NOTED EDUCATORS ARRIVE READY FOR SUMMER SESSION

Outstanding educators from all parts of the country and leaders in their respective fields at the university here are arriving for the annual summer session which is expected to open to a large enrollment Monday. While no definite estimates are possible as yet, registration is expected to equal that of former summers, due largely to the fact that an unusually large number of distinguished professors have been recruited for the work here.

The faculty will be made up of more than 75, who will offer approximately 175 courses ranging from art to advanced work in sciences. While there will be a wide variety of lower division classes for undergraduates, the school this year will be of particular interest to advanced students and to those in education. Special courses that will be of unusual value are announced by Alfred Powers, director of the sessions.

In education courses will run from a general introductory cycle for undergraduates to the more advanced courses in psychology of atypical children. A clinic school for children who have difficulties in reading, spelling and arithmetic, one that has already won national distinction, will be continued this year under the direction of Dr. Grace Fernald of the University of Southern California, and Dr. W. B. DeBusk of the University of Oregon. Summer session students taking courses in this field will have the opportunity of actually observing the experts at work with children in the clinic.

Other courses in education that are expected to draw large enrollments include "Work of Deans and Advisors to Girls," "Guidance in Junior and Senior High Schools," School Administration, "Child Accounting," "Administration and Interpretation of Tests and Measurements," and others.

In art courses will be of special interest to those who are interested in this field, professionably or because they seek a better knowledge for appreciation. Dr. Kiang Kang-Hu, noted authority on Oriental Art, will again be visiting professor and a strong faculty will be here for instruction. The university will again be the western center for art instruction under a special Carnegie Grant to the Institute of Architects. Harvard university is the only other institution offering work under this grant. Fellowships will be given to 14 selected students from the faculties of northwest institutions for this work.

Courses in art include painting, crafts, decorative design, aesthetics, art appreciation, oriental art, civilization and art epochs, and some advanced seminars.

In science the marine biology camp, to be established on Coos bay, will be an outstanding feature, and is expected to draw students from all over the west. It will again be under the direction of Dr. H. B. Yocom, of the university faculty, who is nationally recognized as an authority in this field.

Other courses to be given on the campus include business administration, chemistry, drama, economics, English, Languages, history, journalism, library methods, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education physics, political science, psychology, sociology and applied social science.

CONDEMNATION JURY VIEWS ROAD CHANGE

A first-hand view of the property involved in the county's condemnation suit against the McKenzie Highway Sanitarium was given the jury in the case on Saturday morning, when the six men and six women were taken by stage to the sanitarium as the first feature of the trial.

The manner in which the highway change places the road on the opposite side of the sanitarium building at Deerhorn, instead of on the river side as in the past, was viewed by the jurors, who will decide what Lane county shall pay the sanitorium corporation.

The county offered several hundred dollars for the right-of-way, while the corporation demanded over $40,000.

Members of the jury are Lina Haviland, Helen Phillips, Elsie Patton, Ellis Guiley, Frank X. Gallagher, Agnes Tyson, Kitty Kime, Olive M. Nice, W. H. Sullivan, W. C. Ovington, A. Walsh and Marion Leabow.

Eastern Travel Is Picking Up Nicely

Travel east, while not up to that of last year, is picking up nicely, it was reported Saturday by Frank Lewis, Southern Pacific ticket agent, and W. R. Kennedy, ticket representative of the Oregon Electric.

The end of the school year found a number of university people booking eastern journeys, and several parties from Eugene have left for the east on the first leg of jaunts to Europe. Lower summer rates have been in effect about four weeks.

California-bound travel has been quite heavy recently, the Southern Pacific officials report.

Ministers to Hold Picnic on Monday

Ministers of Eugene and members of their families will hold a picnic at Coburg bridge on the McKenzie river five miles north of Eugene Monday it was announced Saturday.

Each family is asked to take its own dinner and silverware, cups and a card table, if they have one, otherwise a folding table. It is explained that the tables are to be used to serve the dinner on. The committee will provide paper plates and coffee.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 20.—(AP)—Operations at 43.40 per cent of capacity for the week ending June 13 compared with 45.74 per cent the previous week, were reported by 343 mills to the West Coast Lumbermen's association today.

The mills operated at 57.77 per cent of capacity for the same week last year.

Salem Milk Men To Demand Fair Price For Trade

SALEM, Ore., June 20.—(AP)—Forecast of a milk war in the Salem district and extension of the movement to other parts of Oregon was seen when 100 members of the milk producers co-operative gathered here last night, pledged themselves to quit delivering milk to distributors unless a fair price was paid.

The co-operative claims to control 80 per cent of the milk produced here. Just what price they will insist on is not certain but they planned to demand a fixed price after discovering, they asserted, that distributors' prices range from $1.07 to $1.75 per hundred pounds. They expect to stabilize the price to producers at a figure which will permit them a profit, without bringing about an increase in the price paid by the consuming public.

Pantages to Have Retrial on July 13

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—The jury trying the "girl market" case having failed to agree, Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, and his three co-defendants today faced retrial on a date tentatively set as July 13.

After 24 hours reliberation the jurors reported themselves unable to reach a verdict, voting nine for acquittal and three for conviction, and were dismissed yesterday by the court. The district attorney's office immediately began to prepare itself for a second trial by dispatching a letter to the American consul at Genoa, Italy, asking him to obtain an officially certified copy of the birth certificate of Lydia Nitto, complaining witness.

Miss Nitto who was born in Italy, testified she was 17 but six defense witnesses testified she had told them she was 22.

On their return trip the Ruiters visited New Orleans, Washington, D. C., Chicago, New York, attending the radio show in Chicago.

Lane Road Work to Resume After Rain

Resumption of road work in Lane county following the rain is expected to be quite general Saturday morning, Ray Hill, who has charge of the work on the Oshkosh road northeast of Eugene, reported that crew began work again Friday.

While the rains held up construction projects, they made it possible to put blades on many roads and shape them up again, an unusual opportunity in June, members of the county court said.
