the second leg of their series for the annual City basketball championship Friday night at Leslie. The game was originally booked for the senior high arena, but due to a dance there Friday, the second game of the crucial series has been switched to the Missionary gym.

Coach Bob Metzger's Northerners, winners of the first game last week by a 26-25 eyelash, are now rated as heavy favorites to gallop to the championship. They need only one more win to salt it down, but no matter who wins

The single-elimination tournament is booked for Friday and Saturday nights and is being sponsored by the Oregon College of Education.

St. Paul is champion of Marion county, Valselt of Polk county, Sheridan of Yamhill county and Corbett of the Multnomah-Clackamas sector. Two games will be played Friday with winners to battle for the district title Saturday night.

It was Iowa's second consecutive loss and the victory pulled the Hoosiers into second place.

Pitching May Boost Indians In A.L. Race

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—Lou Boudreau is building his Cleveland Indians on a four-star pitching base, hoping the attack will measure up to a first division berth. Boudreau thinks Joe Cronin's Red Sox are the biggest threat in the American league race with improved pitching giving them the edge over the Yankees.

"Naturally with Bobby Feller in there, our pitching is the strongest part of our ball club," Boudreau explained as he arrived to open spring training. "Steve Gromek, Allie Reynolds, Red Embree and Feller are my big four."

Scoring Title Up Sat. Night

It will take Saturday night's two crucial northern division games to determine not only the league championship, but also the individual scoring honors. With just one game to play Oregon State's Red Rocha, who must face Oregon in his season's finale, has barely lost the lead to Washington State's pointcatcher Gale Bishop, 184 to 185.

With an average of 18.5 points per tilt, might have racked up the remarkable total of 296 points had he been discharged early enough in the season to play in all the Cougar games. Now, he may have to be content with second place, unless he can score more points against Idaho Saturday night than Rocha makes against Hobson's Webfoot.

The Ducks have at least the second hottest streak, next to Dick Wilkins, who has leaped to fourth place with a late season flurry. Oregon (45) W L Pct PP PF PA
