IDEALS IN HOME IS SUBJECT USED IN SUNDAY SERMON

"Home's Finest Product" was the topic for the sermon given by Rev. Bryant Wilson, pastor of the First Baptist church, at the regular morning service for his congregation, Sunday.

A resume of his sermon follows:

Now what is the finest thing we can give our children? Not education, nor travel, nor leisure, nor wealth, nor culture. The best thing is character—home's finest product. I was shocked to read recently the consensus of opinion of a large group of men who work with and love boys that the average boy today is in one important respect retrograding. Not in physique with all our splendid gymnasium equipment; not in education, with all our splendid schools; not in ambition to succeed in this free republic of ours, but in certain aspects of character. Certainly we are forced to ask ourselves—could many of the troubles of today—widespread lawlessness, the sagging of idealism, etc.—be possible if the homes had given more attention to the development of character?

"There are four things necessary for the building of proper character in the home. First is the setting of a sincere example by the parents. The sharp little eyes see through every bit of insincerity and hypocrisy. If you want your children to be thoroughly honest, be honest yourself. If you want your son to be sober, be sober yourself. If you want your daughter to be gracious, be gracious yourself.

"The second necessary thing in the home must be a demand for obedience. Disobedience started the world down hill in the first place and it will start any boy or girl down hill today. If a boy doesn't learn to obey when small, the taxpayers will probably have to take care of him in a penitentiary when he is older.

"The third necessary thing in the home is love. A loveless home is as terrible a thing as a Godless heaven. 'Thy gentleness hath made me great.' How many a fine-charactered man or woman can echo that word concerning own fathers and mothers?

"The fourth and last requirement for proper character development in the home is religion. Someone has said, "Jesus uttered the words 'Our Father' and so he turned the universe into a home.' How fitting that we turn our homes into places where he abides. When we need guidance we seek a specialist—if a matter of law, a lawyer; if a matter of music, a musician. Why not follow the same principle in our home life? We need the advice of a specialist in the adjustment of life in the home and in the formation of character. Why not seek the great specialist himself—Jesus, the master of life and character."

Kiwanis President Outlines New Year

New officers of the Kiwanis club took over their duties Monday at the weekly luncheon of the group at the Osburn hotel. Arch A. Bernard, new president, gave a short talk, outlining the work for the coming year. Stanley R. Stevenson, program chairman for the coming year, told something of what his committee planed to do. George H. McMorran is general chairman of the music committee for the year. F. M. Bennett is to be publicity chairman.

At the meeting Monday, Mr. Bernard also spoke of the objectives of Kiwanis, the club making special observance of the eighteenth anniversary of Kiwanis International which falls on January 16. For the special musical program, each member of the music committee, Mr. McMorran, George Babcock, Arthur Hendershott, and Rev. Cecil F. Ristow, led a song, accompanied by George P. Hopkins, also on the committee.

John Stehn, director of the university band, told of the campus plan for 12 free concerts to be given during the coming few months and asked the support of the Kiwanians.

The local club will observe its thirteenth anniversary on March 21.

Lodge Will Honor Founder On Tuesday

FINDINGS GROUP OF BOYS' CONFERENCE MAKES ITS REPORT

At the closing sessions of the Willamette valley older boys' conference held at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday, the findings committee made a report and it was unanimously adopted by the conference. The report covered several subjects, including life work, girl relationship, athletics, Christian moral standards and Christian every day living.

Life Work.—Now, more than any other time, there must be thought and study in the selection of one's life work that will be of a permanent nature with an opportunity for service to civilization, self expression and also financial remuneration sufficient to keep one's family comfortable. We feel that the following would be a partial list of such opportunities. Radio, agriculture, missionary, automotive engineering, ministry, social science, diplomatic service, teaching, coaching and journalism.

Girl Relationship.—It is our opinion that the relationship between boys and girls should be so constructive and uplifting as to contribute to the character and future happiness of both parties, and should be a relationship which we would want to see between some other boy and our own sister.

Athletics.—We thoroughly believe in all types of athletics for high schools and colleges, but we feel that they should be so conducted that the participants will be better fitted for the "game of life" through fair play and sportsmanship any also to teach the spectators a better understanding of the game and a feeling of good will for all players and officials. We also believe that the teachers and coaches should maintain a high standard of moral living as they are a living example for the youth of today.

Christian Moral Standards.—We believe that one should be governed in this respect by a code of ethics based on the "ten commandments" and the "golden rule." We also believe that total abstainance from alcohol and tobacco is a real factor in maintaining these high moral standards.

Christian Every Day Living.—In the matter of our conference theme, we feel that the present economic and social conditions are in direct opposition to this ideal as well as to the teachings of Jesus. We also believe that legalized murder in the form of war should be outlawed.

COUNTY DRAMATICS RULES ARE GIVEN

Rules for the county dramatics contest, sponsored by the Lane County Recreational and Dramatics association, have been announced at the office of Miss Gertrude L. Skow, county home demonstration agent. Already a number of communities have entered the contest and casts are being selected. The rules are as follows:

Any bona fide rural community group may enter the contest.

There shall be no professional direction of the play entered. A critic may assist once.

All plays competing shall be one-act. Time limit 40 minutes per play.

Competition will be held first by districts to be determined by the dramatics committee in charge. The winner of each district shall be chosen by Feb. 28, 1933, and shall have competed against at least one other community. The district winners will compete for the county championship.

The dramatics committee shall select and schedule the judges for all contests. A uniform score card for judging will be used.

Proceeds from county finals will go to the county recreation and dramatics group, with the exception of $10, which would be allowed to each competing group.

All communities desiring to compete in the contest shall apply for entry to the county dramatics committee by Nov. 15, 1932.

As Smooth as an Old Gold

A good cigarette is as smooth as good music. Free of all rasp and discord.

OLD GOLD is that kind of cigarette. Smooth as your favorite tune. A harmony of the choicest Turkish and domestic tobacco...queen-leaves, from the heart of the stalk. Aged and cured so it is free of all harshness and impurities.

Try a pack of OLD GOLDS; you'll agree that they thrill your taste as a master violinist thrills your ears.
