

PROFESSORS TOLD WHAT UNIVERSITY STUDENTS REQUIRE

Just what qualities do students desire in their professors?

This question was answered on the campus of the University of Oregon recently, when answers to a questionnaire sent to 103 representative students were compiled. The study was carried on by members of two honor societies, under the direction of Louise Webber, Portland, president of the Associated Women Students.

Personal interest in students, friendliness, sympathy and understanding were the qualities most desired by women, while men put a sense of humor and individuality down as highly important.

The answers also exploded the pet theory held by many that faculty members in a university hold themselves aloof from students, for 96 out of the 103 revealed that they had at least one member of the teaching staff to whom they went to discuss courses, vocational ambitions and other problems. Only two stated definitely that they had no one to whom they could go for such help.

The men students, the survey revealed, would just as soon talk to some member of the faculty about their personal problems as to their parents. Women students usually answered this in the negative, but it is believed that the fact that many more men than women are faculty advisers might have some influence here.

The fear that they might be accused of "handshaking" was held to be a deterrent in close friendship with faculty members by many, although nearly all agreed that knowing a professor outside of class enabled them to gain more in their courses.

The common meeting place most often given was the classroom, although several men reported contact through fraternities.

Student activities, especially in journalism and music, play an important part in drawing students and faculty together, it was declared by many. Here again the classroom was the most common meeting place.

The survey was one of the projects carried on as a part of the work in the class in personal guidance problems, of which Karl W. Onthank, dean of the personnel administration, is instructor. The data here will be compared with that of similar studies carried on in other institutions. Several other projects are also under way by various members of the class.

Government Beer Proved Old Stuff By Ancient Egypt

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Governments had their problems in regulating the beer business even back in 264 B. C.

From ancient papyri, some of them filled with worm holes, research workers at Columbia university are evoking a picture of life as it was lived 2600 years ago.

One group of the documents shows that in ancient Egypt brewing was under government regulation. The state furnished a given amount of barley each day to the brewers and demanded a certain amount of beer in return. Whatever beer remained could be sold by the makers.

REPORT CORRECTED

THURSTON, Dec. 13.—(Special).—An incorrect report about freezing conditions of the electric water system at the Thurston grade school building was sent in last week-end and the school reported closed Friday afternoon. However, the water system at the school building is in fine condition and the pipes well protected so that the cold of the past week has not disturbed the running of the school in any way, according to the directors of the school.

Depression Dance Is Well Attended

CENTRAL, Dec. 13.—(Special).—Although the cold weather kept many people at home, a good crowd attended the "depression" dance given by the Central Amusement club at the community hall Saturday, December 10. Dancing and cards occupied the evening and refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served. The next meeting will be on December 31.

Fire, caused by a burning flue, damaged the roof of the home of Roy Jorgenson to some extent Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson of Gresham visited in Central over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice LaChance called at the S. T. Watson home Sunday night. Scotty Robinson was also a visitor.

News of Trent

TRENT, Dec. 13.—(Special).—The Trent Sunday school Christmas tree will be at the church house Thursday evening, Dec. 22. A play called, "They That Sit in Darkness," will be one of the main features of the program.

The A. B. C. club will meet at Mrs. Ingalls, Friday, with Mrs. Clara Williams and Mrs. Ingalls as hostesses. Each lady is asked to bring a gift for the tree. Names will be drawn for the gifts.

Several men worked at the church last Wednesday. If the weather permits, the men are asked to come again Wednesday to start the building. The women are asked to bring dinner if possible, or send it to the church.

The Helping Hand club met with Mrs. Al Higgins last Wednesday. Plans were made for Christmas. Mrs. Henry Mathews of Dexter was a visitor. Members present were Mrs. Frank Dinges, Mrs. W. L. Wheeler, Mrs. Elmer Dinges, Mrs. Ingalls, Mrs. McClure, Mrs. Jim Higgins, Mrs. Arthur Rice, Mrs. Belle Susbauer, Mrs. John Ferguson, Miss Elna Powers, Mrs. Mac Maltzan, Mrs. Ernest Wheeler, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mrs. Lewis West, Mrs. Clayton Kitchell, Mrs. R. S. Baughman, Mrs. Thilton, and Mrs. Higgins. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ingalls, Dec. 21, when the ladies will finish up their Christmas plans.

Curt Peterson and Mrs. Rebecca Simmons, who were run into by a car at Colurg the past week, were brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Bohart of this place.

The cold weather has done some damage here. Quite a lot of potatoes have frozen. The thermometer went to zero at several different homes here Friday and Sunday mornings.

Mrs. Maltzan was in the hospital last week with blood poisoning in her hand. It was thought to be felons and not considered dangerous, until it was bad.

Darle West has been out of school the past week on account of sickness.

Mrs. Zeller and children of Dorena spent last week-end at the Ingalls home here.

The Joe Jaques family moved to the Glustina mill the past week, where Mr. Jaques has work. As he was ready to go out work last Tuesday morning, about 5:30 o'clock, their house caught on fire, but the blaze was put out before much damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wheeler spent last Thursday night with Dr. and Mrs. Claud Kime of Cottage Grove. They attended the band concert there.

'ALL-STAR' FACULTY TEAM IS ANNOUNCED

A faculty "all-star" team, headed by Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of sociology, as captain, has been chosen by the editorial board of the Emerald, student daily of the University of Oregon.

Three other professors in Dean Gilbert's college also rated the "all-stars." They are Victor P. Morse, chosen halfback; H. D. Seldon, quarterback, and Donald Erb, end. Dr. Gilbert, who is now rounding out his twenty-fifth year as a member of the faculty, was named "captain and full-back."

The law school, with three pieces, came next in the estimation of the editorial board. Those rating were Wayne L. Morse, dean, who was set at half back, and Orlando J. Hollis, guard, and Carlton E. Spencer, end.

The school of journalism had two on the regular team, Dean Eric W. All at center and George S. Turnbull at tackle. W. F. G. Thacher was given honorable mention.

Others named included George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, tackle; Dr. C. V. Boyer, dean of the college of arts and letters, guard; H. C. Howe, professor of English, "line representative." Honorable mention was accorded Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of zoology; Dr. Ray P. Bowen, head of the department of Romance languages; W. R. B. Vilcox, professor of architecture; Dr. Rudolf Ernst, professor of English; Dr. H. R. Taylor, professor of psychology; Dr. John Mueller, professor of sociology, and Dr. J. J. Landis, head of the department of music.

The "team" was selected by the Emerald editorial board, consisting of Dick Oberger, Portland, editor; Thornton Gale, Bandon, associate editor; S. Erling Green, Portland, managing editor; Parks Hitchcock, Eugene; Jack Bellinger, Lebanon; Julian "Jupie" Prescott, Eugene; and David Wilson, Portland, staff members.

The "team" was selected on teaching ability, personality, and popularity with students.

Walterville News

WALTERVILLE, Dec. 13.—(Special).—The Workers' society decided Sunday evening to hold their bazaar Wednesday evening, Dec. 14, if the weather moderates. If the weather continues cold the bazaar will be postponed again. The bazaar is to be held at the Walterville school house.

Martha Campbell came out from Springfield Sunday evening and stayed over night at her home here.

A crew of men taking machinery over the McKenzie pass were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Campbell Sunday night. The machinery consisted of trucks and tractors that they were taking to Bend.

Services were held as usual Sunday morning at the Walterville school house, with Sunday school and preaching services by Mrs. Lattin at 11 o'clock. Evening services were also held.

Frozen water systems have been reported from a good many of the households where the pumps and pipes were left uncovered the first night of the freezing weather. With the cold snap coming so quickly people did not realize the possibility of the temperature dropping so rapidly.

Traffic was heavier Sunday than any day since the cold snap came. Many cars went up the McKenzie that day, some as far as the summit, others to their summer homes near Blue River, while others were out for the drive and calling on friends.

The Walterville power ditch and lagoon has been full of floating ice and slush the past few days while the freezing weather has lasted and three crews of men are on at the forebay at the power plant at Walterville working to keep the ice from breaking the racks. Ice and slush several feet in depth is reported at the forebay.

Walterville thermometers reported a temperature of three degrees Sunday morning and eight degrees Monday morning. Ice is frozen along some of the banks of the river and at the Deerhorn ferry a shelf of ice is reported extending about 20 feet out into the stream with a depth of ice about four inches thick. Until the weather moderates the ferry will not be in use.

The Walterville Ladies' Aid society will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Vern Caldwell for quilting and also to make final arrangements for the bazaar they are sponsoring Thursday evening of this week at the N. O. W. hall. Committees have been appointed as follows: program, Mrs. A. E. Jennings, Mrs. D. E. Benson and Mrs. F. W. Pace; grab bag, Mrs. O. L. Stacy; decorations, Gail Easton; marking, Mrs. Everett Wearin, Mrs. Vern Caldwell, Mrs. Lester Millican; serving, Mrs. E. I. Reynolds, Mrs. A. T. Easton, and Mrs. Wm. Hucka; coffee, Mrs. M. J. Wearin, Mrs. Clarence Potter; candy, Miss Gail Easton, Mrs. R. E. Clark; grape juice, Mrs. R. T. Kousser.

Milton Ashley took possession of the Walterville garage Friday afternoon and with his brother, Ted Ashley, will run the garage and gas station.

A number of the young people of the vicinity are enjoying the freezing weather and have been on skating rinks at every available pond that has space enough for skating and sliding. Ice can be seen frozen in water falls on the mountain sides on Bucks Point and only a little thawing has been reported up until Monday. No thawing has been seen on the ponds in the valley floor. Ice in the lagoon or river edge is not strong enough for skating according to the young people.

Lee Kora came down from Portland Saturday to visit Mrs. Korn and son, Billy Gene, who are here visiting at the home of Mrs. Kora's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Jennings. He returned to Portland Sunday.

More than 9,000,000,000 cigarettes are smoked each month in the United States.
