The girls outnumbered the boys at the summer session this year nearly two to one. Of the total number of clubbers present, nearly half were holders of scholarships won as a reward for outstanding work in their club projects last year. Approximately 120 of these were state fair scholarships awarded to first place winners at the state fair last year. The majority of the other club members enrolled were either delegates of home economics work. In addition, both boys and girls were given instruction in club news writing, first aid, health and photography. Regular assemblies occupied from one to two hours each afternoon, with prominent men of the state as speakers.

Supervised classes in tumbling, basketball, quadrants dancing, volleyball, swimming and similar sports provided exercise for the girls, while classes and tournaments were scheduled for the boys in baseball, tennis, volleyball and other games. Entertainment consisting of smokeless smokers, palm parties, educational movies and exhibitions of local talent occupied the evenings.
