

HURRY UP WITH MORATORIUM IS GERMANY'S PLEA

BERLIN, July 6.—(U.P.)—A new credit of $50,000,000 was granted the gold discount bank, a Reichsbank subsidiary, today by an American banking consortium headed by the International Acceptance Co. Previous international credits totalling $100,000,000 were almost exhausted.

Further delay in extension of the Hoover plan for a war debt and reparations moratorium—indicated in dispatches from Paris and Washington—intensified the threat of a German financial crisis.

A policy of "hopeful waiting" for an immediate settlement at Paris was adopted by the Reichsbank at an extraordinary meeting of the directors last night. The directors were optimistic that an accord would be reached and the flight of capital from Germany ended.

However, the Reichsbank already has drawn on the last 25 per cent of the $100,000,000 credit recently advanced by foreign banks, and the withdrawal of short term credits from Germany last week reached an admittedly critical stage. Further delay at Paris, it was feared, would cause an already delicate situation to become dangerously acute.

Despite increasing withdrawals, the Reichsbank's general council decided against lowering the legal 40 per cent gold coverage behind German currency and trusted in the remaining $25,000,000 credits to maintain the mark until the Hoover project brings relief.

It appeared that Germany now was willing to yield to the French demand to an extent, providing the amount of deliveries in kind can be arranged satisfactorily. France was understood to have estimated that contracts for deliveries in goods, or kind, during the year's debt holiday would total about 120,000,000 marks ($28,800,000), which could be paid out of the funds in the bank for international settlements at Basle.

Germany, however, would entail an encroachment on Germany's unconditional annuities, to be suspended under the Hoover plan. This encroachment, Germany was inclined to resent and reject.

SEATTLE INVADED BY ELKS FOR BIG MEET THIS WEEK

SEATTLE, July 6.—(U.P.)—Seattle became the stamping ground for thousands of Elks today as the nation's largest fraternal organization prepared to open its 67th annual convention.

Special trains, motor coaches, steamships and airplanes brought delegates and their families here from all parts of the country and from Alaska. State members held a meeting yesterday, but the convention itself will not open formally until 8:30 o'clock tonight, when a public session will be held in the civic auditorium.

The invasion started last week and reached its peak yesterday. Nearly 500 automobiles brought their share of delegates from Oregon, California and other nearby states.

After today's sight-seeing and tonight's opening meeting, the convention will get down to serious business tomorrow when the grand lodge will hold its first business meeting. Lawrence H. Rupp of Allentown, Pa., grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, and other officers and committee will make their annual reports and officers will be elected.

Varied entertainment programs have been planned each morning, afternoon and night until the big parade and farewell ball Thursday bring the convention to a close.

A special train carrying members of the Elks lodge to the convention at Seattle stopped in Eugene Sunday evening. The Elks band of Medford formed a circle on the depot platform and entertained the occupants of the train and local citizens with several selections.

OREGON HIGHWAY BONDS PAST PEAK

The constitution of the state of Oregon permits issuance of bonds for highway purposes up to 4% of the assessed valuation of the state. Under this provision the state highway commission is authorized to sell bonds for highway purposes up to the maximum sum of forty-five million dollars.

Under this constitutional provision and previous authorizations, the State Highway commission has issued a total of $40,200,000 in state highway bonds, according to the Oregon State Motor association.

The first bonds were issued in 1917, and in 1922 we made our first payment on principal. The payment on principal in 1922 amounted only to $125,000 but this annual principal payment has been gradually increased until this year when we lower our indebtedness to extent of $1,975,000.

As the various bonds have been issued, interest and principal payments have been so arranged as to gradually increase the obligation for bond interest and redemption until the year 1931 which marks the peak of the annual obligation.

The peak of bonded indebtedness was actually passed in 1928 when we had $38,306,000 outstanding. At the end of 1931, this will have been reduced to $28,491,000, which sum subtracted from the total of the bonds issued of $40,200,000 leaves a net reduction in our bonded debt of practically $12,000,000.

The peak of the annual obligation is in 1931 with a total sum of $3,361,522.18 necessary to cover interest and maturities for this year.

With 30 per cent of our bonded indebtedness already paid, Oregon finds itself with a gradually decreasing annual sum necessary to meet our interest and redemption obligation.

CELEBRATION AT PARK IS SUCCESS

JUNCTION CITY, July 6.—(Special)—The Fourth of July celebration held at Benton-Lane park was on the safe and sane order. No accidents happened to mar the day's pleasure. It was estimated that 2000 persons were at the park during the day.

The swimming pool was the center of attraction for the kiddies and younger set. The baseball game between Junction City and Monroe drew a large crowd. The game was won by Junction City Orphans by a score of 9 to 3.

The dance hall and other attractions were well patronized.

The sports, boxing, wrestling and swimming contests were confined mostly to the youngsters.

Reported on Feb. 3, 1929.

I have suffered over a period of two years with a very stubborn case of rheumatism. At times my legs would get so stiff and I was forced to stay home from my work. My back and feet were sore. I have tried many other remedies but with no results. I was told by friends to try Casey's Rheumatic Compound. I did and my rheumatism has left me. My general health has improved and I can truthfully recommend Casey's Rheumatic Compound for it did the work.

IS LOVE stronger than THE LAW?

It was a pitiful sight—that morning Mary found Bob White—near her desolate mountain cabin—his legs crushed under a mass—hurled down by a landslide.

Terrified lest death should claim him—frantically, Mary pulled—tugged his mammoth, half-conscious body to her cabin—set his splintered legs—dressed his wounds—nursed him night and day.

How she worshipped that bravery—that defiance to pain—death—she saw in his noble eyes. Here was a man—a man worth loving. And day by day—she could see that he, too—was growing to love her.

Glad, excited, insanely happy—the weeks flew by—Bob's legs almost healed—and the day of reckoning came. "Mary," he said, "I love you—I got to talk. That morning—the rock—I was hiding money"—he choked. "You see—I'm—well—you don't want a train robber—for a husband!"

"Oh, Bob!" she cried—threw herself on his chest. "You're mine—forever. God sent you to me—or else—He'd have taken you—out there."

"Don't, honey," he pleaded. "Remember The Law. It's out to get me—even if I've quit the game—for good."
