COUNTY C. E. TO SPONSOR SUNDAY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN

The Lane County Christian Endeavor union is sponsoring a county-wide Sunday school campaign designed to increase the enrollment of the Sabbath schools and all Sunday schools of the county are invited and urged to participate.

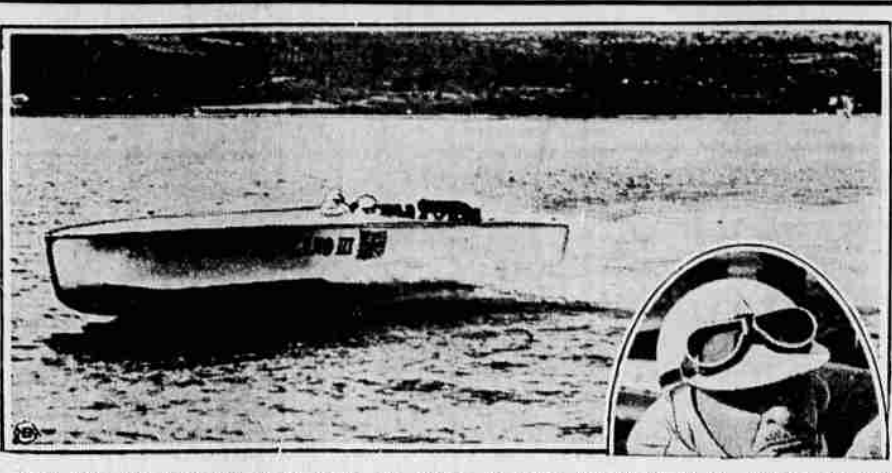

Each Monday during the campaign the Register-Guard will publish a table similar to the one below giving the name of the Sunday school, the enrollment, attendance and per cent of attendance for the preceding Sunday.

The enrollment of several of those listed is missing but will be secured for next week's report. All schools that cannot be reached easily by telephone will receive letters this week and those wishing to participate may do so by sending the required data of the number enrolled and attendance each Sunday to M. E. Hays, 1501 Charnelton, Eugene, or by calling 2463-J. Following is the table:

BRITON SETS NEW SPEEDBOAT RECORDS!

Kaye Don, British racing driver, broke the world's speedboat records when he sent the powerful Miss England III over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour. He had broken the accepted record earlier in the day with a speed of 117.43. The photo above shows the boat in which the marks were broken, while at the right, Don is seen at the wheel in helmet and life preservers.

FINLAND LAW ON LIQUOR IS HELD TOO RESTRICTED

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 25.—Having abolished prohibition, the Finnish public seems to be finding the operation of its system of "restricted liberty" under the new drinking law more a matter of restriction than of liberty.

The State Monopoly Company, which was created to regulate the purchase and sale of liquor, has come in for widespread criticism. It is realized that the new administration was set up hastily, and faced a tremendous task, but it is charged, at the same time, with causing unnecessary inconvenience to the public and the retailers.

Liquor shops, for example, are open from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and are entirely closed every Saturday, Sunday and Monday, as well as on days preceding and following all holidays. As a consequence, sales are prohibited on 133 days of the year. An accumulation of holidays, as in June, results in the fact that the shops are open only 13 days during the whole month. Between April 29 and May 10 there was only one selling day.

Hotel and restaurant owners are subject to strict regulations governing the parts of their premises where drinks may be served, and the manner in which the service is to be carried out. Different kinds of alcohol may not be blended, and special rules are given for mixing cocktails. The restaurant proprietor is not permitted to fix the profit on his drinks; the monopoly grants a 60 per cent advance to first-class restaurants, 45 per cent to second-class, and 30 per cent to public houses and clubs.

Beer and wines are expensive, while whiskey and brandy are comparatively cheap. It is charged that the consumption of beer and wines, in preference to stronger liquors, is not encouraged as was intended. The projected home production of liquor and berry-wines has not seriously begun, though more than 200,000 bottles of whiskey (already established as a favorite under prohibition), are reported to have been imported in the first five weeks of the new system.

Despite the legalized sale of liquor, rum-runners' ships have appeared off the Finnish coast carrying huge stocks, and it remains to be seen whether the new system is strong enough to keep illicit liquor away, even though the smugglers can underbid the monopoly. The cabinet realizes the serious danger threatened by international smuggling organizations, and is taking measures to enforce coast protection more strictly.
