Callison Names Starters For Frosh-Rook Dad's Day Game Saturday

YEARLING TEAMS RATED ON PAR FOR BIG-LITTLE TILT

BEFORE a crowd that is expected to number several hundred Oregon dads, in addition to a good many thousand other football fans, Prink Callison's freshman team will get its first real taste of battle Saturday evening. After walking over the Monmouth reserves, 45 to 0, the Oregon frosh will go up against the Oregon State college rooks, a team that did nearly the same thing. The Rooks beat Monmouth 25 to 0.

The odds are a tossup as the "big-little classic" approaches.

For once, the Oregon dads are to get a real "break," and Ken Jette, chairman of the committee, has planned a round of week-end events to entertain the dads during their annual visit here as the special guests of the Oregon students. Eugene dads of Oregon students will come in for their share of attention as well as the dads coming from out of town, and the men who foot the bills will sit with their sons and daughters at the game.

Play Under Lights

The classic will be played under the lights of Hayward field. Callison will put his men through their paces under the glare of the mazdas this week to accustom them to night playing, and expects to send a strong lineup against the Rooks. He announced his probable starting lineup Wednesday.

Butch Morse and Ned Simpson will play ends; Alex Eagle and Frye, tackles; Roy Gagnon and Ross Smith, guards; and Chase, center. In the backfield will be Bill Bevans, quarterback; the hard hitting Stan Koska at full; and Elmer Brown and Pepinjack, halfbacks. Art Clarkson, triple-threat man from Seattle, who scored two touchdowns and passed for two more against the normal reserves, will also see action in the backfield, as will Turgeson and Parker.

In addition to these starters, Callison has a fine string of reserves to send into the line and backfield, and as soon as the varsity gets away for the east, he will begin drilling his men on their offense and defense for Saturday night. The freshman coach has been busy the past several weeks putting his men through their paces as Idaho, Washington, Southern California, and this week, North Dakota players, in order to give the varsity a taste of the style of play they could expect in their various games.

The Oregon frosh won the unofficial northwest championship last year when they defeated the Washington freshman, and divided with the Rooks, losing the first game by a narrow margin and smothering them in the final game. Callison's men won all of their minor games, also.

The Rooks are reputed to be strong this year and to have a wealth of fast backfield men. Arnold Heikenen, former Washington high flash, is expected to lead the Rook attack Saturday evening.

Gabby Says Haines Through As Hurler

CARTHAGE, Mo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—"Gabby" Street, Cardinal pilot, speaking at a dinner in his honor here last night, expressed fear that Jess Haines veteran ace of the St. Louis staff, would never be able to pitch again because of the arm injury he suffered toward the close of the season.

Asked about the prospect of the Cardinals next year, the manager said:

GETS ANOTHER TITLE TRY!

Just one more chance! That's the theme song of Bob Miller's campaign against George "Wildcat" Pete, Eugene wrestler and Marshfield flying instructor. Miller will try Thursday evening to finish the job of taking Pete's world's junior middleweight wrestling belt from him. Bob was well on the way in his first title encounter but lost when he went out of the ring on his head after getting Pete in an airplane spin. The 300 doctors who will be in Eugene for the medical convention plan to be on hand for the bout.

Oregon Leaves Wednesday For Eastern Grid Games

Facing two intersectional games on successive Saturdays, the Oregon football team was to leave Eugene at 4:35 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on the Klamath limited. The Webfoots will stop first at Grand Forks, North Dakota, where they will meet the University of North Dakota eleven next Saturday, and will then continue on to New York city to meet New York university the following week.

Bernie Hughes

The Webfoots worked until long after dark Tuesday in an effort to smooth out their attack for the Nodak game. Spears drove his men hard throughout the afternoon and scrimmaged them for over two hours.

Winter Is Out

Another blow hit the Oregon camp here Tuesday morning when X-ray pictures taken of a knee injury suffered by Lawrence Winter, regular end, showed a fractured bone in his left knee. The injury necessitated placing a cast over the knee and Winter will be lost to the squad for at least a month and possibly for the remainder of the season.

The injury to Winter disrupted Spears' plans to shift Bill Bowerman, reserve end, to the quarterback position. Bowerman will be switched back to end to take the place left vacant by Winter.

A huge pep rally was planned as a send-off for the Oregon squad here Wednesday, according to Carson Mathews, rally chairman. The event was to be held in McArthur Court with members of the team and of the coaching staff expected to be present.

Spears announced Tuesday night that the Webfoots would be given a final workout early Wednesday afternoon before entraining for Grand Forks.

North Dakota is reputed to have a powerful grid machine this season. The Nodaks have been undefeated in their conference for three years and have defeated University of South Dakota and South Dakota State by large scores this season. The Oregon game will be the feature attraction of the annual North Dakota Homecoming celebration.

Down to Work

The Webfoots have forgotten about their overwhelming defeat at the hands of Southern California last week and have settled down to hard practice for the coming games. They received their first taste of North Dakota style of play Tuesday when a picked freshman team ran through the Nodak formations in scrimmage.

One important change in the Oregon line for Saturday's game will find Bernie Hughes at left guard in place of Ken Wilson. Hughes started the season as a reserve center but was switched to guard just before the Washington game. He has come along steadily until he is now ready to hold down a regular berth.

The Oregon starting lineup will probably include: Eric Forsta, center; Hughes and Captain Irv Schulz, guards; Bill Morgan and Erwin Nilsson, tackles; Orville Bailey and Bill Bowerman, ends; Ed Moeller, quarter; Mark Temple and Leighton Gee, halfbacks; and Mike Mikulak, fullback.

Those making the trip with the team are: Doc Spears, head coach; Bill Reinhart, backfield coach; Bill Hayward, trainer; and Jack Dant, student football manager.

Players selected to make the trip are: Eric Forsta, Al Edwards, Ray Kelly, Paul Starr, Chuck Swanson, Bernie Hughes, Howard Clark, Irv Schulz, Red Wilson, Erwin Nilsson, Bill Morgan, Bill Bowerman, Red Bailey, Chuck Wishard, Ed Moeller, Romer DePittard, Howard Bobbitt, Leighton Gee, Don Watts, Bud Pozzo, Mark Temple, Oliver Pope.

TROJAN-BEAR GAME IS BIGGEST EVENT OF WEEK ON COAST

By ALANSON W. EDWARDS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—(U.P.)—Riding the crest of topheavy victory, the Trojans of Southern California will renew their ancient gridiron rivalry with the unsung Bears of California in the first of this year's "big games" at Berkeley Memorial Stadium Saturday.

California's unpleasant memory of an overwhelming defeat in the U. C.-U. S. C. game last year brought the feud to where it outshone in public attention all other coast engagements for the weekend—Mohler and Shaver doubtless will carry off the honors of the day for U. S. C., but the hard pressed Bears vow it will not be by any such score as the 74-0 holacaust registered last year.

As for the Washington-Stanford contest, the Cardinals and their mystery men seem to hold the upper hand. Unbeaten and tied but once, the Cards are ahead if statistics are any good, which often they are not. Washington has lost to Oregon but Oregon has not played Stanford.

Glenn (Pop) Warner has never put his first team in for an entire game, and in consequence the experts have been unable to put a price tag on his men. The proven worth of Warner's shock troops, however, make the Palo Altoans favorites.

The Oregon U. team, smarting under a lacing handed them last week by the Trojans with a score running into the fifties, will vent their animus on North Dakota in an intersectional game at Grand Forks.

The 1930 champion Cougars from Washington State ought to win their game with Montana at Missoula.

University of California at Los Angeles held Northwestern to 19-0 in Evanston last week and are favorites to turn back the Pomona college gridders at Claremont.

One of the best Gonzaga teams in years will come to Kezar stadium here Sunday for their annual struggle with St. Mary's. If the Gaels play no better than they did last week, Gonzaga will give them lots of trouble. But "Slip" Madigan probably has attended to the task of enlivening his squad, and they should win.

KRAMER HAS TWO MEN OUT OF GAME

When Fritz Kramer takes his "hard luck" Eugene high football team to Albany Friday afternoon, he will be without the services of two of his star players—Joe Hill, quarterback, and Jim Jacobsen, captain and end. Both men are out of the game with poison oak, and it is improbable that Jacobsen will be able to play for two weeks. Hill has been away from the practice field all week and will probably not get in the Friday game.

The Eugene team took one on the chin last Friday evening when it lost to the University high with a score of 6 to 7. Kramer's men were strong on line play but noticeably weak on pass defense and offense, and the coach has been working them over along those lines this week. Although the Eugene line held well in the game with the campus team, Kramer has been making a few moves in that department. Last week he shifted Ted Reed to guard, moving Agater to tackle and Jacobsen to end. Jacobsen, however, is out of the game and his place will be filled by Sid Milligan or Vernon Sprague.

If Joe Hill's condition does not permit him to play, the quarterback berth will be filled by Biddle, Rickabaugh, Parker or Don Owen. Homer Reed, diminutive ex-Roosevelt player, was given a first string berth last week at tackle and played a heady game. He will probably remain on the line. Knight is giving John Hill a hard run at center and may start the game unless Hill picks up before Friday.

Kramer will be competing Friday with his old Washington State teammate, Ellingson, present coach of the Albany team. It will be the first time that the two ex-Cougars have met as coaches.

Coast League Has Good 1931 Season

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Baseball of the Pacific Coast league was one thing that wasn't hit by the depression in 1931.

This year the league played to 1,637,595 paid admissions as against 1,673,123 during 1930. The decrease of 35,528, however, was blamed on the fact that the league played 28 weeks in 1930 as compared with 26 weeks this year. League officials said if the season had been the same length as the previous year, a heavier record probably would have been established for 1931 than for 1930.

HIGHCLIMBER looks 'em over

By ROY CRAFT

When the University high's gridiron warriors defeated Eugene Friday evening, it marked the campus squad's seventh major sport victory over the purple since Jan. 1 of this year. They have won 2 basketball games, 2 tennis matches, a pair of baseball games, and the present grid contest. Eugene has triumphed in swimming and golf.

The basketball season saw the University high men take the first contest in an overtime battle, and come back to prove it no upset by winning again, 19 to 20 to annex the "A" league title. The tennis team, always a consistent winner, was runner-up for the state title. In reaching this position, they twice stopped the Eugeneans, the first time 6 to 1, the second 4 to 3.

In baseball, again rated as underdog by many Eugene followers, the campus team won 9 to 8 on the Eugene diamond. In the crucial battle for the league title, played on Reinhart field, the University high again won, 8 to 6. In last Friday's football game, both the backfield and line played fine football to win by a one-point margin. The campus high line was outweighed more than 20 pounds to the man, but held up in spite of the lack of weight, and on one occasion stopped a rush on their own one-yard line.

Eugene and University high will meet this winter on the basketball floor, and Fritz Kramer's men will attempt to break the jinx which the campus team has draped over the Purple squad. Until then, at least, the University high students, so long the under dogs, may be excused if they appear to assume a superior attitude around the Eugene high crowd.

* * *

The recent Oregon-Southern California football game, which ended so disastrously for the Webfoots, brings to mind that that Oregon-Trojan game in 1915, which the old-timers tell about. It was played on the old Bovard field in Los Angeles, and the Trojan line, with one Scow Curry at tackle, stopped Oregon's attack cold for two quarters.

At half time, the score was 0 to 0. Then Coach Hugo Bezdek made two changes in the Oregon line-up, the only ones all day. He sent Shy Huntington to quarter to replace Montieth and moved the latter to a halfback berth. After the avalanche had struck and the casualties counted it was found that Oregon had tallied 14 points in the third quarter and 20 in the fourth quarter. Thirty-four to nothing.

Shy Huntington was one of the greatest quarterbacks and field generals ever developed on the Pacific coast. He played on the Oregon team that beat Pennsylvania, 14 to 0, in the second New York's day game at Pasadena, and he coached the Oregon team that lost to Harvard, 7 to 6, on New Year's day of 1920. On the Harvard team was all-American Eddie Casey, present Crimson coach.

It may be interesting to local old-timers to recall that the 1915 Southern California team which lost to Oregon included Werner and Jones at ends, Fox and Curry at tackles, Marxen and Marks at guards, with red-headed Simpson of San Diego at center. In the backfield Rabbit Mallette was at quarter, Craig at left half, Marshall at right half and Capt. Livernash at fullback. Mose Mosely was a demon halfback sub for the Trojans. He has gained some aerial distinction since those days.

In spite of the 34 to 0 beating handed them by Oregon, the Trojans that year were considered a strong team. Maybe we shouldn't worry too much over that 53 to 0 defeat they handed us last week. But, boy, what we would have given for a Shy Huntington down there in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon.

Comiskey, Jr., Says Father Is Better

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., Oct. 21.—(AP)—J. Louis Comiskey today denied reports that his father, Charles A. Comiskey, 73-year-old owner of the Chicago White Sox, was "very low."

The son, treasurer of the baseball club, said his father had been under the care of doctors at his summer home here for several weeks but that his condition had shown improvement.

FRANK FRISCH IS MOST VALUABLE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The National league's "most valuable player" for 1931 is Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the world.

Frank Frisch

Frisch received 65 points out of a maximum of 80 from a committee of baseball writers to win the award by ten points from Chuck Klein, Phillies' outfielder, with Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants a close third with 53. Officially the practice of naming annually the "most valuable player" was dropped in 1929 by the National league. In 1930, Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs was selected by an unofficial poll conducted by the Associated Press and the Cubs recognized the award by naming Wilson the customary $1000. This year the poll was conducted, unofficially again, by the Baseball Writers' Association of America of which William J. Slocum of New York is president.

Hornsby Started

In the eight years that the most valuable player has been selected in the Heydler loop, St. Louis players have been adjudged the winners four times. Rogers Hornsby started the St. Louis parade in 1925 followed by Bob O'Farrell in 1926, Jim Bottomley in 1928 and Frisch this year. Dazzy Vance won the first award, in 1924, Paul Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, in 1927, Hornsby as a member of the Cubs in 1929 and Wilson last year.

Frisch has been a contender for the honor thrice previously. He finished third to Vance in 1924 as a member of the New York Giants; second to Waner in 1927 and second to Wilson last season.

The Cardinal captain and Terry were the only players this year to score points on all eight of the writers' ballots with Klein placing on seven of them. Frisch was given only one vote for first place but received five votes for second, one for fourth and one for eighth.

The vote for the leaders in the voting follows:

Frisch, St. Louis, 65; Klein, Phillies, 55; Terry, New York, 53; English, Chicago, 30; Hafey, St. Louis, 29; Wilson, St. Louis, 28; Jackson, New York, 24; Grimm, Chicago, 21; Adams, St. Louis, 18; Brandt, Boston, 15; Maranville, Boston, 15; Cuyler, Chicago, 14; Traynor, Pittsburgh, 12; Lucas, Cincinnati, 10; Lloyd Waner, Pirates, 8; Bottomley, St. Louis, 8.

Street Pleased

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Charles "Gabby" Street, said today he was "mighty proud and happy" that Frankie Frisch had been selected as the National league's most valuable player for 1931.

"Frankie is a great player," the Cardinal manager said, "an able field captain, and a real hustler who gave the Cards everything he had through the season and the world series."

Willamette Plans Bright Homecoming

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 21.—(U.P.)—Homecoming at Willamette University Friday is expected to be a brighter affair than for years past. Ralph McCullough, manager, has issued invitations to more than 600 alumni to the night football game with the College of Idaho. Special carnival features will attract many, he believed.

PROCHNOW WINS

R. Prochnow won five straight horseshoe games Sunday to take the round robin tournament at the city park. G. Ernsting and H. C. Cook tied for second place with three won and two lost each. The Eugene tossers will throw again Sunday.

Along the Sidelines

By UNITED PRESS

PRINCETON, N. J.—With four new players promoted to the Princeton varsity squad, Coach Al Wittmer will give every regular a chance to show his stuff in a practice scrimmage with the second team today. Princeton plays Navy Saturday.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—Army will have a protracted period of defensive work against Yale plays today in preparation for their annual tussle at the bowl Saturday. Several new plays and some line-up changes were instituted yesterday with no apparent improvement.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Minor injuries to Pug Rentner and Ollie Olson will not prevent those two Northwestern backs from starting Saturday's game against Ohio State.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Coach Heartly Anderson expected to give the Notre Dame regulars a hard scrimmage today in preparation for Saturday's game with Pittsburgh.

COLUMBUS, O.—Coach Sam Willamson plans no changes in the Ohio State lineup which defeated Michigan last week when the Buckeyes face Northwestern here Saturday.

ANN ARBOR, Mich—With Chuck De Baker making there touchdowns in less than 10 minutes against the freshmen yesterday, Michigan's team apparently has snapped out of its sluggish ways and is anxious to make a comeback against Illinois Saturday.

MADISON, Wis.—Wisconsin's lineup which upset Purdue will remain the same for Saturday's intersectional game with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

CHICAGO.—Three Chicago regulars, Zimmer, Wein and Captain Horwitz, are nursing injuries. Wein and Horwitz were hurt in the Yale game but Zimmer was injured in a roughhouse at his fraternity Monday night.

Greentree Stable Trainer Is Dead

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 22.—(AP)—James Rowe Jr., 42, trainer for Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stables, died here today.

The son of the late James Rowe, head trainer at one time for Harry Payne Whitney's stables, Mr. Rowe had trained the champion three-year-old, Twenty Grand, and was preparing St. Brideaux, a Greentree stable horse, for the $15,000 Maryland handicap at Laurel race track Saturday. He had become ill Monday of indigestion. He was regarded by turfmen as one of the best horsemen in the United States.

WASHINGTON LOOKS FOR HARD BATTLE

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—(U.P.)—The Stanford-Washington clash—always a battle—probably will be no exception next Saturday on the turf at Stadium Field with Coach Jimmy Phelan hoping to trip a major conference opponent.

Bledsoe

Phelan will use his most experienced and best defensive backfield. It will include Merle Hufford, Clarence Bledsoe, Johnny Cherberg and Bill Walmer. Hufford will do the kicking in the absence of the big foot of Bill Marsh, still incapacitated from the Oregon game.

The line has been revamped in an effort to stop Captain Harry Hillman and "Fancy Phil" Moffatt, Stanford's great triple threat back. Ray Finn probably will start at center with Frank Windust and Bill O'Brien at his side. Paul Schwegler, one of the coast's great linemen, will plug at left tackle with either Mark Autonich or Joe Wiatrak at right tackle. Lenfesty and Calrney may start at ends.

Husky morale is high. But few know better than Coach Phelan and his squad just how difficult it will be to stop Cardinal power plays, spinners and reverses — let alone passes.

Nationalista Is Winner in Bout

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 21.—(U.P.)—Young Nationalista floored Ernie Peters, Chippewa Indian battler, for a nine-count in the first round here last night, then had to fight like a whirlwind for nine rounds more to win a decision over the tough, game Peters.

Benny Pelz, Portland, knocked out Billy Bonillas, Watsonville, Cal., in the first round of their scheduled 10 round semi-wind-up.

BLUENOSE WINS

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Bluenose, Captain Angus Walter's big salt banker from Lunenburg, N. S., retained her throne as the queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleets today by defeating the American challenger, Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, Mass., in the second straight race.
