

J. FRANK MINNEY OF VIDA DIES THURSDAY

J. Frank Minney, superintendent of the Gate Creek fish hatchery at Vida and long prominent in that community, died late Thursday at the Eugene hospital. Death followed an illness of several months.

Mr. Minney served in many other community offices in addition to his work at the hatchery. He was a school director and clerk in his school district for many years and also was road patrolman. It was through his efforts that the state fish hatchery was built at Vida. He held the coast record for successful hatching of fish, more than 26,000,000 fish hatched being the record.

Mr. Minney was born at Urichville, Ohio, February 4, 1881. He came to Oregon at 10 years of age. He spent six years in Portland, coming to Lane county to locate when 18 years old. He was associated with his father, Ben Minney, at the hatchery.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Pearl Moore Minney, whom he married in 1905; his five children, Arthur, Gladys, Thelma, Harold, and Shirley, all at home; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Minney.

Funeral services are to be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Peole-Gray-Bartholomew chapel, Rev. E. V. Stivers officiating. Interment will be in the Greenwood cemetery.

no suggestions beyond those contained in his special message. In his message to the regular session, however, it is believed he will make a strong appeal to the legislature to preserve the credit and institutions of the state. There is talk also that he may ask legislative leaders to join in a calm statement of the situation.

In the hurly burly of speculation and guesswork, there even runs a story that the $4,000,000 deficit does not exist. State Treasurer Holman's warnings that banks are threatening to shut off state credit have had little effect on some of the legislators who argue:

"We've got along in debt so far; a little more debt won't hurt."

FRIDAY PROGRAMS
McDONALD. "Rain," with Joan Crawford, Walter Huston, Guy Kibbee and Matt Moore, Ends Saturday.

COLONIAL. "The Night of June 13," with Clive Brook and Charles Ruggles. Ends Saturday.

HELLIG. "The Blonde Captive," filmed in Australia. Ends Saturday.

REX. Double bill, "The Lost Squadron," and "End of the Trail." Saturday only.

"The Blonde Captive," a record of Dr. Paul Withington's expedition into the wilds of Australia, is the current attraction at the Hellig. It combines entertainment and educational value and, besides being endorsed by various government and educational groups, is one of the most fascinating, thrilling pictures of its type to reach civilization.

The story relates the amazing romance of a white woman lost among a tribe of primitive people claimed by anthropologists to be the oldest race in existence. One of the startling scenes reveals the ceremonies connected with the inducting into the tribe of the younger members. The ceremony is intended to usher them into manhood, though the lads are but ten years of age. It is a harsh ritual and if at any time the boy flinches or shows sign of pain, he falls in his test and is an outcast. If he passes, he is hailed as a full-fledged warrior and is privileged to take a wife.

If you like action, thrills and drama, "The Night of June 13," which comes to the Colonial Friday and Saturday, is just about right. This is not a "mystery picture," but is the chronicle of what happens to a number of people on a certain night. From beginning to end it is crowded with situations that will hold you breathless. Clive Brook takes the honors for the drama in the vehicle while Charles Ruggles, always a Colonial favorite, supports the comedy. The supporting cast includes Lila Lee, Gene Raymond and others.

After wardrobe experts and costume designers had deleted clothes over the most appropriate clothes for Joan Crawford to wear in her latest starring picture, "Rain," now playing at the McDonald, the United Artists studio bought her a $17,500 outfit in a Los Angeles department store. It was not a question of finances, but of realism, that prompted the film corporation to pass up the facilities of its own large wardrobe department. Miss Crawford plays Sadie Thompson, social outcast with her own set of ideals, who engages in an emotional conflict with a fanatical reformer and a love affair with a marine. She wears but one costume, a gauzy skirt and jacket, small, feathered hat, near-silk stockings, high-heeled, fleshy shoes and an imitation fur.

The Rex is offering another of its popular double bills. The pictures are "The Lost Squadron," and "End of the Trail."

Wheeler Keeps Courage
 "I have reason to hope that some practical solution of the difficulties will yet be found," Senator Wheeler told the Register-Guard's special correspondent Friday afternoon. "We are trying our best to keep our feet on the ground and avoid difficulties."

"It looks now as though we would adjourn tomorrow night without very much accomplished. Perhaps that will be a good thing. Many of the problems will have to be carried over for thorough discussion in the regular session."

Wheeler's committee is at work on the state budget and hopes to be able to submit a report suggesting a program but it is doubtful if it will be able to complete its work before tomorrow night.

The peril to the state institutions, especially the University, State College and Normals is regarded as very real by informed people. Unless the legislature can be shown some way out it will probably fall back on salary cuts and curtailments far more drastic than the $1,800,000 savings made by the board in the last two years.

Among the legislators there is an erroneous impression that teachers in the colleges have so far escaped all cuts in pay. This is not the case because the board made cuts running as high as 15 per cent last June.

Among the solons, however, the talk is that the teachers are still in "the fat" and that's that.

right where they occur and be done with it.

"When business men become convinced commodity prices will go no lower they will begin buying supplies," he predicted.

Liked Gas, Car Taxes
 Larger railroads, I told him, objected to the interstate commerce commission's proposal which would require them to turn over proceeds of rate increases to weaker roads. Mr. Coolidge observed:

"Everyone wants the government to go into the other fellow's business but stay out of his own."

He talked of tax problems.

"One of the difficulties I found in Washington was that a delegation from the chamber of commerce would bear in one hand a petition to reduce taxes and in the other recommendations for projects which would cost money."

"I should think it might be possible to raise more money through voluntary taxes. If you tax things a person can use or do without then the tax becomes voluntary. Most people think gasoline and automobile taxes are a good thing because in that sense they are voluntary."

Excitement Didn't Pay
 "If everyone will just mind his own business and try to help the other fellow some we will get along," he predicted.

He asked about Vice-President Curtis and spoke of the latter's help in the senate on needed legislation.

"I always found there was no use becoming too excited about something congress did. I found that it was often better not to say what I wanted because if I did someone would immediately decide to vote the other way whereas, if I kept still I would get a few of their votes."

We talked of Premier Laval's visit to President Hoover and the apparent agreement to handle reparations within the framework of the Young plan instead of outside as in the case of the moratorium.

"It would seem the best plan to handle a matter of that kind in the regular way instead of doing it some other way. When there is something to be done, it is a good thing to look at the constitution and the laws and see what is called for and do it."

Prosperity Questioned
 We discussed White House secretaries, Mr. Coolidge's plan for a single secretary and Mr. Hoover's liking for several.

"One person ought to know what is going on even if he can't do anything. The secret is in having people do the things they know about. If we had to stop and think every time we did a thing, we wouldn't live 24 hours."

I told the former president his popularity seemed to grow rather than diminish and his dryly put reply was that "When I was down there a good many people thought my administration was not all that it should be."

"I decided when I returned to Northampton not to give interviews. It would look as though I was trying to run the country."

"I once thought of traveling but it is very difficult for me to do it. If I go to a dinner I either have to make a speech or listen to speeches about myself all evening."

"I couldn't go to Europe without accepting honors and seeing people. I know that when I was in Washington I would not have wanted an ex-president poking around in Europe. I had enough trouble with volunteer diplomats as it was. They talked about knowing what the facts were."

"Do you expect," I asked, "to go to the republican national convention as a delegate?"

"No, I would only be in the way. I seem to be always in the way now."

over Governor Meier's veto. One is a bill forbidding the use of oil in state institution kitchens. The other is a bill to provide for correction of defective deeds.

Nobody in Salem knows what is really going to happen. Governor Meier's appeal to "let politics stand adjourned" lies in the scrap heap. In the solid refusal to consider the sales tax recommended by the governor is a direct challenge from some of his enemies in the session.

The lobby resounds with frantic schemes to operate the state and carry the $4,000,000 deficit without more taxes of any kind. Before the joint ways and means committee, of which Senator H. C. Wheeler, of Lane county is chairman, representatives of the Grange last night denounced further property taxes or sales taxes. Dr. Slaughter, advocated the declaration of a moratorium on state debts.

Plans to issue state script, plans to pay state bills partly in cash and partly in script or warrants are springing up like wildfire. Conservative members of the legislature are exhorting against the peril of destroying the state's credit and undermining business generally by destroying present investments in state securities.

Wheeler Keeps Courage

Now-waste heat is turned into POWER!

Union 76 anti-knock quality again increased 189 cubic centimeters per gallon

The LEADER 76 GASOLINE

THREE TIMES since the introduction of 76 a year ago (January 1, 1932) its effective anti-knock octane rating has been improved. Now New Union 76 is even a better gasoline.

The natural stabilized anti-knock fractions of the gasoline have been increased 189 cubic centimeters per gallon more than the best previous non-premium motor fuel—retaining definitely the leadership of 76 as the finest anti-knock (octane) non-premium gasoline ever offered.

New Non-Premium Advantages
 The development of 76 has had one continuous objective—toward uniform performance under varying heat, cold and atmospheric conditions. The new improvements in Union 76 not only stop knocks and smooth out motor operation, but increase power through decreased engine temperatures and the harnessing of more waste heat.

New 76 is also the most ECONOMICAL fuel you can use. Because "pounding" is stopped, wear on bearings, wristpins, valves and other engine parts is greatly reduced, minimizing engine repairs. Oil life is lengthened because there is cleaner combustion and less free gasoline passing the rings to dilute crankcase oil.

Added MILEAGE is secured in direct ratio to the waste heat turned into power.

The price of New 76 Gasoline has not been increased. It's today's greatest gasoline value. Try it.

OUR GUARANTEE
 After you try 10 gallons of New Union 76, if you do not recognize an improvement over any non-premium fuel you have used, just send us your receipt and we will refund the amount of your purchase in cash.
