Members of the county fair board in a meeting Monday in Eugene decided to include horse races on the program of the Lane county fair, which will be held August 20 to August 29. Harness and running races will be the main feature.

The program which will be presented, depicting the settlement and advance of Lane county, is coming along well, it was reported. Junction City will present the missionary episode of the program, and the Pomona grange will present a scene portraying the organization of the grange.

Concession space in the fairgrounds is fast being taken, it was announced. Those present were C. W. Allen, of Vista, president; K. B. Thompson of Eugene, vice-president; F. E. Chambers of Irving, and Mrs. Mabel H. Cladwick, secretary.

Sainthood Sought For Pious Woman Of U. S.

By DEXTER H. TEED
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK—When a little band of pilgrims sailed from New York July 9, bound for Rome, they carried with them a petition to Pope Pius XI asking for canonization of the first United States saint.

Thus the humility and devotion of Elizabeth Bayley Seton 110 years ago may be rewarded by sainthood, and if that happens the life of a woman who was reared in luxury, then suffered in poverty, will assume new significance. Now she is only Mother Seton, founder of the Sisters of Charity, a legendary figure whose calm acceptance of life's tragedies brought no bitterness, but enabled her to find in travail the serenity of mind reserved for those with an implicit faith in the will of God.

She was born August 28, 1774, in New York, of an old English family, schooled in traditions of aristocracy and of the Episcopal faith. Her acceptance of Catholicism came during the late 10 years of her life.

As a girl in New York she grew up like other girls of her time, conscious of the turmoil of the American revolution, but never touched directly by it. She was devout, pious and restrained. Until she married William Magee Seton, her life was similar to thousands of others who lived in lower Manhattan. It was apparently a love marriage. It linked her family, directly related to the present Roosevelt family, to one whose old-world connections joined it with the finest in England and Scotland.

left with the two women from his service station at 10:30 o'clock. He said Olsen was at the Fairmount boulevard home in his car, and that Donaldson was in the seat with him. It was evident that the discrepancy between 10:15 o'clock, the time the girl said she was accosted, and 10:30 o'clock, when the father claims he saw young Olsen.

Two other state witnesses beside the girl were heard Monday morning. Clair Larson, police officer who answered a call put in by the girl from the Betts home on Victoria Heights, and Malcolm Eddy, newspaper man, in whose home the girl's escort went for assistance, were questioned.

by Clifford Henson, 17, at a downtown intersection.

Witnesses said the woman was crossing the street in front of the car when she stopped, started back, then dashed in front of the car just in time to be struck. She died half an hour later in a hospital.

Young Henson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Henson, formerly of Eugene, was held in custody. Witnesses said he was travelling slowly and was not to blame.

Mrs. Moore was somewhat deaf and it is believed she did not hear the car until it was very close. Coroner Hollis Ransom of Astoria plans to hold an inquest.

DIRIGIBLE DESTROYED
KANSAS CITY, July 13.—A sudden storm swept the $60,000 Goodyear dirigible Mayflower to destruction against high tension wires near the municipal airport here last night.

Capt. Charles E. Brannigan, 35, the pilot, was burned dangerously in an attempt to weather alone a high wind that jerked the 400-foot craft from its mooring mast and a ground.

Gasoline spilling from tanks ruptured by a crash against the roof of an army hangar was ignited as the Mayflower lurched against a transformer. The bog was filled with helium gas, which is non-inflammable, but flames poured over the gondola.

Captain Brannigan fell with the airship in front of a northbound freight train on railway tracks below. The train halted 50 yards away. Brannigan was rescued by a co-pilot, R. H. Hobbsack, who with Claude Henderson, a member of the crew, had dropped to safety a moment before. Hobbsack was burned slightly. Hospital physicians said Brannigan's condition was critical.

License Arrests To Be Made Here

There will be no provisional arrests for those driving without new automobile licenses, such offenders to be arrested on regular charges of driving without licenses and brought into justice court, announced Captain Jay Saltzman, head of the traffic division in this area Monday.

If the governor pardons people thus arrested, Captain Saltzman said he would arrest them again the next day and go through the same procedure in justice court.

Captain Saltzman returned Monday from a trip to Salem.

Marshfield Beaten By Local Net Men

Eugene tennis players took Marshfield into camp, 7 to 0, in an early match played on the university courts Sunday afternoon.

Despite the fact that Eugene won all matches, the Cross country set men put up a hard fight and several of the boys were won by a hair.

Saltzman of Eugene beat E. Gurney of Marshfield, 7-5 and 9-7, and I. Ahern beat Koble, 6-2, 8-6. Other matches were hard fought. Kalkisky of Eugene won a clean sweep, winning from Chitt, 6-0, 6-0.

Misfortunes Pile Up

She might have been like others if her husband's health had not failed early in life. She might never have been considered for sainthood if this had not happened. But this tragedy gave her opportunity for displaying that rare fortitude which has endeared her to millions.

The mother of five children, she went to Italy in 1803 to save herself and her husband. He was near death from tuberculosis. It was the beginning of another of many agonies. Her mother and then her father, whom she loved devotedly, had died. Now her husband...

Spiritual Struggle

He was dying when they were released. Two days after Christmas he breathed for the last time. And she was left in Italy with her little daughter, Ann. Their kind friends, the Filicchi, cared for them.

She sought spiritual consolation. With her friends she wandered into a Catholic church, since there were no Episcopal churches available...

establish a school in Baltimore. But that was not enough. Although it was started she prayed for help in beginning a school for educating the poor. The wealthy Samuel Cooper gave funds.

A site was purchased near Emmitsburg, Md., 50 miles from Baltimore. They had called her Mother Seton by then. She and five other women left for there, walking on country roads. They were the first of the Sisters of St. Joseph, the sisters of charity. They arrived so soon they were forced to live in a log cabin.

"So earnest was every heart, that carrot coffee, salt pork and butter-milk seemed too good a living," she wrote.

Hardships Endured
They lived in the one-story but throughout the winter. Snow was on their coverlets. They arose shivering at dawn and walked to their solitary chapel. One sister, Harriett, died. So did Cecelia. They felt that it was the will of God. A two-story addition was built on the community house and to defray expenses Mother Seton took in pupils who could pay. A formal alliance with the Sisters of Charity, formed in the sixteenth century, was made. Napoleon did not allow sisters to come to America to install the order then, but after Mother Seton was dead this was done.

More than 10,000 women, however, vowed to chastity, humility and obedience, joining the order as it was then started. It lived on. The reputation of the sisters was known over the country. They opened orphan asylums in New York and in 1818 the first parochial school was opened in Philadelphia.

Movement Began in 1880
The process of canonization is a long and formal one. Although a beginning was made in 1880 it was not until 1907 that the church began actual investigation. The climax is near. Mr. Edward A. Pace, vice-rector of the Catholic university in Washington and Mrs. Clara Douglas Sheeran of Brooklyn, president of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, have circulated the petitions. They will lead the pilgrimage.

Looking back to 1821, when Mother Seton died, they are encouraged by her words as she lay dying, humble, confident, calm:

"I see nothing in the world but the blue sky and the altars... We talk now all day long of my death and how it will be just like the rest of the household. What did we come into the world for?"

"Had I arrived at the last stage in the path of my suffering, and were I to hear the crumbling of my prison walls, I do not know how I would be able to endure my delight. To go to my true home and to be called by His will, what a transport of happiness!... I do not fear death half as much as I do my weak and detestable person."

First School Falls

She tried to establish a school for young women. It failed. Her sister-in-law, Cecelia, also became a Catholic. That heartened her. The Most Rev. William Dubourg suggested they establish a school in Baltimore. But that was not enough. Although it was started she prayed for help in beginning a school for educating the poor. The wealthy Samuel Cooper gave funds.
