

WALKER RELEASED ON BAIL; GIRL TO GIVE HERSELF UP

By A. F. LITTLEJOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Aug. 6.—Alber Walker, co-defendant with Libby Holman in the murder charge arising from the death of her husband, Smith Reynolds, obtained his release on bond today, while attorneys for the girl remain in court mapping their plans for a battle to keep her out of jail.

Walker, 19-year-old chum of the young heir to tobacco millions, who was mysteriously shot a month ago today, was granted the privilege of bond in the amount of $25,000 at a habeas corpus hearing. His father, B. B. Walker, retired real estate dealer, signed the bond and he was freed.

The state offered no opposition to the petition for bail. Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, chief prosecuting officer, announced today that the evidence available did not appear sufficient to support a non-bailable charge.

Libby and Walker were indicted on a first degree murder charge in a capital offense ordinarily not bailable in North Carolina. Higgins consented to the fixing of bond, however, with a reservation that there should be no prejudice to his right to press a first degree charge at the trial.

The solicitor declared his course in the Walker case could not be construed to indicate he would consent to bond for Libby, who is expected to come here soon and give herself up.

"That is a different case," he said. "I cross no bridges until I come to them."

Among those in the courtroom was Libby's father, Alfred Holman of Cincinnati, who arrived here yesterday with the announced purpose of arranging to keep his daughter out of jail pending her trial.

There was no information today as to the whereabouts of the former Miss Holman, who is expected to come here and give herself up.

AMEDEE SMITH STORY

and the normal schools, if the bill passes and becomes law.

Give Public Facts

"In case this suggestion finds favor with your chamber, might it not be a good plan to inform the people at large that the bill in effect would start four new weak and costly institutions of higher learning in place of the established ones now here? There is no doubt but that a great many citizens have been deliberately misled into believing that the actual effect of the measure would be consolidation of our institutions, and economy instead of the creation of new institutions and destruction of our present institutions and educational system."

Facts of Hearing

"The same unbelieveable statements made under oath by proponents of the bill at the Brownell hearing have not as yet been fully published in the press; briefly summarized they include:

1. That a group of prominent business men, real estate owners, and professional men in Corvallis secretly gathered funds and made the first draft of the bill.

2. That Henry Zorn, president of the Marion County Taxpayers Equalization League, was invited by this group to sponsor the bill, and this committee at some unrevealed star chamber session gave them power to accept the proffer from the so-called Corvallis committee, whose personnel Henry Zorn himself under oath testified he does not know.

3. That the members of the Marion County Taxpayers Equalization League did not hold any public meetings to consider the bill; nor to provide funds for it; nor did they ever meet.

Star Chamber Group

4. That the League's executive committee consists of ten friends or acquaintances of Henry Zorn, John Ramage and Ward Stevens and this committee at some unrevealed star chamber session gave them power to accept the proffer from the so-called Corvallis committee, whose personnel Henry Zorn himself under oath testified he does not know.

5. That this secret committee retained a prominent law firm and through it introduced Sam Slocum, a professional politician, to Henry Zorn and agreed to pay Slocum $500 a month for his services and provided thousands of dollars which were admittedly paid to obtain the signatures necessary to put this destructive measure on the ballot.

Paid For Expenses

6. That Henry Zorn has been paid out of the secret funds handled by representatives of this committee approximately $300 personally for so-called "expenses" and that John Ramage has been paid approximately $300 for his personal services and "expenses" from similar sources, $500 of which he testified was handed to him by a mysterious chauffeur, who refused to give his name when he delivered the currency to Ramage in advance of the time that such substantial "expenses" had been incurred.

7. That the Marion County Taxpayers Equalization League at no time paid Slocum or the firm of attorneys, but that the attorneys and Slocum were the sources of the funds that were paid to Zorn and Ramage, the petition circulators, and for other expenses, including misleading and extravagant claims made over Zorn's signature in the press and in campaign literature.

"In view of such evidence it is manifest that the welfare of the state requires prompt measures to expose the motives back of the bill and your cooperation, if given, should prove of great value in this regard. We trust that we shall be favored by an early response."

JAP MINERS TRAPPED

TOKYO, Aug. 6.—Fifty-seven miners were killed today in a gas explosion at the Sorachi coal mine on the northern island of Hokkaido, 40 miles northeast of Sapporo. Fifty bodies were recovered.

came to them through Ridgeway and Johnson, Portland attorneys.

And what is more important to the case at issue, Hector MacPherson failed to establish the crime he alleged Brownell guilty of.

Somewhere there are a lot of bills going unpaid. They are bills for the payment of money due Sam H. Slocum, the campaign manager, or so he said in court. He estimated his office expenses as having amounted to between $4500 and $5000.

The funny part of this whole hearing has been the fact that some moneys were attributed as having come from Ridgeway and Johnson, but these the trail stops cold and blind—and Ridgeway and Johnson couldn't be called into court to tell where they got it because there is a law that shields them. Think that?

It's called the "privileged communications" law. Soir chief, District Attorney Langley, won't discuss this. "That would be premature now," said Mr. Langley.

It's going to take more than the grand jury to find out the burning question of the hour—who put up the money—and the repercussions of this case haven't begun to reverberate yet. There's a lot of political maneuvering being done between now and November. But then, Oregon political seasons are always so interesting. This will add spice to the topic.

Price of Wool In Idaho Increasing

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A climb in wool prices that has carried the figures up to approximately double what they were last spring and encouraged Idaho wool men to hold their clips with bankers reported backing them in expectancy of still higher prices.

Offers of 15 cents a pound were received in Boise today for clips which last spring drew offers of only six to nine cents a pound. Authorities here estimated a large portion of this year's clip is held by Idaho owners in storage in anticipation of better prices.

The Idaho clip this year was computed by the United States department of agriculture statistician at 15,032,000 pounds from the backs of 1,920,000 sheep. This was a reduction from last year when the clip was 19,419,000 pounds from 2,134,000 sheep.

Brazilian Civil War Getting Hot

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Sao Paulo civil war against the Vargas government, which equipped almost 100,000 combatants and artillery and is the most intense conflict in the history of South America, entered its fifth week today with victory for either army most remote.

Fighting on the northeastern front, which frequently has taken place within three hours of Rio de Janeiro, has failed to result in material advantage to either side.

The persistent offensive of the federal troops, carried on in mountainous territory during almost continual heavy rainstorms, has however, prevented the rebels from launching their frequently-announced drive toward the national capital.

Beloved Non Com Will Get Military Rites At Funeral

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Sergeant Major Smokey is dead.

The widely known dog mascot of the first signal troop, Fort Bliss, suffering from a bullet wound, dragged himself to his quarters in the troop barracks yesterday. The pluck of Fort Bliss veterinarians failed to save his life.

"Death by gunshot wounds at the hands of persons unknown" was the verdict of an official investigating board.

Smokey rose through the grades of private, corporal and sergeant to the highest non-commissioned rank in the army.

He "enlisted" with the first signal troop in 1923. In 1929 the colonel commanding his regiment signed an official warrant to rank him a sergeant-major, the goal of the army's enlisted.

He proudly wore the chevrons of his rank and drilled daily with his troop.

He will be buried today with military honors.

the first time by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent.

League officials said today that McBride, now vacationing, will speak at Winston Lake, Ind., Aug. 13. They expect him to give an interpretation of the prohibition issue as outlined in the party platforms and statements of the respective candidates.

While board action would be required to put the league formally on record, McBride's utterances largely will sound the key-note for whatever position may be taken officially.

Times Have Changed

The league supported Mr. Hoover in 1928. But since this year's convention its public views have been confined to concurrence in two statements issued by the national prohibition board of strategy and the platforms and records of President Hoover and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"During the presidency of Mr. Hoover," federal enforcement of the prohibition laws has steadily advanced and has attained a higher degree of efficiency than in any other period since the adoption of the eighteenth amendment. In his acceptance speech he will doubtless deal further with this subject."

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the board of strategy, has said his group also may take a more pronounced stand between the parties after the Hoover speech.

Cooler Weather Is Promised Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Cooler weather for Sunday was promised by the weather man today for the northwest section of the state.

Temperatures today were slightly cooler than Friday, when high marks for the season were established in many Oregon cities.

The weather report said "fair to night and Sunday; foggy on coast; somewhat cooler northwest portion."

most to stop machinery in the country, is expected to be dissipated by the effect of rising prices of farm products in the central states and by the action of the federal government in lending aid to the industry in the tariff, which has already had a favorable effect by excluding foreign lumber, and in the home loan bank system, which has not yet begun to be felt.

Lumber, according to H. J. Cox, secretary-manager of the Willamette Valley Lumbermen's association, is not an industry that can lead the way out of the depression, but must take its gain from the rising tide of general business.

Lane lumbermen look to the middle west for their winter market. There farm products are rising which is expected to give confidence in that area. There is no other very good domestic market supplied by Lane county mills, and the export business is practically nil.

Lumber retailing companies supplied by valley mills have been living from hand to mouth for some time, ordering lumber only as they have a sale for it. Consequently their stocks have been reduced very much, and with the seasonal demand this winter they will have to stock up again.

commonly commanding a higher price. With the sale of pasteurized milk in Eugene concentrated in the hands of a few large dairies, the situation is one of sharp competition between the two grades of product.

Call It Folly

Dealers and producers resisting the price cut declared that no reduction is warranted at present. The price of 10 cents a quart, they say, barely permits operation at a profit under present costs of producing milk which will meet the standards set by the federal milk ordinance adopted by Eugene. Reduced prices, they state, mean doing business at no profit, if not actual loss.

The quality of the milk sold in Eugene is superior to that in almost any other city in Oregon, they claim, and thus justifies maintaining the 10 cent price. The largest portion of the pasteurized milk sold in the city is brought to the creameries as Grade A raw milk, making the standard of the pasteurized product exceptionally high.

Traveling Salesman Was Almost Ruined

Greenville, Miss.—W. A. Huber, recently said: "Traveling day and night and eating in cafes and hotels had a lot to do with my case I was, but I was in mighty bad shape. Constipation had practically ruined me. I took every kind of laxative I ever heard of, but they only aggravated my trouble. When I started taking Sargol and Sargol Soft Mass Pills I just had to stop myself out of bed and through the day. The treatment not only relieved me but I have actually gained 35 pounds in weight."

KENTUCKY RIOTS

PINEVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Frank Bowman was killed and Henry Kirby, a miner, was stabbed in the neck in the only primary election violence reported today in Kentucky. The fight occurred at Arjay, Ky., five miles from here. Kirby issued orders to capture Bowman, also a miner, "dead or alive."

BRITAIN FRAMING REPLY TO TRADE OFFERS OF REALM

By FRANK I. WELLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 6.—(AP)—A British answer to offers within the empire made as a condition for trade agreements between the dominions and Great Britain is expected early next week.

All the plans were in the hands of the British delegates to the imperial economic conference today, the British experts concluding their examinations of Canada's offer, dealing particularly with its potential value to British export trade.

Previous unofficial estimates placed the Canadian figures at 100,000,000, but it was understood the report of the British experts was considerably below this sum.

Delegates to the conference tonight were on the way back from ceremonial opening of the Welland ship canal at Thorold to see what progress hard working committees left behind had made toward economic disarmament of the British family. Most of them were from countries which had made offers to Great Britain conditional on the return of specific favors.

New British conception which would extend preference to certain natural resources of the dominions already seemed assured in the belief that the United Kingdom could not hope to gain large new markets within the empire for manufacturers if she limited preferences on dominion products.

Some were inclined to believe they might have asked more from the motherland than she is likely to ask in return and more than they expect to receive. But, it was pointed out, if the conference is to close on an equitable basis, they must get more than they give.

For one thing, they offer raw resources, the prices of which are largely controlled by the world commodity levels, with the result that their profits from new trade would be fixed to some extent by forces outside their control.

Bonus Stragglers Reach Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Four hundred and eighty members of the dispersing Washington bonus army sped west, south and north from Kansas City today, after a brief halt during which they were handed free transportation to their homes.

Appriated of the arrival of the contingent aboard a special train from St. Louis, City Manager H. F. McElroy tonight made arrangements with the Missouri Pacific railroad to carry "marchers" to their homes. He then issued a statement in which he rebuked eastern cities for attempting to "dump" the veterans on municipalities further west.

Bolivian President Raps Intervention

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 6.—(AP)—President Daniel Salamanca, denying the Bolivian dispute with Paraguay over the Gran Chaco affected American peace, attacked neutral intervention in a message to congress tonight.

Bolivia's foreign relations were cordial except for "the Paraguayan dispute over dominion in our Chaco territories," President Salamanca said.

"I am unable to understand why the Chaco situation need involve other nations," he said. "I will not voluntarily to compromise myself in a question not affecting their rights or future," he added.

Flight Over Parks Planned By Paper

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 6.—(AP)—A dawn to dusk flight to cover 2300 miles, covering six national parks, a national monument and several snow-capped mountain ranges in five states will be undertaken by the Oregonian and the Shell Oil company next Wednesday.

The six national parks to be viewed are Crater Lake, Ore.; Grand Teton and Yellowstone, Wyoming; Glacier, Montana; Watroun lakes, Canada, and Rainier, Wash.

An attempt will be made to complete the flight in 17 hours. Stops will be made for gasoline at Boise, Idaho, Butte, Montana and Spokane, Wash.

OREGON LOGGERS ON AT COLONIAL SOON

Real tunes of the "bunkhouse," the type of entertainment that has made the strenuous work of the logger seem easy all day when he has had some of the evening to look forward to, will be offered by these "Oregon Loggers" in their farewell appearance at the Colonial next Wednesday night. The "loggers" through their radio work over KOAC, KORE and other stations and through presentations in various parts of the state, have won national acclaim for the high quality and uniqueness of their act, and will leave soon for a tour of the entire west.

The presentation is an exact replica of an evening around the fire out in the Oregon woods. Old-time tunes, in which a variety of melody is possible, others that tell of the "great doings" of loggers, form part of the act. Each member is also a soloist of note, and their ensemble numbers on guitar, banjo, violin and harmonica are thoroughly enjoyable—so much so that the boys now have more than 8,000 letters that have been sent to them from various parts of the west by people who have heard them over the radio.

The troupe consists of six real loggers of Veneta who some time ago banded together for their own amusement and to entertain their neighbors.

"Hooker" is Sherman Ritz, "Whistle Punk" is Ernest Nelson, "Ole" the ever-present Swede, is Harold Isaacson; Joe Isaacson is "Foxy"; Clarence Love is "Rigger Sam," and the genial "Bill Cook" is Lester Dahl.

The "Oregon Loggers" will appear but once, at 9 o'clock, at the Colonial.

No Drownings At Municipal Pool

The accident in which Eric Larensen Winter was drowned Friday afternoon occurred between a quarter and half mile from the city playground back of the butte and not at the municipal pool.

The municipal pool has been maintained for five years without a single drowning, according to Frank L. Baker, director, and the additional life guard was added this week to take care of the extra large numbers swimming during the hot weather. More than 200,000 people have used the pool and an average of twenty has been rescued each year.
