

LIBERTY ASSEMBLY WINS ARTISAN CUP

Liberty assembly of Portland won first prize of a beautiful cup in the competitive drill of United Artisans teams at the armory Sunday forenoon. Eugene assembly won the second prize cup and Montavilla assembly of Portland was winner of third honors. The Montavilla team is known as the "Scott Lassies."

Eight teams took part in the colorful affair and all showed good drilling. It being difficult for the judges, Captain Alex. Neesh, Captain J. C. Koepke and Lieutenant Collins to make the final decision as to the winners.

After the drill competition the visiting Artisans were guests of the members of the local assembly at a picnic dinner in Riverview park back of the butte. After the dinner there were games and sports.

Several hundred members of the different lodges in this district gathered at the men's gymnasium at the university Saturday night for the supreme event. H. S. Hudson, of Portland and Mrs. Hudson on their 41st wedding anniversary, also Mr. Hudson's 61st birthday. A class of candidates was initiated.

PRESENTS FAMOUS VOLUME!

Here is Dr. John Henry Nash, noted printer of San Francisco, with his masterpiece, "The Psalms of the Singer David," which he presented to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York through Rabbi Henry J. Berkowitz of Portland, Monday, at commencement exercises of the University of Oregon.

Beautiful Book Presented Here By Noted San Francisco Printer

Honoring Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, as well as other Jewish friends, Dr. John Henry Nash, noted printer of San Francisco, Monday formally presented a rare and carefully made copy of his masterpiece, "Psalms of the Singer David" at the graduation exercises held at the University of Oregon.

Dr. Nash had hoped to hand this beautiful volume to Rabbi Wise, who was originally scheduled to deliver the commencement address. Dr. Wise was unable to be here, however, so the gift was handed to Rabbi Henry J. Berkowitz, of Portland, with the request that he deliver it later.

The book, originally printed three years ago by Dr. Nash for his Jewish friends of San Francisco, was especially made for this occasion by the noted printer. The paper was selected in Germany, and is known as woodblock, with a beautiful woodblock border done by William Wilke, artist in the Nash shop in San Francisco. The type is Gothic, cut in 1724 in the Grafton foundry in London.

The binding of the volume is especially noteworthy. It is full classic unbleached vellum, tooled with a slender gold line. The book is declared by those who have seen it to be one of the finest examples of printer's art ever produced in this country. Dr. Nash, who is a member of the faculty of the school of journalism of the university as a lecturer in typography, recently received the honorary degree of doctor of literature from the university, one of the highest honors the institution confers, and he has been similarly honored by other institutions.

Warm tribute to Rabbi Wise and to Jewish people was paid by Dr. Nash in his presentation speech. "This presentation is just a small western tribute to one of the great clergymen of our country, an exponent of tolerance, of patriotism and God-like Americanism," he said.

Dr. Nash also read from the introduction of the volume, "Here begins the Psalms of David now newly printed by John Henry Nash for his friends, and notably for his Jewish friends of San Francisco. This is a fitting occasion for a tribute to the men and women who proudly claim racial connection with the royal singer of Israel. Our city claims them for their distinguished patronage of music, art and letters, no less than for their charitable and philanthropic generosity. Let me add my individual acknowledgment, for the Jews of San Francisco I owe a debt of friendship that can never be fully discharged."

Dr. Nash, who drive up from San Francisco to take part in the commencement exercises, is today regarded as one of the foremost printers of the world. Last year he made one of the 12 books for the Limited Editions club, a volume commonly granted to the men of highest quality. He has shown a keen interest in the University of Oregon Press, and largely as a result of his inspiration and counsel, this part of the institution has been turning out work that is recognized as highest quality.

Appreciation for the gift was expressed on the part of Rabbi Wise and Jewish people by Rabbi Berkowitz, who was here for the presentation.

SCHOOL PLEA STORY

nor a college worthy of the name now," he declared. "We have two halves, which the proposed bill would put together, eliminate competitive programs, and have a well-rounded center of culture."

Faustian Held Interior

The proponents of the initiative measure have long been active in educational matters and is a member of the Oregon legislature. In his argument he said "I doubt whether there is one man now either faculty or who will control the first rate educators." He further charged that the director of elementary teachers' training (J. A. Churchill) was not the proper man for that position as "he had not done one honest day's work in his life."

Misophron attacked the matter of public relations of the schools, charging that rivalry was best demonstrated by the school of journalism at Eugene, the department of journalism at the state college and the "corralled state editorial association," all used to disseminate propaganda for one or the other school.

The physical consolidation would eliminate this "bad political influence and fight for control of the press," he added.

Merger of Question

William M. Tugman, managing editor of the Eugene Register-Guard, in his argument against the initiative, said that the bill misrepresents the economies the state is seeking in higher education. He declared the consolidation would decrease the property valuation of Eugene by $3,500,000 and would wipe out $1,100,000 in fraternity and sorority property.

He further charged that the plan would play havoc with the tax structure of the state, would cause a heavy financial loss to Monmouth and that the change could not be made without heavy building program at Corvallis.

Tugman stated the question came down to whether the state should permit the board of higher education's unified system a fair trial, or the result of three years work and attempt a new idea—at once. He declared the federal survey recommended against such a plan as proposed by the initiative as a "physical consolidation was out of the question."

Housing Problem Irks

In his argument Tugman pointed out the housing difficulties at Corvallis, the need for additional expenditure at the outset in transferring 2500 students from Eugene to Corvallis, and the creation of an expenditure rather than a saving in the education system.

The hearing continued through the noon hour. Senator H. C. Wheeler and W. A. Ayres of Lane county represented the opponents to the proposed initiative, while Henry Zorn, president of the Marion County Tax Conservation and Equalization League, originators of the bill, spoke in its favor.

The bill as proposed would transfer the university from Eugene to Corvallis, create a four-year teacher colleges at Eugene, establish junior colleges at Astland and La Grande and move the law school from Eugene to Salem. The Monmouth normal school campus would be vacated entirely under the proposal.

The Oregon supreme court tomorrow will hear arguments on the appeal from the ballot title of the measure filed by Eugene taxpayers' attorney. The appeal was made on the grounds that the title furnished by the attorney-general was unfair.

Financiers Irk Charlie Chaplin

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 13.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin, comedian, returned from Europe and the orient today bringing with him economic theories which have nothing to do with the new silent picture he will produce.

The man whose acting in derby, cane and floppy shoes convulsed millions was considerably annoyed when he stepped from the steamer Hikawa Maru.

The Japanese vessel brought $15,000,000 in gold from Japan. Charlie opposed the principle and the fact of that shipment.

"They say this money is brought to balance trade," he said.

"Well, those who insist on balancing trade should be prosecuted. What human beings endure patiently amazes me. There is a new world awakening at hand. People everywhere want more of the benefits and privileges of material plenty."

"Financiers will have to take less profit."

"They call me a comedian. I've decided I'm as good an economist as financiers are comedians—if you know what I mean."

postoffice last night, broke open the safe and stole a quantity of registered mail, including orders, blanks, entrance was gained through a side window.

The robbery was discovered about 8:30 o'clock this morning by Carl Christensen, a sub-check, when he came to work. Federal postoffice inspectors were called from Portland.

Local police said they believed the job was done by professionals. There were few marks on the outer door of the safe and apparently no finger prints.

GOLF RECEIPTS TAKEN

PORTLAND, Ore., June 13.—(AP)—Approximately $400 was obtained last night by rogues who punched the safe in the office of the Rose City golf course clubhouse. They apparently gained entrance through an unlocked side door. Police found no fingerprints and said the burglars left no tools. M. R. Hausmann, superintendent, said the contents of the safe were insured.

THEATER ROBBED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—(AP)—Three bandits were being sought today after paying their way into the Orpheum theater here last night, holding and gagging the manager and his assistant, and escaping with $4,917.75, week-end receipts of the house.

An audience of several thousand persons watched the show, not knowing the holdup was taking place today.

Road in Siuslaw Forest Planned

Construction on a forest service road in the Siuslaw forest will start Wednesday when a crew of men will go to work on a route from near the outlet of Siuscoos lake to the Sitcoos lookout site, it was announced Monday by C. C. Olson, construction superintendent of the Cascade national forest, who is directing road building work for the Siuslaw this year.

The lookout station will be built in an old slashing on the Crown Willamette Paper company holdings near Westlake. The road will afford access to this lookout point.

dissemination over prohibition completely engulfed the chosen representatives of the party today on the eve of their national convention.

To the general and rear-rank private alike, what to do about the dry law became the one big question.

Not only were they ready to renounce President Hoover, but sentiment was turning definitely to Vice President Curtis for his running-mate and all of the lesser disputes over platform and procedure seemed headed for harmonious decision.

HURLEY NOT RUNNING

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP)—Secretary Hurley of the war department told newspapermen flatly today he is not a candidate for the republican vice-presidential nomination.

Commenting on reports from Chicago mentioning him as a possible nominee for that post, Hurley said: "I am not and will not be a candidate for the vice-presidency."

SPEAKEASIES READY

CHICAGO, June 13.—(AP)—Chicago's speakeasy proprietors today were prepared to reap the golden harvest they hope the republican national convention will bring.

In fact a tour of well-known liquor dispensaries indicated the harvest has already begun.

A mushroom growth of "bush" speakeasies has sprouted along Madison street, the route visitors follow to the stadium convention from the loop.

And downtown the 500 speakeasies that closed briefly last week to avoid last minute raids opened their doors and revealed new refreshments laid in specially for visitors.
