

CRIME WAVE DUE TO HIT EUGENE FOR TWO NIGHTS

A crime wave of major proportions will break over Eugene Wednesday evening and Thursday evening with the Little Theater's presentation of "Two Gentlemen of Soho" at their Workshop, 13th avenue near Ferry street.

To mitigate the crime wave, they will present also, "The Conch Shell," by Sally Allen, local dramatist, and they will serve cooling refreshments to their customers as part of the four-bit price of admission. Tickets are now on sale at Sidney Claypool's Oregon pharmacy on 13th at Kincaid, near the campus.

The mid-summer presentation of one-act plays is an experiment in testing out the desire of the Eugene public for civic productions which began with last spring's presentation of "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Ten Nights ran five evenings to capacity houses and could probably have played another week had it been possible to keep the cast together. Ten Nights may be revived again next fall.

But the mid-summer plays will present several innovations. "Two Gentlemen of Soho" is grand farce after the Shakespearean manner. "The Conch Shell" is a pleasing comedy of manners. Gerda Brown directs "The Conch Shell" and Alfons Korn directs "The Two Gentlemen."

Several new actors will be introduced in the two playlets, but a number of the old favorites are in the cast also. Dr. Ed Buchanan has the leading role of "Tom," British "dry dick" in the "Two Gentlemen," a role in which he demonstrates the fine arts of murder and suicide with gusto. Seating capacity in the Workshop has been reduced to 60 for the two performances, so that there will be no crowding during the warm weather. Fans have been provided. New scenery designed by Kenneth Shumaker has been built for the performances.

NATION'S DEBTS STORY

The ocean every time a purchase of goods is made between nations. Besides there is not nearly enough gold in the world to cover the tremendous payments involved in international trade.

To escape shipping gold, a merchant in a foreign country buying merchandise in the United States must have credit in this country. If he cannot obtain dollar credit in the United States or purchase it from his own bank, then gold must be sent to pay the bill.

But credit can be obtained generally. For instance a tourist from the United States goes to his bank in this country and purchases a letter of credit on a foreign bank for $1,000. He spends that credit abroad and those to whom he pays it deposit the credit with their banks. Those banks then have a credit with the American bank for $1,000 which may be drawn upon to pay debts owed in the United States. The same system operates when firms here buy goods from foreign companies.

When there is little demand for United States credit in a foreign country the merchant there can buy it at a reasonable premium from his bank, which has received it from its customers. But when the demand is great the premium goes up and finally reaches a point at which it is cheaper to ship gold to the United States than to buy dollar credit.

HEILIG HAS NEW COOLING SYSTEM

In these hot summer days when cool air is at a premium, the installation of a new cooling system is a pleasant thing to think about—particularly to theater patrons who trek down the hot avenues to the talkies in mid-afternoon.

The Heilig theater has just completed installation of a new cooling system. It is a sprinkling system by which the air in the building is kept in circulation and is filtered and kept constantly cool and fresh. It was in operation Tuesday and the entire theater was cool.

EXCELLENT FILM COMING TO STATE

What is true love? Do you know? Could you find words to describe it? Could you point out someone and say that he or she has found true love—and prove it?

"The Girl Who Wanted," the James Cruze production which is a talking screen version of George Rosener's stage play of the same title, is the story of a girl who was searching very hard to find what she called "the sort of true love."

Her husband had been good to her—that is, "as good as he knew how," Mahyna confessed. "But that is not true love, is it?" she asks of Eddie. Eddie assures her that she will find true love with him. Three times he plans to elope with her—and three times he leaves her sitting in a subway and never shows up! It just doesn't seem possible—but then, you don't know Eddie and his gift of gab and his alibi—and you don't know Mahyna and her dead seriousness that is so absurd—or Boris and his gentleness that is so pathetic—or Dave and his meanness that is so cunning!
