I SAW—
A puppy and a kitten sleeping in a box. The kitten was purring loudly and it appeared to irritate the pup, who, after standing it as long as he could, roused up and struck the cat a sharp smack along the side of the ear, and then grabbed it by the scruff of the neck, and shook her. The kitten appeared to understand this punishment and ceased its purring after which both went peacefully back to sleep.—V.K.

Colonial Offers "One Cent Sale"
A genuine "one cent sale" the first ever offered by a Eugene theater will be held Tuesday night at the Colonial. Ten reels of comedy subjects will be offered for "one cent a reel."

The "one cent" idea is a variation on the "variety night" which has been so popular with Colonial patrons. The entire bill on these nights consists of short subjects, all comedies, which are offered in lieu of a regular feature length production.

The bill Tuesday will be headed by Laurel and Hardy in what is regarded as one of their funniest, "Helpmates." The second comedy, almost feature length in itself, presents Andy Clyde in "Heavenly My Husband," a scream from start to end.

Slim Summerville will be present as usual, this time in "Peekin in Pekin," in which the long comedian's travels as well as tricks are shown. A "Broadway Brevities" musical entitled "Imperfect Lovers."

The bill, which is expected to be one of the most popular of the year, will start at 6:30 and run continuous until 11.

HELD OVER!
The Fox McDonald theater program starting Wednesday offers something different in the way of a sizzling South sea romance entitled "The Painted Woman" which brings the red-headed Peggy Shannon and Spencer Tracy to the screen. This is a dramatic and vivid tale of two men's love for the affections of a girl of the far east ports.

With Spencer Tracy, Peggy Shannon, William Boyd and Irving Pichel in the leading roles, the picture is hailed as a welcomed novelty among the season's screen offerings.

When Boyd, as a trading-schooler, sails from Singapore for Australia, Miss Shannon goes with him to escape the police, and he puts her ashore on an island nearby to await his return. There she meets an adventurous and reckless pearl-fisher in the person of Spencer Tracy, and the two fall in love, with Tracy finally proposing marriage.

Fearing Boyd's return she refuses him, but subsequently learns of the captain's supposed death and changes her mind. Soon after the ceremony she finds the report was false, and that Boyd will arrive in a few days.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE DARK AND BLOODY GROUND
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth, noted painter of the American Indian...inspired by the fierce cruelty of the savages whose knives and tomahawks caused the story of the Pioneer West to be written in blood.

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in

That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, the Lord will make a better path to his door." —RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
