SECRETARY MELLON STORY

sometimes appear ideal cannot always be put into effect for various reasons.

"One is that in each country governments must deal primarily with the facts of their own case and are free to act only within the bounds imposed by national traditions, economic organization and the limited understanding that exists in every country of other people's problems and of the extent to which all of us are affected by conditions outside of our own borders."

Crisis Is Severe

"The present crisis, the secretary continued, is more severe than most because it followed a world war. But he said that in this country there had been an effect on the part of the government and private business not only to prevent reduction in wages but to keep the maximum number of men employed.

"Every man that can be kept at work or put back into employment adds to the nation's buying power and so stimulates further production," the secretary said. "Progress can be achieved only by a great movement made up of a vast number of individual efforts and not by any single action that governments or groups can take."

Nothing Fundamentally Wrong

The secretary said he did not share the belief that there was anything fundamentally wrong with the social system of industrialized countries. He said that the defects in the present system in this country would be worked out so that there would not be the "painful spectacle of men willing to work but unable to find a market for the only commodity which they can exchange for food and clothing."

"Prices must be revised and costs of production and output must be brought down to a point where demand will again be stimulated and goods moved into consumption," Mr. Mellon said. "In short, a balanced condition must be restored; and this must be done without a general reduction in wages, provided the period of readjustment is not too long drawn out and on condition also that we reduce costs by greater efficiency in labor, in management and in distribution.

"We have all come to the realization of the fact that if world trade is to be built up there must be give and take among nations. But it must be remembered that the all-important factor is purchasing power and purchasing power, insofar as America is concerned, is dependent to a great extent on the standard of living which obtains in this country."

A British airplane route running the length of Africa from Cairo to Cape Town, 5750 miles apart, is scheduled to commence operation soon.

Meanest Check Passer Is Said Captured Here

Lane sheriff's officers claim they have found the world's meanest bad check passer.

This sobriquet they apply to Roy E. Trunnell, who, they allege, passed a bad check on a blind man.

Trunnell was arrested in Eugene and was to be arraigned Wednesday afternoon on charges of forgery. He is alleged to have passed numerous small checks which proved worthless, using the names Raymond James, Joe James, Joe Stevens, Joe Brown, Roy Smith, and others.

Among his alleged victims, Deputy Sheriff Lee Bown said, is G. G. Stratton, blind broom-maker. Hence the sobriquet, "world's meanest bad check passer."

BRYAN UNTIEDT STORY

He fitted the cartridges into the magazine of the rifle.

"Now watch this," he said.

He emptied the rifle at a nearby telephone pole and ran across the railroad tracks to the pole. After he examined it he whirled around excitedly and shouted:

"I hit it every shot."

His eyes shone and he had diverted attention from his clothes which were new and his hands which seemed in the way to him at first.

Now perfectly at east he addressed himself to Davenport.

"Well, let's get going," he declared, and the Heaney's took him and Davenport in their automobile and started the 12 mile trip to the Untiedt ranch home.

Fellow passengers of Davenport, including a jovial priest, shouted to him, "get some rest now, Davenport."

And the government agent, a figurative presidential wing, blushed as he admitted he was pretty well worn out by the strain of keeping up with lively Bryan since he took him away from Towner secretly ten days ago headed for Washington.

TEACHER, CLERK, BOARD MEMBER QUIT

The teacher, clerk, and chairman of the board of the Eula elementary school resigned in a single stroke, but arrangements had been made Tuesday whereby it was hoped to finish out the year at the school with a supply teacher acting as "pinch hitter."

Mrs. Emma Hake, the teacher, resigned along with her husband, Fred L. Hake and the chairman of the board, Mrs. Isabella Hill. The resignations were said to have followed some dissension in the district.

A new election will be held to select a board member and clerk, and arrangements have been made whereby M. E. Edwards, who lives at Signal and is chairman of the Lowell high school district, which includes Eula, will finish out the year as teacher. If Mr. Edwards is unable to handle the work, Mrs. Edwards will be employed, it is understood.

Mrs. M. F. Wheeler Of Grove Is Dead

Mrs. M. F. Wheeler of Cottage Grove died at 1:25 p. m. Tuesday at the Eugene hospital.

Funeral arrangements will be in charge of the Mills chapel in Cottage Grove.

Germans have invented a piano that can be transported on the back of a horse with its keyboard within playing reach of the rider.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tysmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL HAS MAY PROGRAM

Pupils of St. Mary's Parochial school presented their Child Health Day program Monday afternoon in St. Mary's hall. It marked the completion of their observance of the program carried on in the schools by the Lane County Public Health association. This work was started last fall.

Beth Konkel, executive secretary of the Public Health association, announced Tuesday that St. Mary's school had a greater percentage of health honor roll children than any other school in the county. Sixty-seven blue ribbons and health buttons were awarded.

The school pupils presented a circus. They had real Shetland ponies in the circus parade, as well as man-sized milk bottles and carrots used to carry out the health idea. Clowns were included.

The children sang a song entitled "The Circus." Patricia Schmidt was featured in a dance. Rev. Francis P. Leipzig awarded the blue ribbons to the pupils. Sister Superior assisted the children in the program. Mrs. Lee Turner, of the Eugene branch of the public health association, assisted also.

ROAD, 'PHONE AND TRAIL WORK IS ON

Trail, telephone and road maintenance has started in all districts of the Cascade national forest, with the removal of logs blown down during the recent wind storm as the first job ahead of the crews, according to C. C. Olsen, construction chief of the forest.

The Brock and Salt creek roads in the Oakridge area have been cleared of logs, Olsen said, and crews are engaged in that work on the Willamette pass road, the South Fork road and the Fall Creek road. On the South Fork road there were at least 300 trees down, and a gas drag saw is being used to buck out the big ones.

As soon as the logs and debris are cleared away graders and other equipment will be put on the roads.

As a part of this summer's construction program, Olsen plans to complete the Salmon creek motor way above Oakridge. This is about three and one-half miles of forest road.

Water Lilies Are Out at Local Home

Water lilies are blooming three weeks ahead of time at the home of Mrs. V. A. Swanton, 1340 Mill street. She has a pond of the lilies which are a deep rose shade in the center, shading out to a cream color on the outer leaves. The two specimens brought in for display started blooming April 30.

The lilies ordinarily do not bloom until late in May.

1931 Models in Hen Fruit Are Of Twin Design

Biddy, Cluck & Cackle, Lane county producers of eggs, are displaying their latest 1931 model of hen fruit, the double-action egg. It was shown this week in Eugene and Cottage Grove.

The new creation is of smooth white finish like regular extras, standards and mediums, but the shell is thinner than that of the ordinary egg. They are of various sizes.

Two eggs are offered for the price of one. Inside the regular egg is another, fully formed with shell, yolk, and white. The outer eggs have no yolks, but have an abundance of the white material.

A year old white leghorn on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Shortridge, east of Cottage Grove, laid one of the new series which was 9 inches in circumference the long way and eight inches the other way. It weighed 5½ ounces.

Another of the dual design eggs was sold to Mrs. H. E. Slattery of Eugene. She reported that it was of ordinary size and had an egg the size of a bird's egg inside.

TARIFF SPEECH STORY

of England, and Alberto Pirelli, Italian industrialist.

Sir Alan alluded to a warning against placing all international settlements on a gold basis and inquired whether it would not be better to cancel the war debts. While this of itself would not cure the world-wide depression, he said, the settlements of these obligations "seriously aggravates the world's troubles in these hard times."

Pirelli said it was "certain that in Europe interallied debts have a depressing effect which goes far beyond the amounts involved, entailing economic as well as phychological reactions."

"Under present circumstances," he added "psychological factors may have a preponderating influence in determining the course of events."

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, said floor trading on exchanges was nothing more than "plain crap-shooting" and the sooner it was abolished the better.

Barnes, whose tariff remarks at Atlantic City last week were challenged by republican leaders in congress and nailed by democrats as bolstering their opposition to the Hawley-Smoot act, amplified those remarks today.

"American business" he said "hopes that the administration of our tariff laws by the tariff commission will go a long way toward permanently taking the tariff out of politics. Business through the chamber of commerce of the United States, for years has urged that the tariff be treated as an economic and not as a political issue.

CRIME STORIES 17 PERCENT OF PAPER

ASHLAND, Ohio, May 5.—(AP)—Stories of crime with their headlines occupy approximately 17 per cent of the news columns in America's leadings newspapers, it is indicated in a study announced today by Dr. Morris G. Caldwell, professor of sociology at Ashland college.

They occupy approximately a third of the average front page, he found.

Crime is preponderantly front page news, a small percentage of it being sent to the inside, indicating the judgment of the editors as to the reader interest.

Along with what Professor Caldwell terms "sensational news," accidents and deaths, crime occupies approximately a third of the whole newspaper, he found.

These are "alarming" amounts, he said, "which need very little qualitative interpretation."

Professor Caldwell counted the "column inches" of crime news and their headlines of all the daily editions of eight large newspapers published in the east, middle west, south and the Pacific coast region, during last October and November. He believed them to be representative.

GIRL HELD

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5.—(U.P.)—A 17-year-old girl was held today on charges of slaying her mother with a pair of scissors and a knife in their East Rockland home, 23 miles from here, after her sister informed authorities she suspected the girl.

Lucia Goulet was arrested at the home where her mother's body was found with the throat slashed and 15 wounds in the head, face and breast. A bloodstained pair of scissors and a knife were found by police in a boiler of water. They also found a dress with crimson stains which they compelled the girl to don. Police said the dress fitted Lucia perfectly.

Lucia fainted when she was confronted with the clothing, but was revived by a physician who advised against her being taken to the court house. She was removed to a hotel room and a magistrate was called. He ordered court to convene there and the girl was arraigned on a charge of murder. The magistrate ordered her case held over for one week and Lucia was committed to jail.

Lucia called for a priest soon after her arrest and the Rev. Father Osias Carriere, curate of the parish, visited her in the hotel.

SILVERTON MURDER CASE IS MYSTERY

SALEM, May 5.—(AP)—The sheriff's office here today continued to look further for definite clues as to the murderer of H. J. Iverson, Silverton night officer, who was shot down early Saturday morning.

While Lester H. and S. E. Ireingham, brothers of Cove, were held in the city jail for further questioning, the search for the driver of the T. R. Sims car, stolen from Salem Friday night and abandoned at The Dalles, was continued. Officers state the strongest suspicion points to the driver of this car, which is believed the same that visited Silverton early Saturday and carried away the killer or killers.

Alfalfa Advice to Be Given Farmers

County Agent O. S. Fletcher plans to go to the Cottage Grove section Thursday to advise farmers in that vicinity about planting alfalfa.

Alfalfa as a forage crop especially on dairy farms is becoming very popular in Lane county and the county agent is being called upon quite often this spring for advice on its planting. Several in the Cottage Grove area are awaiting his arrival there Thursday before proceeding.

Forage Crops Are Discussed at Meet

Plans for forage crop demonstrations in the coast counties of the state and in the coast section of Lane county were laid at a conference of agricultural agents of these counties at Astoria Monday. O. S. Fletcher, county agent of Lane, who was in attendance, returned to Eugene Tuesday afternoon. He was accompanied by W. L. Teutsch, assistant county agent leader of the state, who is on his way to Coos and Curry counties.

Crops in the coast counties and in the western end of Lane county are different from those in the valley and the problems of the farmers in those sections are necessarily different. Ideas gathered at this conference will be carried out by Mr. Fletcher in assisting the west Lane farmers with certain crops.

4 COBURG YOUTHS FINED $25 EACH

Fines of $25 each were imposed by Justice Dan Johnston Tuesday upon four Coburg youths who were involved in a water-throwing episode on the Coburg-Harrisburg road. The boys are Elmer Gustafson, Floyd Hencock, Larry Beebe and Norman McNabb.

These boys were among seven arrested for alleged pranks and vandalism in the Coburg district. They hurled water from a car into another machine in which University of Oregon students were riding, according to the charges against them. The specific charge was that of being disorderly on a public highway.

The speeding case against Elmer Gustafson has been dismissed. Three other youths, all minors, have been remanded to the juvenile court in connection with a rock-throwing episode in which a windshield on the automobile of John Adair was said to have been broken. The youngsters will be given a hearing Thursday morning.

Council of P.-T. A. Names Committee

A nominating committee was named at the regular meeting of the Eugene council of Parent-Teacher association Monday afternoon and election of officers will take place at the next meeting. The committee consists of Mrs. H. Good, vice-president of the council, Mrs. Sam Bond, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Porter.

At the meeting Monday Superintendent Goold talked on the free text book law and explained how the Eugene district plans to furnish all pupils with free books notwithstanding the fact that the law provides that only $1.50 per pupil be allowed for the books. The plan as announced previously is that pupils who have used books at home and for which there is no more use in the family, donate them, this creating a library where the supply of books will be sufficient to supply all without any expenditure.

Huge scales that lift, swing and weigh metal ingots up to 10,000 pounds recently were exhibited and demonstrated at a metal congress on the Pacific coast.
