HOUSE STANDING IN EUGENE FOR 80 YEARS IS RAZED

One of the historical landmarks of Eugene, the old Eben Stewart residence on Lawrence street between Eighth avenue west and West Broadway, is being torn down after having stood practically in the same location for nearly 80 years.

Eben Stewart, who was the father of Mrs. T. G. Hendricks of this city and of the late J. S. Luckey, came to Lane county from the east in 1852. The family took up a donation land claim where the Calf farm is now located in the Willamette district and in 1855 traded it to Charnel Mulligan, one of the earliest settlers here, for a farm which was located in that part of the present city of Eugene west of Lawrence street.

Mrs. Hendricks says she does not know the exact year in which the old house was built but it was some time soon after the Stewarts came here in 1853 and was one of the first in Eugene.

After Mr. Stewart died the farm was divided between his children and the house which is now being torn down fell to Mrs. Hendricks. She owns the property at the present time. A large part of the western end of the city is known as Stewart addition to Eugene, the old farm having been divided into blocks and lots as the city grew in that direction.

Mrs. Hendricks results that during the flood of 1862 when a large part of Eugene was covered with water she picked up a small twig of a balm tree from the debris left by the high water and planted it in the yard at the Stewart home. The twig grew to a very large tree and grew to such size that it had to be cut down a number of years ago as it was dangerous to life and property.

Principals From All Grade Schools Expected at Meet

Plans are being made to have every principal of elementary schools in the county present for the gathering planned for them the coming Saturday at 12:30 o'clock at the Lee Duke cafe, according to G. H. Good, president of the Lane County Teachers' association, who is sponsoring the meeting for the county elementary principals. The meeting will follow the luncheon.

This is the first gathering of this kind for the grade school principals but there has been considerable thought for some time to carry on a program for more co-operative work among the principals, Mr. Good said. Speakers will be on hand to explain some of the goals for principals and explain the aims of their work.

Robert J. Maaske, assistant state superintendent of schools, will be here to talk on recent tendencies in education and explain the necessity for continuity and co-operation among the principals for the new fields.

Mr. Maaske is bringing some of the textbooks recently adopted by the state and part of the program will be given over to a discussion of these books.

Laurence Moffitt, county superintendent of schools, will also give a short talk on the work to be done in Lane county. G. H. Good will preside and will also give a few remarks. All grade school principals of the county are invited.

Large advertisement for HOUDINI'S MILK CAN ESCAPE featuring a photograph of a man in a suit and a woman in a dress standing next to a large milk can. Text: "HOUDINI'S MILK CAN ESCAPE It's FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW"

ILLUSION: One of Houdini's most spectacular escape feats was performed with a huge milk can filled with water. He invited persons of the audience to bring padlocks and lock him into the can. He got into the can, the lid was put on and fastened with several padlocks. A screen was placed in front of the can. Assistants stood by with stop watches and fire axes to save him from drowning after a certain time. About a minute later, the screen was removed, Houdini was seen panting and dripping... the padlocks remaining intact.

EXPLANATION: The usual method of escaping from a milk can is as follows: The lid of the can is apparently securely padlocked to the lower portion, but actually the metal band to which the staples are attached is the top of a short inner lining. The performer, after being locked into the can, pushes the lid upward with his head and the short inner lining is forced out of place, permitting his escape. The screen is then removed.

What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising! Let's look at one of its greatest illusions...that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior "FLAVOR." THE EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring...the blending of various tobaccos...and the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is the most important. Artificial flavoring can never wholly disguise the poor flavor of cheap tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. This is why the Camel flavor has never been rivaled... why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

In more costly tobaccos lies the secret of Camels' delicate "bouquet"...of their rich, cool flavor...of their non-irritating mildness. It's the tobacco that counts. All the natural goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh and rich for you by the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it. Its moisture-proof cellophane also protects your Camels from dust and germs. Put a pack in your pocket today.
