OLD FAVORITES TO SHOW AT COLONIAL

For the first time since the talking picture era was established in Eugene, an "Old Favorite Week" with six of the leading hits since sound displaced the silents, will be held here. It is announced by W. B. McDonald, manager of the Colonial theater.

The week will start off with that favorite of every one, "Animal Crackers," in which the four Marx Brothers offer their fun. This picture will also play Monday night. On Tuesday, aviation will hold sway with the picture "Dawn Patrol," only "Hell's Angels" has ever equalled this as an air thriller, and many people actually prefer "Dawn Patrol" because of its pleasanter theme and ending.

Wednesday of the week will bring "Painted Desert," one of the masterpieces of out-of-doors action pictures. On Thursday that tuneful favorite with a galaxy of stars, "It's a Wonderful Life," will be played. Friday will bring the great George Arliss in his masterpiece, "Disraeli," and Saturday the week will be concluded with Harold Lloyd's vehicle, "Fast First," by far the outstanding picture for this star since sound came in.

The pictures are not only being brought back to accommodate those who missed them at previous Colonial showings, but for those who were so enthused over them that they will enjoy seeing them again.

Numerous requests for repeat engagements of all the pictures have been received at the theater, and the "Old Favorite Week" is expected to be one of the best in theatrical history. Mr. McDonald says.

New Hats for Fall

(Portraying A New Angle)

The surprised lady at the left top of the new hat sketched, is getting the latest slant on how Autumn Hats are worn. But this is only one trick. If you prefer, you may choose a hat that starts with a graceful dip just over one eye, to supply a background for your profile.

These chic creations are becomingly embodied of lovely quality felts—"Crushers"—"Robin Hood" and the widely heralded "Empress Eugene." Some with dashing feather ornaments and perky bows.

Turbans and hats with brims are included.
