I have had my share of hard knocks but I have had my rewards, too, and the greatest of these was Sargon. It brought back my health and has been worth more to me than all the cotton in Georgia. evil President Roosevelt exposed, opposed and dethroned.

"Governor Roosevelt's intentions may be honest; but if so he is exposing abysmal ignorance of the liquor power and the liquor problem. His premise is wrong; his policy constitutes a surrender to the lower. He is asking to restore the thing that made him oppose Tammany and won for him a place in the Wilson cabinet as assistant secretary of the navy. No matter what he does for or against Tammany now, if he helps bring back liquor he is building the Tammany idea in a hundred cities.

"The W. C. T. U. makes this statement in opposition to the repeal; not in favor of any party or candidate."

SUN ECLIPSE STORY

eclipse here at 10:34 a. m., the shadow of the moon moving in on the sun from the northeast, or to be exact, ten degrees east of the north point of the sun.

Observing the phenomenon through dark glasses, the dark disk which is the moon's shadow, could be seen to start across the sun's face, the cut appearing slightly irregular at first.

At the maximum, which was reached here at 11:33 a. m., a fair sized notch had been cut out of the sun, the eclipse being about 28 per cent total here, according to Mr. Pruett. The shadow moved off the sun at 12:26 p. m., leaving the sun on the east side, or 80 degrees east of the north point of the sun, according to Mr. Pruett's observations.

Perfectly clear skies made the local observation excellent, clouds moving in only toward the latter part of the "show."

"The eclipse as we see it here is of no great consequence," explained Mr. Pruett, "since the part of the sun blotted out is too small to furnish any active phenomena. Had there been a sun spot on the sun, the sight would have been more interesting."

Mr. Pruett's observation was made with the aid of a three-inch reflecting telescope, mounted on a movable axis. By setting the polar axis of the instrument on the north star, Mr. Pruett kept his telescope trained on the sun throughout the eclipse. Through the telescope, the image of the sun with the moon's shadow was thrown on a projecting screen where it was photographed. On the screen, the irregular edge of the moon, representing the lunar mountains, could be easily distinguished. The telescope was used with a lens giving it the power to magnify 50 times.

FARM STRIKE STORY

serted that he believed local officials could handle the situation.

Sheriff Tilton also called out county vigilantes and appealed to Sheriff R. E. Rippey of Plymouth county for additional men to handle the situation.

Sheriff Tilton and County Attorney R. G. Rodman began an investigation of the shooting affray at picket camps of the striking farmers on highways 31 and 21 near here.

Gas bombs were hurled from the cars, it was reported, and the pickets were told to "get in your cars and beat it."

The nine men then, were said to have opened fire on the farmers using shotguns loaded with birdshot, and one or two rifles or revolvers. Pickets climbed in trucks and left the scene.

The attackers then drove to the picket outpost on 31 and opened fire, spectators said.

Leaders in the blockade movement, however, said 12 trucks of farm strikers were on their way from Spencer to reinforce the lines.

Mrs. Rom Draper of Peterson was suffering from back injuries received yesterday when a log was reported thrown in front of a car in which she was riding at the picket camp on 31.

She was returning from a funeral when the car was stopped by pickets.

STRIKERS IN CONTROL

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 31.—(UPI)—Striking farmers today obtained complete control of truck movements on all highways leading to the Omaha market, and their activities were sharply reflected in livestock receipts here.

Only 1500 hogs, less than 500 cattle and about 2000 sheep reached the market by truck overnight, and a majority of these were said to have come in from feeding pens inside the picket lines.

The remainder got past the blockade in the dead of night when a heavy rain sent a majority of the pickets to shelter.

Sheriff Uses Wit

Sheriff Charles B. McDonald with about 20 special deputies, conducted a campaign against the strikers last night, but today contented himself with stationing a deputy with each camp to prevent violence.

McDonald's methods, as he sought to clear the highways, were unusual. Arming each deputy with a pick handle, he led the way into each camp. Then he made a speech. These varied from time to time, but all were good-humored.

"I'm appointing everyone of you a special deputy," he told a picket group at one point. "Now you've got to obey my orders. Run along home."

The men laughed and left the highway, but they were back at dawn in greater numbers.

Springfield Revival Is Well Under Way

Raymond R. Merrian is in charge of the music, and gives a special invitation to all to bring their instruments and join the band.

Friday night there will be special divine healing service at which time prayer for the sick will be offered. The services will continue every night this week at 7:30.

nation, the governor in his letter said:

"Should the state become the borrower and obligate itself to repay the loans by authorizing deductions from future highway allotments or by special arrangement, it would be necessary for the state to require repayment, in turn, from the counties receiving portions of the state loan. Failure on the part of the state to require repayment by the borrowing counties would operate as a penalty on all non-borrowing counties and would stimulate maximum borrowing by all counties as a means of self protection.
