Tulane Will Battle To Keep South's Record Clean In Rose Bowl Tilt

TROJANS PICKED TO TAKE GAME ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Four great southern football teams, three of them from Alabama and one from Georgia Tech, have established the tradition that a Dixie team can't be beaten in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Howard Jones

New Year's Day will find another great team from the south—Tulane of New Orleans—trying to keep that record clean in a game with Southern California. It is a Tulane team whose record is without a flaw of a tie score. It has rolled up 238 points against 35 for its opponents.

The Pacific coast will see on New Year's at least two all-American players in the Tulane lineup—Halfback Don Zimmerman and End Gerald Dalrymple. But there are others on the team of near all-star caliber. Vernon Haynes plays the other end. He caught six forward passes in the game against Washington State that resulted in a 28 to 14 victory for the Green Wave.

Dawson Directs

In the Tulane backfield directing the attack is Red Dawson, Wisconsin boy who was chosen all-Southern by several of the experts. "Papa" Nollie Felts, "Wop" Glover and Francis Payne are there to lug the leather when Zimmerman isn't passing, kicking or running with it.

Guards Scafide, Schroeder and McCormick form one of the best midline combinations in the country. At tackles are Rankston, Decoligny and Upton, with Lodrigues at center.

Much will depend upon the line in the tussle with the Trojans. Coach Bernie Bierman has a few spinners and laterals in his repertoire, but most of Tulane's gains are from tackle to tackle, mixed up with a passing attack that is effectively deceptive with Zimmerman doing most of the passing.

Like Howard Jones, coach of the Trojans, Bierman bases his system upon power. There are very few trick plays, perhaps one or two for tight spots. But power and speed are the main points in the Tulane attack, with Zimmerman's great passing furnishing deception.

Evenly Matched

Rating both teams off their games with Washington State, the two elevens that play in the Rose Bowl are about evenly matched. Southern California beat the Cougars 38 to 6. Tulane won its game, 28 to 14.

The Trojans have lost but one game, the season's opener to St. Mary's 13 to 7. Jones men have beaten Oregon, Oregon State, Washington State, California, Stanford, Montana, Notre Dame and Washington, about as formidable a group of opponents as could be found.

Tulane has had two intersectional games. The Green Wave beat the Texas Aggies 7 to 0 and Washington State 28 to 14. All of its other games have been with southern teams.

It is hard to pick a winner between two teams where speed, power and deception seems to be so well matched. Offhand, with the memory of Notre Dame's demoralization at the hands of the intrepid Trojans, this correspondent would cast a vote on Southern California. That's a pretty fair football team, too.

ON WAY WEST

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—The Tulane university football squad, bound for the annual tournament of roses game with Southern California, planned a light workout here after arrival at 8 a. m.

The squad was to remain here all day to enable the players to make a sight-seeing trip to Juarez, Mexico. The Greenies' scrimmage was set for 1 p. m.

Their special train will leave late today for Tucson, Ariz., where another workout is planned tomorrow.

Eugene High Has Interclass Games

The Eugene high school interclass basketball games were to get under way Monday afternoon after school. The first game was to be between Ox Bradway's sophomore, and Courtney Towne's 9A team. Sid Milligan's juniors were to tangle with Lloyd Morris' seniors in the second game.

The coaches spent last week scouring their classes for material and believe they have their most formidable teams lined up, and may give Coach Fritz Kramer a chance to uncover some new material. The sophomore class was given a slight edge in the advance dope.

No basketball lettermen are allowed to play in the games, which will be played during most of the week.

Drain Woodmen Defeat Grovers

The lineups:

Drain		Grove
Whipple 4	F	Conner 4
Mattoon 8	F	Schenbler 2
R. Miller 2	C	Rogier
S. Miller 8	G	Chesnut
Bitholomy 2	G	Glass

Subs: Drain, Bishop 2, Cooms and Alford. Grove, Porter, King 1 and Hardesty 1. Referee Kahler.

Bears Row Their Way to Georgia

BERKELEY, Dec. 21.—Believing that rowing is a beneficial exercise for football players, Coach W. A. "Biff" Ingram, head football coach at the University of California, has had a rowing machine installed in one of the cars of the special train which is carrying the Bears to Atlanta for their intersectional game with Georgia Tech Dec. 26.

Ingram, a former stroke of the Navy academy eight, feels that the rowing machine will serve in some way to keep the Bear gridders in shape on the long train ride. Wrestling mats have also been provided.

HERE'S GREEN WAVE THAT WILL SURGE AGAINST TROY!

The mighty Trojans went marching through Georgia to the tempo of 60-0 for a victory that placed them high in national standings. However, Southern California has to beat Tulane at Pasadena Rose Bowl New Years to call it a season, and thus far Tulane is undefeated. Here's the first string of Tulane. Left to right, they are: Linemen, Capt. Dalrymple, All-America end; Upton, tackle; Scafide, All-Southern guard; Lodrigues, center; McCormick, guard; Bankston, tackle; Haynes, end. Backfield, Payne, halfback; Felts, All-Southern fullback; Zimmerman, All-America halfback; Dawson, All-Southern quarterback.

PEPPER MARTIN'S FEAT GREATEST IN SEASON OF SPORTS

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of four stories featuring the views of the nation's sports editors on the athletic highspots of 1931. The accompanying story is in response to the Associated Press query: "What was the outstanding individual achievement in sports for 1931?" Tomorrow the poll on the oustanding team achievement will be discussed).

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—To John Leonard (Pepper) Martin belongs the distinction of turning in the outstanding individual achievement in sports for 1931, in the overwhelming opinion of American sports writers and editors.

With the same sort of speed that marked this sensational solo flight against the Athletics in the world series, the young St. Louis Cardinal outfielder romped away with the votes in a nation-wide poll conducted by The Associated Press.

Martin was singled out as the individual star of the year by 68 experts out of a total of 112. This was slightly more than 50 per cent, giving Pepper a clear majority over all other candidates combined.

Although they were outdistanced, Francis Ouimet, the veteran who returned to the amateur golfing heights after 17 years, and Ellsworth Vines, 19-year-old national tennis king, ran a close race for second place, Ouimet finally won by the narrow margin of 11 votes to 10 for the California sensation.

Here are the results of the Associated Press poll:

Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinals 68.

Francis Ouimet, National amateur golf champion 11.

Ellsworth Vines, national amateur tennis champion 10.

Lefty Grove, leading American league pitcher 6.

Billie Burke, national open golf champion, 4.

Helene Madison, swimming champion and record-holder 3.

Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion 2.

Bat Battalino, featherweight boxing champion 1.

Howard H. Jones, Southern California football coach 1.

John Orsi, Colgate football captain 1.

Jules Ladoumegue (France) world mile record holder 1.

The recognition for what one sports editor described as "Martin's unprecedented, spectacular and record-breaking play in the world series" furnished striking proof of how the youngsters performance stirred the enthusiasm of the nation's sporting experts. The Cardinal star's personal batting and base running exploits, which had the world champion Athletics completely up in the air for five games, possessed every element of sporting drama.

By the half dozen who selected Lefty Grove for the No. 1 individual performance of the year, instead of Martin, it was pointed out that the southpaw star's ability was tested over a full season. Similarly those who rated Vines at the top of the list emphasized the brilliance it required to capture 14 tennis tournaments at the age of 19.

"By capturing every one of the 16 free style official women's swimming records, Helene Madison was fully entitled to be conceded the outstanding individual performer of the year," wrote another sports observer. "No other woman swimmer has ever done this remarkable stunt."

Bears Leave For Game With Georgia

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—The Golden Bears of California were enroute to Atlanta today for the closing game of their season against Georgia Tech on Dec. 26.

Emerging from a conference year of surprising success, the Bears were determined as a final gesture to even the score with Georgia Tech for marring California's otherwise perfect intersectional record.

"Navy Bill" Ingram, head coach, led a squad of 36 men on the trip south.

Included on the squad were all the men whose playing amazed western fans by a remarkable comeback after a disastrous season last year. Badly beaten in most of their 1930 games, the Bears were turned into a band of fighters this season and lost only to the powerful Trojans of U. S. C., and then only by a 6 to 0 score.

HIGHCLIMBER talks 'em over

By ROY CRAFT

Herb Owen, Eugene boxing and wrestling promoter, is confident that he will be able to bring Robin Reed world's welterweight wrestling champion, here next Monday evening. The great Reedsport grappler, whose record has been an almost unbroken chain of victories since he first won the welterweight amateur championship at the Olympic games, has returned to the coast following his successful campaign for Reynold's belt in the east.

It took Reed a long time to get that belt, but it goes to show what persistence, perseverance and stick-to-it-iveness will do. Of course, it helps to be possessed of Reed's ability, for the persistence, perseverence and stick-to-it-iveness involved winning some 57 straight matches.

Reed hasn't yet had his crack at Reynolds, but it's Reynolds who will have to do the howling now. Reed was awarded the welterweight belt by the national boxing commission after he had won every elimination tournament match and had established such a record that Reynolds had to either meet him or forfeit the belt. The two had met years ago, and Reynolds had won, but the welterweight champ didn't want any of Reed now that he has matured, and so he saw his belt go glimmering rather than wrestle the Reedsport boy.

Reed has wrestled a good many times in Eugene, and has held the world's junior middleweight belt now worn by our own George "Wildcat" Pete. Last year when Reed came here, he didn't look so hot. The Reedsport Baron owns a tugboat line, a newspaper, a butcher shop, a general store and a farm or two, and he could probably be mayor of Reedsport as well as chief of police, fire commissioner and justice of the peace if he cared to.

Anyway, he manages to keep busy during his off-moments from wrestling, and before he started his last campaign for Reynold's belt, he had done little wrestling. The result was that he could throw most of the mugs who went up against him, but he lacked the old Reed zip and dash. A few months away from his newspaper, his tugboat line, his butcher shop, his general merchandise store and his farm or two, may have been hard on his business enterprises, but it has certainly done wonders for his wrestling. He's the old Reed now, flashier than ever.

And so we hope that Herb Owen manages to land him for a match here. It will be worth the trouble just to see Reed in action, and if Owen gets a worthy opponent for him, it will be that much better.

Give your Christmas tree a drink, advises the conservation department of the Izaak Walton League in a current bulletin which tells all helpers of Santa Claus how to keep a Christmas tree fresh and green in the home. Nothing but water and a little sugar are needed to satisfy the thirst of a freshly cut fir spruce, or pine which is destined to be erected in the house and decorated for the holiday season.

One of the troubles which housewives have with Christmas trees after they are set up in the house is the rapid loss of the needles from such trees due to the fact that they dry out quickly. Sometimes only a touch is necessary to send a shower of spruce needles to the carpet. But there is a way out of this difficulty, says the Walton League which advises the following method of procedure:

When it comes times to set up the Christmas tree, cut off a thin piece from the base of it so that a new clean cut surface is exposed. Then set up the tree in a cross like support with the base of the tree immersed in a shallow pan of water to which a teaspoonful of sugar has been added. The tree has the power to absorb water from the pan and draw it up into its branches. Enough moisture can thus be taken up to keep the tiny needles nourished, and they will not drop off the tree as readily as from those not given this free drink.

ART SHIRES MAKES GOOD HIS THREAT TO REJOIN MAJORS

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—Arthur (Wattaman) Shires admittedly is a braggart, but unlike many athletes of his kind, the curly-headed Texan makes his boasts good.

When Shires, who talked himself into the bad graces of the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators, was sent to the Milwaukee American association club last year, he announced modestly that he was "too good a ball player for the minor leagues."

"I'll show up this league," he said, "and I'll be back in the big leagues next year. These pitchers can't stop me."

How well Shires lived up to his promises is shown by official American Association batting averages, released today, which reveal the Milwaukee first baseman as champion batsman of the league.

Playing in 157 games, Shires pounded the ball for 240 safe hits and a .385 average. His hits included 45 doubles, eight triples and 11 home runs and this record enabled him to fulfill his threat to return to the major leagues. The Boston Braves purchased Shires at the close of the 1931 season and he will open the 1932 season as regular first baseman for the Boston Braves.

Shires' batting mark was bettered by Leroy Jones, St. Paul; Alex Ferguson, Toledo, and Gus Dugas, Kansas City, but these players saw service in only 13, 16 and 93 games respectively and thus cannot be considered as legitimate leaders.

Tom Angley, giant Indianapolis catcher, and Dewitt Labourreau of Columbus, tied as runner-up to Shires with averages of .375; and Cliff Crawford of Columbus was fourth at .374.

All Stars of Notre Dame, St. Louis Tie

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—A touchdown by Al Gebert, of Notre Dame all-stars during the last few minutes of play resulted in their game with St. Louis university all-stars ending in a 6-6 tie, before 17,000 in a charity game here yesterday.

The teams are a combination of past and present players of the two universities.

OLD AGE AT 19

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—An answer to the question of how long a trout will live can be found in California, says a recent fishing bulletin of the Izaak Walton league as it calls attention to the fact that a Dolly Vardon trout at the Mt. Shasta, Cal., hatchery attained the ripe old age of 19 years. This venerable "Dolly" was raised by W. H. Shebley, noted culturist in charge of the bureau of fish culture of the division. The trout weighed around 13 pounds when it died.

Florence Smoker Has Mixed Bouts

FLORENCE, Dec. 21.—(Special)—Another of the boxing and wrestling smokers sponsored by the local Legion post was attended by a fair-sized house at the Princess theater Thursday evening. Headlining the evening's fight card was the encounter between Gregg and Johnson, which proved a fast and furious contest.

The next event on the bill of fare was the match between Johnson and Eugene Walker. Johnson won over his opponent in straight falls. Donald Dinsmore and his opponent Akerly, fought to a draw, and Verl Shirley and Carroll Costello, both North Fork boys, followed in an even-up bout. Worthington was given the decision over Spencer in a "grudge" fight.

University High, St. Mary's to Meet

The University high basketball squad will tangle with the St. Mary's team at McArthur Court Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Jean Eberhart's team was defeated by Father Dunn's Catholic quintet in their first meeting, and will be out for revenge. The St. Mary's team defeated Springfield last week and will be primed to make it three straight over the "A" leaguers.

Soults or McKenzie will probably start at one forward post with Buck as the other University high forward. Milligan will play center, with Graham and McAllister at guards. The St. Mary's starting lineup has not yet been announced.

HARRY COOPER IS WINNER IN $4,000 PASADENA TOURNEY

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

PASADENA Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Those who favor the new heavier golf ball had Harry Cooper's victory in the fourth annual Pasadena $4,000 open tournament today as proof of their prejudices.

The confident Chicago pro took unto himself first prize money of a thousand dollars yesterday by leading a field of 180 players by seven strokes after the three-day 72-hole contest which marked the first tourney test of the weightier missile.

Light Horse Harry, who rode out of Texas five years ago as an unknown youth with a strong belief in his own game to annex the Los Angeles open, set a burning pace of three strokes under par for the Brookside layout, shooting a 281 to outclass the field.

After trailing three strokes on the opening round with a 72, one over par, the professional from Glen Oaks Country club startled the gallery and his opponents Saturday with a sizzling 67 to take the lead he never relinquished during Sunday's 36-holes.

While exponents of the heavy ball may have their inning with Cooper as proof, his closets competitors, Wiffy Cox, veteran Brooklyn campaigner who placed second and Fred Morrison, powerful driving Culver City, Cal., pro who placed third, saved the "balloon" pellet of 1931 origin from disgrace.

Cox ran up a 288 total for the 72-holes, worth $600 to him in prize money, while Morrison wound up with a 289, good for $400 in the coin of the realm. New ball advocates took the next four places.

Ralph Guldahl and Walter Hagen, a couple of Detroit pros, tied for fourth with 290 strokes and collected $325 while Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles and Eddie Loos, Chicago, tied for sixth to receive $225 each. All played the ponderous pellet.

By placing second, Cox increased his lead as high money winner of the California gold trail after two stops. He won $1,504 by taking the San Francisco tournament boosting his earnings to $2,140. Although he won only $50 yesterday, George Von Elm, Los Angeles, holds second place with a $1,077 total. He won $1,027 at San Francisco as runner-up to Cox. Cooper stands third with $1,000.

The next stop for the winter golfing army will be at Santa Monica Jan. 2 to 4 for the $2,400 amateur pro tournament here.

Northern Ducks Outsmart Hunters

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 21.—(AP)—You can't make hunters around these parts believe that ducks don't know something about the game laws.

When the Idaho hunting season closed the same time the shooting season in Washington opened Nov. 16, hunters reported the ducks in this state were gleefully winging their way into protected areas in Idaho.

Flocks of Washington birds were said to be holding conventions on peaceful waters just across the Idaho-Washington border.

Idaho hunters reported that all their ducks visited Washington during the Idaho hunting season.

A'S WILL BOAST SAME STRENGTH IN NEXT YEAR'S RACE

(Note: This is another of a series of baseball stories noting major league shakeups and 1932 prospects).

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Still boasting the American league's batting champion; a "big three" among pitchers that won 72 games last season, and the best catcher in baseball, the Philadelphia Athletics look forward to the 1932 pennant race with no trepidation.

Cochrane

Connie Mack, who will celebrate his 69th birthday Dec. 23, still regards his A's as the best club in baseball.

The closeness and outcome of next year's competition depends upon how much the New York Yankees and Washington Senators improve.

Same Lineup

While Washington seeks more punch and the Yankees better pitching, the three-time American league champions, with one exception, will place the same club in the field that started winning titles in 1929. The only new man introduced to the cast since that time is Shortstop Dib Williams who replaced Joe Boley and distinguished himself in the world series.

The Athletics again will be fortified with the presence of the leading hitter of the league—Al Simmons. They will have Mickey Cochrane, who is fully recovered from the ailments that hampered him in the world series.

They will again present the rotation of pitchers that turned in 72 victories last year, Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg. Including Roy Mahaffey and his 15 victories, the Athletics had four hurlers in 1931 who produced 87 triumphs. The best of the young pitching prospects is Lew Krausse, schoolboy star who made his big league debut last season.

Connie Mack's efforts since the close of last season have been devoted solely to increasing batting strength of his utility corps. To this end he purchased First Baseman Oscar Roettger from St. Paul and Outfielder Ed Coleman from Portland, Ore. Coleman may give Bing Miller a contest for the right field job.

Roettger is slated to replace Phil Todt as understudy to Jimmy Foxx.

TROJANS LEAD IN EAST-WEST GAMES

Although three teams have played three times each in the New Year's day East-West games at Pasadena, none as yet has been able to get into the win column on all three occasions. Southern California's eleven, which will meet Tulane in the next big New Year's game, therefore has a chance to establish a new record, as a win over the Green Wave would put the Trojans at the top of the Rose Bowl standings.

Alabama, Stanford and California have each played a trio of games in Pasadena. Alabama has the best record with two victories and a tie. Stanford and Cal. each have won one, lost one and tied one.

Here is the way the teams stand in the East-West contests:

Western Teams	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Southern Cal.	2	0		1.000
Washington State	1	1		.500
Oregon	1	1		.500
Stanford	1	1	1	.500
California	1	1	1	.500
Washington	0	1	1	.000
Eastern Teams
Notre Dame	1	0		1.000
Harvard	1	0		1.000
Georgia Tech	1	0		1.000
Alabama	2	0	1	1.000
Washington and Jeff.	0	0	1	.000
Navy	0	0	1	.000
Brown	0	1		.000
Penn State	0	1		.000

Sports Parade

(Editor's Note:—Henry McLemore, conductor of the sports column, today's Sports Parade, is on his annual vacation. During his absence the Sports Parade will be conducted by Sidney B. Whipple, of the United Press New York staff).

By SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Pinch-Hitting for Henry McLemore)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—When Col. McLemore of Gawgia, grand marshal of the Sports Parade, decided recently to take a vacation and do a little strutting back home in the south, where he was bawn, it was his own suggestion that your correspondent assume his daily task.

There were two reasons, he said, behind your correspondent's back, why old Gaffer Whipple was the best bet to conduct the column.

First, he pointed out, the editors and customers would rejoice when Col. McLemo' returned to the job.

Second, when things went wrong as they were bound to do, the old gaffer would take all the blame, and Col. McLemo' would come in for a reglorification upon his resumption of duty.

The colonel made a few errors. He had understood that our knowledge of sporting matters was confined to reporting, blow by blow, the daisy chain rites at Vassar and similar intimate amusements. He thought our interest in the more virile sports, such as tossing the caber on horse fighting in the Antibes, was purely academic.

The second error is that, in this Yuletide season, there is no necessity of commenting on football, baseball, tennis, golf, swimming or other outdoor activities, because the whole world has suddenly gone berserk over bridge. By the time the contract tables are swept off and put away, it will be spring, tra-la, and Col. McElmore will have happily returned.

The dividing line between sports and news, at awl events, is very finely drawn. Keed Chocolate forsakes the sports pages and makes the news column when they deport him because he wasn't quite married enough to meet the morality standards of these United States.

John McGraw, to cite another example, makes the news sections when he goes to court against one of the baseball magnates, Francis X. McQuade, notwithstanding that the case savored of pugilism as well as baseball. Mr. McGraw accusing Mr. McQuade of going around socking folks he didn't like.

• • •

Under normal relations, when the Army and Navy lads kick each other all over the lot in the Yankee stadium, in the exuberance of sheer brotherly love, the event is properly sport. When, on the other hand, they consent with cold dignity, to an "unofficial" game to aid the unemployed, and they fight each other because they have to, and not because they love each other, the matter becomes one of news.

• • •

Only fourteen days to Col. McLemore's return, and all will be forgiven.

Bass will meet Prince Saunders of Eau Claire, Wis., in the eight round feature of a Christmas day program at Philadelphia Friday afternoon. Lomski tackles a Portland heavyweight, Denny Lenhart, at Portland, Ore., Tuesday.
