

Angel Scores in New Film Drama

Angel achieves a distinguished performance in the role of a young woman in "The Man Who Sings," a new film drama produced by the Famous Players-Lasker Company, which is now being shown at the State Theater. Mr. Angel, a sympathetic part with a deal of understanding, and a deal of support from a large number of notable actors, including John Halliday, Juliette, Reginald Owen and others, who are dealing with the regeneration of a man whose career has been wrecked by the aid of a woman, and who is able to stage a triumphant comeback in London, and before the end of the film, rescues the woman from a suspicion of murder. The film is a well-told, with excellent acting and clear cut photography. "The Man Who Sings" should not be missed.
