

METEORITES FOUND BY LANE RESIDENTS

Lane county may once again attract the attention of science through its "production" of meteorites. Following the announcement in the Register-Guard that the Nininger laboratory, in connection with the Smithsonian institute, would pay one dollar a pound for meteorites found by Lane county residents, two persons have reported their intention to "cash in" on this offer.

B. F. McElfresh, 82 West Fifth street, brought a candidate for the meteorite collection into the Register-Guard office Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning Charles C. Irish, of the Mohawk valley, reported he had a meteorite. Both intend sending them to the institute.

McElfresh first found his suspected meteorite some time ago while logging in the mountains about three miles this side of Greenleaf. The entire fragment weighed about 100 pounds, he says, but he was able to gather but 50 pounds when he went there Monday. The fragment is not so heavy as meteorites usually are, but has a pitted surface and gives off a metallic ring when struck. It has all the appearances of having been burned considerably. Where it struck the ground it had fused into several smaller rocks of ordinary type.

Mr. Irish reported his meteorite weighed 21 pounds and fits the printed descriptions of meteorites. He dug it out of the hillside of his place, opposite the Mohawk union high school last March and has had it on display at his house since that time.

COTTAGE GROVE NEWS ITEMS

COTTAGE GROVE, Aug. 23.—(Special).—A. Z. Coop, who has charge of the foundry in the east end of town, went to Bohemia last week and was returning home Saturday with the two Lemly and two Smith boys when darkness overtook them. Mr. Coop decided to stop for the night near the old "Walt's Post" Hawley ranch. They drove the auto near the edge of a steep place on the road when it crumbled beneath them and the turned turned over hurting Mr. Coop quite badly. His left leg was broken between the ankle and knee, his right shoulder was fractured and his spinal column was wrenched. Fred Bennett took him to the Pacific Christian hospital after Dr. Frost had given him first aid. Neither of the four boys was injured.

opinion among the councilmen is that the question is far from settled.

Fred E. Chambers, president of the agricultural division of the chamber of commerce, and William James, a Lane county grower, presented the main arguments on behalf of the ordinance. Attorney Whitten Swafford and Walter R. Ingram, a trucker, spoke against the movement. Other growers and retail dealers also had their turn at bat.

People Represented

An air of drama was injected into the proceedings when Rev. Ernest M. Whitesmith appeared on behalf of the common people who, he believes, will lose by any measure which would affect the price of commodities and prevent the distribution of cheap vegetables here. He was generously applauded by the anti-ordinance faction.

Definite lines of battle were drawn up in the council chamber, where every seat was taken. The crowd flowed out into the main corridor, with interested growers, retailers and truckers lining the walls.

Harry Pearson, of Irish's cash store, was present at the meeting but vigorously denied he is a supporter of the trucking group or that he took part in hiring an attorney to fight the agricultural committee. Pearson's name, together with that of George Stanley of Ralph and Stanley, was carried Tuesday with the list of dealers taking part in the anti-ordinance fight. Neither has been affiliated with the group.

Chambers spoke first. He outlined the work of the agricultural committee and said that the proposed ordinance, which would impose a $500 fee on all wholesalers of fruit and vegetables not grown by themselves. He was followed by James, who told of alleged mistreatment at the hands of truckers.

Attorney Swafford spoke for the truckers and advocated a "reasonable license fee," plus efficient inspection of fruit and vegetables. He said that the proposed $500 fee would create a monopoly in Eugene, a trucker, told his side of the story and said that the truckers bring in fresher fruit and vegetables than can be obtained through the bigger wholesale channels. He said that the present low prices were the result of the farmers' own undoing.

Chambers, returning to the defense of his ordinance, accused the truckers of being too smart for the farmers. "They even hire an attorney," he said. "We can hire no attorney. We haven't the money. We must present our case in whatever way we can."

Rev. Whitesmith then asked to speak. He said he was speaking for the poor who cannot afford high priced commodities. "Someone spoke of one-cent cantaloupes," he said. "Did it ever occur to you that there are those who can buy no other kind?"

He was given the first ovation of the evening. The applause came from the truckers' side of the room. The chamber was filled in front of the ordinance. E. H. Hall, a retailer, talked against the ordinance and suggested a lower license to keep out the "fly-by-nighters," but to permit "legitimate truckers to continue." H. Stump, another retailer, spoke along the same line.

The council, after brief discussion, decided to pass the ordinance through the first reading, and consider it again in two weeks.

three quarters of an hour, but no stock was missed.

Deputy Sheriff Powney prevented Brant's load of cream near Council Bluffs. During the night the picketing farmers turned back ten truck loads of livestock, but permitted two truck loads to pass, after drivers convinced them they had to have the money.

Omaha Blockade Planned

About 400 farmers met in Missouri Valley to plan an extension of the Omaha blockade.

At Sioux City, point of origin of the non-selling strike two weeks ago, the farmers continued.

The Farmers' Holiday Association has launched a campaign in Nebraska to enlist the support of state farmers.

A permanent organization was perfected yesterday at a mass meeting of farmers in Winnebago. The farmers voted unanimously to join the movement, Simon Madsen, a leader, said.

Escorts Are Refused

Sheriff Percy Lainsan at Council Bluffs said he expected little trouble between the farmers and the truck drivers. He said that stock truck drivers at Audubon, Iowa, and milk truck drivers at Neola, Iowa, requested a sheriff's escort but that Deputy Ora Kinsel instructed them to go alone, asserting no guard was needed.

Several livestock and milk trucks made their way through the lines today by "persuading the persuaders" as the drivers put it.

The blockade yesterday had no effect on the Omaha livestock market. Receipts of cattle breaking all 1932 records while sheep and hog receipts were also heavy. Much of the run came from Western Nebraska, but there was a heavy representation from Iowa.

Today's run was up to normal.

be invited to make use of the building, Emery said.

The Y. M. C. A. building is owned by the local "Y" corporation and the use of the building is at the disposal of the board whose members are Emery, J. O. Holt, A. A. Rogers, Dr. George P. Winchell, Ed Johnson, Roy Moore, Raymond Torrey, O. L. Skies, L. J. Temple, M. R. Irish, Frank Bouck, I. O. Stewart, and Lewis Meisel. The work of the "Y" will be carried on as usual next year, it was announced. The resignation of H. S. Tuttle, as a board member, was accepted.

Adjutant George E. Bree, of the Salvation Army here, was out of town Tuesday and could not be reached, but Army officials at the local headquarters stated they felt sure their organization would be willing to undertake the management of the dormitory facilities of the building this year.

Charity Board to Meet

A meeting of the Eugene Charity Chest board will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the office of George H. McMorran, he announced Tuesday. At this meeting the offer of the Y. M. C. A. board will be discussed and action taken. The matter will also be presented at the next meeting of the county Relief council, which meets the first week in September, Mr. McMorran, chairman of the council, said.

The action of the board in offering the use of its building as a relief headquarters should be of material aid in relief work this year, McMorran said. It is expected that with so much relief work facing the county and city this winter the matter of finances will demand considerable thought and any means of reducing expenses will be welcome.

Charity work in the city will be carried on under the same plan as last year with the City Charity Chest conducting a drive for its beneficiaries, the Red Cross, St. Vincent De Paul society, Salvation Army and other charity relief organizations. Last year the drive raised just short of $15,000 and while no definite goal for this year has as yet been set by the committee, it is expected that approximately the same amount will be sought.

Members of the Charity Chest committee who will meet Wednesday morning are McMorran, Joe Koke, Joe Kirchoff, W. M. Tugman, Frank Chambers and T. O. Russell.

WIRE NEWS

WE'RE NOT SO FREE
BOSTON, Aug. 23.—(Special).—Great Britain and Scandinavian countries are "freer than the United States," Norma Haggood, liberal writer, told a crowd observing the fifth anniversary of the Sacco-Vanzetti execution.

RECENT FEDERAL CENSUS

showed an average daily traffic on the road of 604 cars.

McCullough pointed out, too, that the ferry expense of $110,000 per year is on a 16-hour basis of operation, and that with completion of the coast road there undoubtedly will be demands for 24-hour operation of the ferries. This would bring this annual charge to $250,000.

The state highway commission will open bids Aug. 31 for construction of a bridge at Corvallis to replace the old structure which collapsed a week ago when struck by a loaded truck. The estimated cost of the new bridge is $30,000. It will have a 24-foot roadway.

At a conference with Benton county officials today it developed that the old bridge was wholly outside the city limits and that the state is obligated to replace the structure. This obligation was assumed in 1925 when the state took over from the county the maintenance of the bridge and the implication agreed to rebuild when necessary.

The cost of the new bridge will be borne by the state.

The commission took under consideration the proposal of the Benton county court that the county return its unemployment situation by way of the Bend-Redmond section of the Dalles-California highway, raising the funds by bond issue from funds obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
