

LINDY FLIGHT STORY

having arrived early that morning, was standing by. The ship towed the plane to another anchorage off the island and the tow line parted several times. On one occasion the plane narrowly escaped disaster on the rocks. Worries About Plane Lindbergh's two days of anxiety at Ketchikan was said to have been more for the safety of his plane than for Mrs. Lindbergh and himself. This was relieved with the arrival at Muroto bay which is a perfect harbor. Messages indicated the colonel was hopeful of repairing the motor alone and possibly of getting started for Nemuro Saturday or Sunday. As an emergency measure however, he asked the communications department to send mechanics to Nemuro to await further orders in the event he is unable to make the repairs without help. The towing to Muroto bay was completed without mishap, the sea being calm. As far as was known, the plane was not damaged. A flight of three mechanics left Tokyo tonight for Nemuro to be ready to answer any call from Lindbergh. In Fine Harbor Muroto bay is an advantageous place for making repairs. The harbor, three miles in diameter, is landlocked. A sandy beach stretches back toward mountains where silver firs abound, the entire inlet being a forestry department preserve for breeding furs. Lindbergh's hosts will be three Japanese fox tenders who make their home on the island. An ample supply of gasoline, oil and other equipment placed there for the use of Seiji Yoshida, a Japanese aviator who recently flew to America, was offered to the Lindberghs by Hoshi Shimizu, Tokyo newspaper backing the Yoshida flight. Precious dispatches from the Shimshin Maru to the department of communications indicated the trouble was in the plane's carburetor, which failed to vaporize gasoline, probably on account of excessive moisture. Foggy Sea Rough That motor trouble was not the only reason for the Lindberghs' acceptance of the Shimshin Maru's offer, however, was generally acknowledged here. Heavy fog continued to enshroud the central Kuriles today and the seas were roughening. Bad weather conditions caused the transfer of the plane from the south to the north end of Ketchikan Island Thursday. This transfer also was effected with a tow rope. Although she was temporarily separated from her famous husband during the transfer, Mrs. Lindbergh accepted the situation calmly. She was reported in dispatches as having amused herself at intervals by glancing through a Japanese picture magazine. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had dinner aboard the Shimshin Maru Thursday night, eating with chopsticks a meal consisting mostly of fish and rice. Mrs. Lindbergh apparently enjoyed the meal, asking for a second helping of rice.

SAILING TO NEW INTERNATIONAL GLIDER MARK!

Gliding continuously for 16 hours 38 minutes, Lieut. John C. Crain has regained the international glider record for America. His mark eclipses the former record, established in Germany, by two hours. Photo shows the glider on its record breaking flight over the island of Oahu, T. H.; Inset, Lieut. Crain.

George W. Crouse, of Syracuse, N. Y., who also has flown in the Graf Zeppelin. The addition brought the number of passengers to seven.

HANDKERCHIEF WAGER MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Fraulein Maria Von Emdorf, German flier, landed this evening at Novosibirsk on a solo flight from Berlin to Tokio. The fraulein carries a handkerchief with which she hopes to have the opportunity of waving at Mrs. Charles Lindbergh in event their planes meet.

FOREST FIRES STORY

ering a ten-mile arc, the fire had advanced to school house hill, a half mile south of town, and to the town reservoir, a half mile to the west. All residents moved their belongings to the creek bottom and many abandoned their homes. No casualties were reported. Quartermaster reported all residents accounted for. They recalled that it was the second serious fire there in two years, the previous one burning down 14 buildings at the mine. G. H. Burroughs, operator of the mine, expressed doubt that Quartermaster would be rebuilt. At Placerville, Mrs. Lizzie Robinson, telephone operator and store keeper, and her two daughters, Lorenna and Henrietta, insisted upon remaining there as long as their services could be of help. A Red Cross committee surveyed Placerville to determine what financial aid was necessary. Arrangements were made to send a truck load of supplies there.

FIRE UNDER CONTROL LA GRANDE, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The Catherine creek forest fire east of Union appeared to be definitely under control today. Both forest and state authorities were withdrawing men from the fire lines. Only 75 men remained on duty where 300 had been fighting the flames. Revised estimates today indicated that only about 2000 acres of timber were burned.

ONLY BRUISED GALA, Va.—(AP)—Kenneth Messer, 14, sustained only minor bruises when both an automobile and a truck passed over his body in a collision here. A small Berlin theater has been fitted with reversible seats so that their occupants can face a moving picture screen at one end of the building or a lecture platform at the other.

WAGE REDUCTION STORY

crude petroleum producing companies. Considerable reductions in metalliferous mining, quarrying and the canning and preserving industries. Industries which have maintained payroll levels were listed by the labor department as telephone and telegraph, power and light and hotels. Department officials emphasized that these statistics must be regarded as merely indicating a trend, and only represented wage decreases among the 14,000 odd manufacturing concerns with which the department is in regular correspondence. As the result of wage cutting and reduced operating schedules, the individual employed workman in the industrial companies reporting to the labor department earned in June of this year 3.7 per cent less for the month than in May and 12 per cent less than in June, 1930, government economists estimate. Reductions in employed textile workers' wages ranged from 10.9 per cent in the men's clothing group to 2 per cent for cotton goods workers. An increase of 13.4 per cent was recorded this June in the pay of carpenters and rug workers, as compared with June, 1930. Statistics of wages in the steel group revealed that the earnings of iron and steel workers, including part time laborers, were 22.8 per cent less than in June, 1930. Structural iron workers, the labor department reports showed, received average salaries 17.7 per cent under the June, 1930, level. Automobile workers in firms reporting to the department took a 14.9 per cent cut.

DOG WORMS PLANTS KINSTON, N. C.—(AP)—Raymond Elmore's pointer dog helps its owner "worm" tobacco plants on regular worming expeditions through fields of the Elmore farm. The dog uses his tongue to rid the leaves of the worms which feed on them. The dog's work is considered very thorough. The Irish Free State in 1930 bought more British automobiles than all the foreign countries in the world put together.

CUBAN REVOLUTION SAID NEARLY OVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Speedy conclusion of the Cuban revolution was predicted today by Ambassador Guggenheim at Havana in a message to the state department. The ambassador said the capture of the rebel stronghold, the falling of prominent leaders and the loyalty to the government of the army and navy presaged a conclusion of the insurrection. Acting Secretary of State Castle in announcing the ambassador's message discounted press reports of fighting in Havana, saying he was sure the ambassador would have reported to the department had the encounters been serious. The acting secretary denied that Washington had informed rebel sources here that the ambassador had suggested the cessation of bloodshed. No such suggestion has been made, he said. In response to questions regarding the bombing of the Danish vessel, Frederiksborg, the acting secretary said the matter was one between Denmark and Cuba in which the American government had no interest.

City's Officials Gone; He Moved Out IONE, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—There is an opening here today for a preacher, an editor, a city recorder and a deputy sheriff. The Rev. W. W. Head, who held all the jobs, has moved from the city. His paper, the Ione Independent, suspended publication.

Youth Solves His Employment Problem MEDFORD, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Robert Pool, 20, who had his own ideas on how to solve the unemployment problem, won't have to worry about a job for a year. Pool admitted he set forest fires to get work fighting them. Circuit Judge Norton sentenced him to a year in the state penitentiary.

NO LIMIT WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—President Hoover said today that the farm board would not limit the amount of wheat to be sold to the Chinese government. Trees threatened with a disease called chlorosis, which produces a loss of green in the foliage, can be kept healthy by treatment with solutions of iron salts.

deep in the flood. They refused to heed the boatman's cry to move aside and asked him to strike them down. The aged couple said their religion and their fear that the "water dragon's" wrath would be visited upon them prevented their committing suicide but asserted they would welcome death.
