Longworth, who lived on Day Island north of the city was standing on a breakwater that extends into the river directly across from the city steam electric stand by plant, trying to loosen a plank on the breakwater when he slipped and fell into the water, which was very swift and deep at that point.

The body was recovered by the use of grappling hooks. A body was taken out of the stream and state police and deputy sheriffs located the body soon after the search began.

The drowned man was aged 33 years and lived at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Glick. He was born at West Salem, Ill., September 4, 1899, and had lived in Eugene since 1914.

Early last spring another brother, William Longworth, who was a clerk in the Eugene postoffice, was drowned in the McKenzie river while fishing.

The body is at the Branstetter-Simon chapel. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Just "Amateur" Managers

Although these men were not professionals in political management, that very fact was one of the greatest assets in conducting a campaign of this character, according to Judge Harris, because their names, long connected with public enterprises of the highest type attracted hosts of people of public spirited character.

Cuba Turns Hand To Reconstruction After Tidal Wave

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Cuba has turned its hand once again to the task of reconstruction, surrounded here by the devastation left in the path of one of the most disastrous hurricanes of recent years.

The number of dead is estimated at from 1000 to 1700, and it appeared possible that when the full story is told the toll may reach 2000. Most of the victims were those who lived in Santa Cruz del Sur, on the southern coast.

The work now is mostly up to the doctors. Rebuilding will begin later, but it seems probable that Santa Cruz del Sur, wiped out by wind and tidal wave, will not be built again.

NEW FACES TO BE NOTICED IN CAPITOL HALLS

State Legislature Is Filled With New Blood; Timers Out

ONLY 31 SENATORS

Hector Macpherson seated along with Grab Bill in Election

By CLAYTON V. BERNHARD (Associated Press Staff Writer)

SALEM, Nov. 12.—(AP)—When the Oregon assembly meets here January 9, next, for its 40-day session, there will be few old faces. Many of the former leaders and veterans of numerous sessions will be missed as the result of a general clean sweep in the primaries as well as in the election just past.

Including the hold-over members in the senate, of which there are ten, only 31 members of the 1931 session will be back in their respective places in the house or senate.

Some Change Seats

Five former representatives will be across the lobby in the next session, having been elected to the senate while two former members of the assembly have been returned, one in the senate and one in the house. With 59 changes in the two houses, political observers are checking upon the possible effect on the organization for the 1933 session. It is believed Fred E. Kiddle of Island City will have little difficulty in retaining his support for president of the senate, but the status of Earl H. Snell of Arlington, who claimed sufficient support before the election for speaker of the house, is the cause of speculation.

Of the personnel of the 1931 session who were acquainted with Snell and many of whom were on his list of supporters for the speakership, only 17 were returned. The 43 new members therefore could take control. However Snell has already contacted some of these and his election still appears a sure event.

The greatest upset in the senatorial election was the defeat of B. L. Eddy of Roseburg, a veteran of many sessions and one of the leaders. Walter S. Fisher, a member of the house in the 1931 session, and a democrat, defeated Eddy. Another who will be missed in the 1933 meeting will be Cohn Eberhard of La Grande, defeated by Henry L. Hess, democrat; Willard L. Marks, president of the last senate, who resigned several months ago; Charles Hall, who moved out of his district of Coos and Curry county and was replaced by John D. Goss, democrat of Marshfield.

Senator R. W. Johnson of Benton and Polk counties, who died during the past year, will be replaced by J.

ONE OF THEM TO SUCCEED GARNER?

The question of who will become speaker in the newly elected House of Representatives is widely discussed now that John N. Garner has become vice-president. Three men often mentioned are shown above. Upper left, Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader in the present house; lower left, John McDuffie of Alabama, speaker pro tempore in the last session when Garner was ill; right, Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and chairman of the Democratic congressional committee during the campaign.

Statement follows notes from France, England on war debts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Notes from England and France on war debts brought a statement from Senator Borah tonight that the "policies which have made postponement necessary will destroy civilization if they are continued."

The republican chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee, who had advocated a reduction of armaments by European countries, said the "proposals for postponement and moratoriums should be accompanied by a program which will give some assurance that things will be different from this time on."

Borah's statement was a reaffirmation of the position he announced in the last congress when the debt question was brought to the fore. At that time he said he would be willing to have this country consider the reduction or cancellation of the war debts only if positive assurance could be given that the money thus saved the foreign nations would not be used by them to build bigger armies and navies.

He then declared that the only way this assurance could be given would be for the debtor nations to sign a treaty reducing by international agreement world armaments to a scale strictly for police purposes.

"If Great Britain cannot pay at this time without imperiling the economic fabric of the world," Borah said, "she will be far less able to pay without even greater consequences in the future unless the whole international program is changed."

Hoover to Act

The statement was issued as President Hoover was en route to Washington to discuss the debt situation with government and congressional leaders. Secretary of State Stimson has transmitted the French and English notes to Mr. Hoover. Their contents will be disclosed in Monday morning's papers.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, an administration spokesman, recently said the question would be "thrown into congress" at the coming session.

Early in the day Senator Bingham (R., Conn.), in voicing opposition to cancellation or an extension of the moratorium, said he did not see how the problem could be brought up in platform which declares against debt reduction. In addition, Bingham pointed out that congress voted on record at its last session against further reduction or cancellation of the war debts.

A caravan of 15 or more cars will leave the Eugene chamber of commerce Thursday morning, November 17 at 10 o'clock, bound for Roseburg where members of the caravan will attend the meeting of the Pacific highway association at the Lincoln hotel, it was announced Saturday by Edward F. Bailey, president of the association.

The meeting is being held for the purpose of discussing means of stimulating tourist trade in this state next year and to discuss the straightening of the Pacific highway between here and the California line.

In connection with the meeting, Alexander Brown, alumni secretary, and other members of the university affairs committee of the chamber of commerce, will be present to express the appreciation of this community for the preparation of Douglas county in the recent school bill fight, it was announced.

Eugeneans planning to attend the meeting are requested to get in touch with the chamber of commerce where arrangements for the caravan will be made.

New Directory Of City Is Started

A new directory of the city of Eugene is being compiled by Korstad's Service and canvassers will be out at once, it is announced.

The canvassers named to obtain this data are C. S. Benjamin, Kenneth E. Colton, James I. Furnish, Mark McCormack, J. E. Morse, Orville R. Townsend, R. H. Townsend, John A. Wegman, and Robert W. Wilson.

Turner Gives Up Cross Country Run

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The attempt of Colonel Roscoe Turner to establish a new record on the transcontinental air record ended at Port Columbus here today when the right tire blew out as he brought his 375 horsepower monoplane to the ground.

The streamliner cover over the right wheel was damaged, and when the Colonel learned several hours would be required to make repairs, he abandoned the flight. He said it was possible he would try to break Captain Frank Hawk's Atlantic-to-Pacific record after his ship is put in running condition again.

Despite a 50-mile an hour headwind between Kansas City and Columbus, the Colonel averaged 255 miles an hour and made up 21 of the 83 minutes he was running behind his schedule with a 30-mile an hour tailwind reported between here and New York.

Lane Voters Break All Time Records; 25,180 Go to Polls

A total of 25,180 ballots were cast at the election in Lane County last Tuesday, according to County Clerk Walter B. Dillard.

The official count of votes on candidates and measures had not been completed Saturday afternoon.

INTERIM GROUP TO HOLD MEET NOV. 17

Views on Taxing of City Owned Utilities To Be Given at Hearing

Conflicting views on the question of taxing city owned utilities and on the problems of regulation as applied to private and public plants will be given free expression at a hearing to be held November 17 in the council chamber of the city hall in Portland, according to James H. Gilbert, secretary of the interim committee on taxation of municipal utilities.

The committee, appointed by president of the senate, speaker of the house and Governor Meier, consists of six members with M. H. McGuire, manager of city utilities in McMinnville, as chairman.

An extensive study has been made hearing on the prevailing practice of taxing utilities in other states, on the extent of municipally owned property in Oregon, and the financial condition of municipally owned plants throughout the state. The arguments pro and con on the taxation of city-owned plants have been fully analyzed. The state law on regulation of private utilities has been carefully studied with a view to suggesting improvement. A tentative draft of the report has been drawn up by the secretary. Before the report is put into final form the committee wishes to give an opportunity for the expression of various points of view. Invitations to attend the hearing have been sent to representatives of the private utilities, to city officers and managers, well known advocates of public ownership, and to officials of the state garage.

After the public hearing the committee will formulate its own recommendations and prepare the report in the final form. It is expected that the report in printed form will be available for distribution before the legislature convenes in January.

Violin Prodigy Killed In Fall

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Fire year old Maurice Jaspas' little violin was laid away today forever by grief-stricken parents who had dreamed he would become a great musician.

Son of a music teacher, Maurice had practiced daily since he was two. At four he could play Brahms' waltz and snatches of other classics from memory. Musicians predicted a sensational career for the prodigy.

Yesterday Maurice finished his practicing and started out to play. Laughing, he climbed out on a fire escape leading down from his father's studio, fell, and was crushed to death on the pavement below.

Bi-Centennial Program Planned

On the program will be several interesting talks on the life and the activities of George Washington, music of the colonial period, and a short play, "When George and Martha Return," by the Lorane high school.

Shower of Meteors To Illuminate Sky This Week; Eugene To Watch

Shooting points of light searing across the heavens like gigantic trails made with a huge radius pencil will illuminate the skies in a brilliant celestial display during the coming week when the astronomical phenomenon known as the Leonids makes its appearance here.

Only once every 33 years does this great meteor shower put on its show for the earth, running for six days, from November 13 to November 19 with only evening performances scheduled for the public. Matinee performances may be viewed only with the aid of high powered telescopes.

To the naked eye, the Leonids present a veritable shower of "shooting stars" streaking across the eastern sky in gigantic radiations from the constellation of Leo. This constellation, which rises about 11 o'clock in the eastern section of the heavens, has the appearance of a great storehouse of explosives out of which shooting stars are being hurled. It was explained by J. Hugh Pruett, professor in astronomy in the extension division of the university and northwest representative of the American Meteor society, who will make official observations of the

Webfoots Lose Opportunity To Score Early in Game, Take Defense

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)

OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Troy's war horse galloped on toward another mythical championship today, as Southern California marked up its seventeenth consecutive triumph over Oregon 33 to 0 before 45,000 persons.

It was an easy victory, assured so early in the first quarter that the crowd started leaving before the final period opened. The Trojans, displaying more power than at any time this fall, scored twice in the opening session and turned in touchdowns in each of the following quarters.

No Mercy Asked Either

Three of these were brought about by passes and the other two by plunging as the Howard Jones coached aggregation, substituted and re-substituted almost to the last man, rolled along without mercy.

The Webfoots were no closer to the goal than the Trojan 38 yard line and gained the ball there by virtue of a recovered fumble. Southern California refused to budge and even went so far as to net Mikulak back a yard in three attempts to gain.

The rest of the contest Coach Prink Callison's giants spent on defense, attempting vainly to halt the steady march to their goal. Shortly after the Webfoots passed up their scoring chance the Trojan attack started rolling.

Pass Starts Trouble

Homer Griffith rifled a high pass to Julius Besoco for a forty-yard gain and then erred left end for a touchdown from the 8 yard line.

Sixteen minutes later Troy had scored twice more for a 20 to 0 half time lead. Ernie Smith kicked off for Southern California and then ambled down the field to tackle Mark Temple on his 23 yard line. Falling of first down, Temple punted to Irvine Warburton, who made a 12 yard

MEIER CONSIDERS SALES TAX PLAN

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Governor Julius L. Meier in a statement to the press tonight said he is considering recommending to the state legislature that a selective sales tax be enacted.

The governor, pointing out that eight or more states are now using a sales tax as a temporary means of raising funds, said that such a tax would probably be the only means of preventing the restoration of the state tax on property which was lifted last year. Resumption of the property tax, he said, would result virtually in bankrupting some of the counties. He said he had not yet arrived at any definite conclusion on the selective sales tax.

Special Session?

Legislators, pointing out that the budget must be made up in December, expressed the opinion today that Governor Meier may call a special session of the legislature before the end of December to consider a sales tax. Governor Meier, however, was silent on the subject.
