

OREGON LEADS IN CONSUMPTION OF LUMBER IN U. S.

Oregon is not only the second largest lumber producing state in the country but the first in per capita lumber consumption, the National Lumber Manufacturers' association finds in a state study of the lumber industry. The latest report of the U. S. forest service shows a per capita lumber consumption of 880 feet in 1930 as compared with an average of 190 feet for the country as a whole.

Of all wage-earners in the state of Oregon, 53 per cent or 34,832 were employed in the lumber industry in 1929; $48,310,158 or 56 per cent of all wages paid were to employees in this industry and the value of products was $136,589,812 or 33 per cent of the value of products of all manufacturing industries, according to association.

Since 1922, Oregon has been the second state in lumber production, next after Washington. Its year of greatest reported production was 1929 with 4,784,000,000 feet; 1928 and 1928 output was almost as large. In 1930, 3,654,075,000 feet were reported by 442 mills. Of this production, 95 per cent was Douglas fir; 26 per cent ponderosa pine and 3.5 per cent spruce. Oregon leads all states in production of the last two named species and is second in production of Douglas fir and cedar. Hemlock is also an important species.

Of Oregon's lumber consumption in 1930 of 841,981,000 feet, 83 per cent was of lumber derived within the state and seven per cent came from other states. Imports were negligible. Next after planning mill products, the box industry consumes more lumber than any industry of the state, hemlock, pine and spruce being largely used. Oregon is second after Washington in shingle manufacture and second in production of lath.

DANCE—ANOTHER BIG NIGHT Wednesday—WILLAMETTE PARK

PLAYING AT HEILIG!

Neil Hamilton and Constance Bennett are shown here as they appear in "Two Against the World," which is now playing at the Heilig theatre. The picture had been scheduled to close Tuesday evening but will be held over Wednesday.

"Party Husband" To Play at State

"The Honor of the Press," which closes Tuesday at the State theatre is a perfect picture of newspaper life. It gives a true idea of the manner of operation in the offices of the great metropolitan dailies.

Perfect casting makes a perfect picture. Eddie Nugent is a perfect cub reporter. Rita LaRoy is the "Ad-vice to the Lovelorn" column conductor to the manner born.

Dorothy Mackall will be seen Wednesday and Thursday as the star of "Party Husband," the comedy-drama of modern marriage. She portrays a clever bride who insists on entering the business world and keeping her individuality. Her husband, played by James Kennie, is also convinced that the old marriage ideas are the bunk. Whether they are the bunk or not, is developed as the intensely engaging domestic drama proceeds to its logical climax. Humor, tenderness and humanity blend with the hard, hewn.

Included in the group of Old Monarchs are Eric Merrill, Dr. C. D. Donahue, Victor P. Morris, F. M. Hathaway, P. J. Edwards, Dr. E. V. Silvers, S. M. Calkins, Dr. D. C. Stansard, Dr. P. J. Bartle and La Verne.

RELIEF BURDEN IS GOVERNMENT DUTY, DECLARES MAURER

Two hundred persons went to East park Monday night to hear James H. Maurer, socialist candidate for vice-president, outline his party's platform.

Maurer described conditions among the working class in the east's industrial centers and laid the blame for the workers' distress at the door of the administration and what he termed the capitalist system. He then told what his party plans to do if it should get in power.

He advocated a five billion dollar appropriation from congress to build homes for the workers and another five billion loan to start a system of unemployment compensation. He would increase inheritance and income taxes to raise this money.

"Every man has a right to a living for himself and his family," he said. "If he is not allowed to earn it, he has a right to it anyway."

"When we socialists are asked what we want to do about the ten or twelve million people who have not been permitted to earn a living, our first answer is that we want to feed and clothe and house them. Since it is society that has unemployed them by permitting this crazy economic system to continue, it is society that should pay the bill. That means the government, and since the load of unemployment relief is too big for the local governments, the federal government will have to help. If it could lay out ten times that much to get us killed in a rich man's war, we don't think that five billion dollars is too much to keep us alive now."

Charles F. Sands, campaign manager for Maurer, spoke also. He outlined the history of depressions and prosperity eras in the United States, illustrating his address with a chart. He declared the capitalistic system cannot bring the nation out of the present depression.

Lee Giddings, Harrisburg, socialist candidate for congress, introduced the speakers. Socialist leaders here are negotiating with national headquarters to bring Norman Thomas, the party's presidential candidate, to Eugene early in October.

TILDEN OF HANDBALL

Al Banuet of San Francisco won the national handball championship three straight years and is regarded by followers of the sport as one of the best players developed in the history of the game.

KAY KASTLE STUDIO BEGINS FALL WORK

Katherine Stang is now starting her fall dancing classes at the Kay Kastle dance studio in the chamber of commerce rooms. She specializes in dancing for small children and in her eight years of teaching experience has developed a most satisfactory method.

Mrs. Stang will divide her time this year between Medford and Eugene being here the first of the week and in Medford the latter part where she will teach in the private Valley school. She conducted a free summer dancing school which closed Saturday, Sept. 10, in conjunction with a local theater the past season and the enrollment was over 200 children.

"Devil and Deep" To Play McDonald

Maurice Chevalier, the regular guy whom all America saluted in "Love Me Tonight" which is being featured for the last times Tuesday at the Fox McDonald, sings more songs in this story than any heretofore. Jeanette MacDonald is again featured with Maurice and her lovely voice is much in evidence throughout the picture.

Beginning Wednesday the Fox McDonald will present "Devil and the Deep" in which Gary Cooper makes his return-debut to the talking screen. Cooper was hunting in Africa when summoned to Hollywood to play the male lead in this daring dramatic story of a cruise by a submarine through the South Seas. Many highly dramatic bits are enacted by Charles Laughton and Tallulah Bankhead in support of Cooper. The story has to do with the designs of a love hungry woman who has spent years with a madman and then tastes of the fruit of joy spent with a stranger. Among the exciting scenes in "Devil and the Deep" is a collision between the under sea craft and a liner.

"Our Gang" will offer the comedy relief to the bill in their latest riot of fun entitled "The Poach" which, according to reports is fast and furious. A sport reel and Paramount News will conclude.

Obsidians Planning Trip to Water Falls

The Eugene Obsidians are planning a joint trip with the Chemeketa of Salem to the numerous falls in the vicinity of Silverton on Sunday, September 15.

There is a small area above Silverton that is one of the most scenic spots in the northwest, considering its area. Within a radius of two and a half miles there are nine spectacular water falls which are now easily accessible by car or by trail, varying in height from 25 to 148 feet. These falls and their height are as follows: Winter Falls, 138 feet; North Falls, 140; South Falls, 184; Lower South Falls, 100; Double Falls, 180; Middle North Falls, 110; Drake Falls, 27; Twin Falls, 25 and Lower North Falls, 35.

The Obsidians will leave the McDonald and Washburne store at 6:30 a. m. Sunday under the leadership of Hazel Stalsberg and meet the Chemeketas from Salem under the leadership of Gladys Miller, at the falls.

Members of the local group are to register at the McDonald and Washburne store.

Colonial to Offer Vaudeville Show

The Burton Sisters, a troupe Eugene girls who organized their own jazz band here and then left for Hollywood for fame and fortune, are coming back for a visit Wednesday, Thursday, and are coming back "big time" way. They are bringing the five act vaudeville unit they play at the Colonial on these days.

Added to the Burton band are fast stepping youngsters, Duke Duke, whose sensational act makes the act complete. The ensemble can sing, have any kind of lively skits and are rapid-fire in their act.

Next on the bill are Frank Doris Evans, who thrill the audience with their sensational skating, hailed as one of the most daring breath taking entertainers on stage today.

A real comedy team are Dick and Ruth Inman, who have added up a new line of patter. They are recent stars of the Fanchon and Marco circuit and were stars of the "Limehouse Nights" show.

Rue Enos, agile and adroit, a new type of act called a "comedy oddity," and the "Three Keys" have a musical offering. A complete show of the fire five act unit will be held on Wednesday. The cinema offering at Clark Gable in "Polly of the Circus."

BUT DO THEY RUN? Thoroughbred race horses in America are trained to run to the left and Australia the reverse is order.
