THAT BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT.

MANY years ago, Willamette University at Salem instituted the annual state basketball tournament for high schools. Willamette University and the people of Salem have built the event year by year at considerable effort and expense. Two years ago they enlarged the Willamette gymnasium to provide seating for the large crowds which attend the tournament.

Out of the blue sky comes the suggestion for a change. John L. Gary, secretary of the interscholastic association, has asked the state board of higher education to sponsor the event henceforth. At his request, the state board has invited the basketballers to meet next winter on the University campus at Eugene and the following winter on the State College campus at Corvallis, and so on.

The state board could hardly do less than issue the invitation, since it was requested, but there are certain phases of the situation which ought to be cleared up before the plans go any further.

Does Willamette WANT to give up the tournament? Has there been any friction between the Willamette people and the interscholastic association which could be cleared away by conference?

The big state schools entertain the high schools for many tournaments every year. There is a rather natural affiliation between the big state schools and the public high schools, and the high school people know that they are always welcome on any state campus.

But the big state schools simply cannot be in the position of making any kind of raid on Willamette or any other college. If Willamette wants to go on conducting this tournament, and if the high schools have no serious objections to meeting in Salem (and it is difficult to see how they could have any such objections) then the tournament should remain at Willamette where it was originated and built up.

Certainly that will be the attitude of Eugene. For years, we have enjoyed the friendship and generous support of the people of Willamette and the people of Salem. That means more to us than all the tournaments ever devised.

U. S. LOANS FOR STUDENTS.

THE most important development of the rather routine meeting of the state board of higher education in Portland, Wednesday, was the decision to ask the federal government for $355,000 to bolster the badly depleted loan funds of the institutions. The University would receive $125,000 of such a fund, the College an equal amount, the rest would go to the Medical School and the Normals.

No better use could be found for federal aid funds during the present emergency. No project could come nearer to fulfilling the requirement "self-liquidating."

One of the greatest tragedies of the present situation is that so many of the most worthy young people in this state and other states are unable to continue their education. The schools go on, despite all their difficulties. The offerings are as rich as they ever were, but the times act as a barrier to that very class of students who could profit most by university training.

This is the class of working students—young men and young women who are willing to fight their way through. Ordinarily 75 per cent of the young people at the University of Oregon are either totally or in large part self-supporting. These are the very students who are being eliminated by the hard times. Jobs, either in vacation time or during the school term are almost unattainable.

A loan fund such as is proposed would give these young people a chance. It would restore the usefulness of the institutions to full vigor. Certainly the project is as worthy as any that has been proposed. Certainly it is as important to preserve and build character as to reclaim forests, or desert lands, or revamp rivers. But it doesn't create "work for labor." It would relieve materially some of the competition that is now pressing in on labor. The project is absolutely sound.

MARRIAGE, DIVORCE, AND SUCH.

HERE in Eugene there is reported to be quite a rush to get marriage licenses before the so-called "gin marriage law" takes effect Saturday. After Saturday, it will be necessary to wait three days between applying for license and saying "yes" before Jaycee or Parson. That would not seem to be any great hardship, three days of waiting and pondering on a contract which presumably is to last a lifetime. But the ardent seem to think it is.

More difficult marriage and easier divorce would remedy a good many troubles according to some students of family problems. Others would make both marriage and divorce more incidents. Some, of course, hold to the older theory that whatever the hardships and difficulties marriage should be kept sacred without divorce.

Probably what is needed more than all the rules and regulations is plain common sense. Over in Rhode Island (where divorce laws are fairly lenient) a bewildered court has refused a decree to the Battling Jekkes because they insisted on turning their trial into a tournament of hate. Down in California, a young man is held for the alleged murder of his wife. Why didn't either one of them have sense enough to walk out of the house if things were getting too black?

Why don't married people (especially where there is strong affection between them) ever behave quite like normal grown-up humans? Ho-hum! No doubt that's what makes marriage such an enchanting risk.

The weather may be cold and "unusual" but we can announce with authority that spring has really arrived at last. We have just had a visit from the first real live circus agent of the season.

The Flying Mollies cracked up on their getaway and had to turn back. But Amy caused that by remembering suddenly that they'd forgotten to turn off the gas (in the flat).

Music is to be distributed more evenly between the Eugene and Corvallis camps. Always bubbling over with optimism, that leads us to hope that some of the major distortions in the budget will be corrected yet.

Some men will never be satisfied that the governments' "New Deal" has really arrived until the local postoffice begins using a grade of ink that won't clog up their fountain pens.

The first American-built ship to cross the Atlantic was a pinnaque built by a band of Huguenots at Port Royal in 1662, and in which they returned to France.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Register-Guard Washington Correspondent
 WASHINGTON, June 8.—The demand for publicity for salaries of officials of large corporations, especially those under some form of government regulation, has been intensified by recent revelations.

Huge salaries are being paid to heads of corporations which borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which have led in the movement for wage reductions and whose officers frequently have been able to avoid taxes on hundreds of thousands of dollars of income by claiming deductions for stock market losses.

The Senate has just approved the resolution of Senator Edward P. Costigan of Colorado which would make these big incomes a matter of public record. Costigan is a member of the committee which investigated the National City bank and the Morgan firm and will soon investigate the Chase National bank.

Resolution noFar-Reaching.
 His resolution would require the Federal Reserve Board to report the salary schedule of officers and directors of Reserve System banks, the R. F. C. to report salaries of officials of other banks to which it has lent money, the Interstate Commerce Commission on the salaries of railroad officials, the Federal Power Commission the salaries of public utilities officials and the Federal Trade Commission on salaries of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and having capital or assets of more than $1,000,000, whose securities are listed on the New York exchanges.

There is also a better chance now for passage of the measure limiting to $17,500 the salaries of officials of banks, railroads and other corporations borrowing from the R. F. C. The Senate passed that one and the House has it.

Resolution Far-Reaching.
 Evidence introduced in the Congressional Record recently showed that executives of some of the larger insurance companies have received increases in salary between 1929 and 1932. The president of the Equitable Life was receiving $100,000 last year as against $75,000 in 1929, the Metropolitan Life president $200,000 instead of $175,000, the Mutual Life president $125,000 instead of $100,000, and the New York Life president $125,000 instead of $100,000. Some of these salaries have been reduced this year.

Senator Black of Alabama recently told the Senate that he had figures on one railroad which had borrowed $31,000,000 while paying three salaries of more than $100,000 a year and "many salaries" of $75,000 or $80,000.

Movie Salaries High.
 Salaries of banks borrowing from the R. F. C. have not yet been made public.

The quarters and half-dollars which we pay for the movies create enormous salaries for movie magnates, Congressman Sirovich of New York revealed as he vainly pleaded in the House for an investigation of the cinema industry.

Sirovich cited "current statements" that Louis B. Mayer had an annual income of $800,000, Adolph Zukor and Jesse Lasky $520,000 each, Irving Thalberg at least $500,000, Nicholas Schenck $404,000 and the Warner Brothers $520,000 each—in each case plus "extravagant bonuses." Five movie men, he said, received more than Congress, president, cabinet, supreme court and 48 state governors.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

INFORMATION WORTH FIFTY CENTS.

(The Bend Bulletin.)
 ALONG with all the others there's a new deal on in the matter of automobile driver's licenses. It is worth getting to the bottom of the thing if you have one of the older licenses because of the 50 cents added cost for a new license after June 9.

Here is the way the new law works.
 If you took out your license before July 1, 1931, and want to continue to drive a car you must get a new license before September 1, 1933. That new license will cost you 50 cents if it is secured before June 9; if after that date, $1. However, in securing the 50 cent license before June 9 you will have to take an examination. After that date the secretary of state is authorized to waive the regular examination when he sees fit.

All licenses issued since July 1, 1931 and up to June 9 next will be good until June 30, 1935. Every two years after that date all licenses will expire on June 30.

The waiver of examination is permitted on behalf of old drivers unless the applicant is more than 70 years old or there is reason to question his driving ability. Persons applying for a license for the first time must take an examination and submit to simple eye tests.

So that those who are taking the examination may be prepared to answer the questions asked by the representative of the secretary of state, Hal Hoss has compiled a Motorist's manual containing questions and answers from the motor vehicle laws. The applicant who has familiarized himself with the material in this manual should be able to pass the quiz without difficulty. The Bulletin has a number of these booklets. You had better get one to study and when the examiner comes to town take the test, get your license and save your money.

AN EDITORIAL ON HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.
 IN these days when everybody takes the chance of needing emergency first-aid treatment because of the use of the automobile and wide indulgence in sports and gardening, it is well to have first-aid supplies in the family medicine chest.

Among the materials needed are adhesive tape of various widths, sterile cotton, sterile gauze bandages, sterile gauze pads, and a scissors which should be kept in the medicine chest exclusively for such purposes. You should also have the ready-made combinations of a piece of adhesive tape with a tiny piece of sterilized bandage that can be used to cover small wounds after they have been treated with iodine or mercuric boric. Most people should know that the proper way to stop bleeding of small wounds is simply to press upon them with a sterile piece of gauze.

In case of very serious wounds affecting arteries, and thereby difficult to control, it may be necessary to put a tourniquet around the limb. The tourniquet should be fastened just tight enough to stop the bleeding. An ordinary piece of rubber tubing or a narrow towel tied and twisted with a stick will serve most purposes satisfactorily.

The family medicine chest may also contain aromatic spirits of ammonia which is sometimes given when a prompt stimulant is needed following fainting. Half a teaspoonful in water, for a sudden fainting spell, is a fairly safe thing to give in most cases of this emergency.

The widely publicized milk of magnesia and sodium bicarbonate, or baking soda, are two preparations which can safely be kept in the family medicine chest and which are frequently advised by physicians for alkaline purposes.

Some families keep paregoric as a useful preparation in case of cramps that affect women at periodic intervals. Really these, and the others I have mentioned in previous articles, constitute practically all of the drugs that need to be in any average medicine chest because they are the few materials that can be used safely by most people.

Miss Wylie Weds At Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Lucile Wylie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wylie, to Charles Brechtel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brechtel, was solemnized Wednesday evening at a pretty ceremony held in the Methodist Episcopal church. More than two hundred relatives and friends attended the wedding, held at eight o'clock. Rev. Cecil F. Ristow, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The church altar was banked with palms and baskets of pink and white peonies and blue delphinium. On either side was a tall candelabrum with five lighted tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a dress of white silk crepe and with it a veil of net that fell in a train. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of Joanna Hill roses, buds and white sweet peas.

Miss Charlotte Winnard was maid of honor and wore a dress of deep rose silk crepe. Her flowers were a bouquet of pink peonies, white sweet peas and blue iris.

Nancy and Molly Chase, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chase, were the flower girls. They wore quaint old-fashioned frocks of pink-print with polka-bonnets to match. They carried little muffs of varied flowers.

William Brechtel was best man for his brother, Ushers were Kenneth Wylie, Hayden Kimbrell of Portland, William Houston of Salem, and Philip J. Bartholomew.

Lee Heffron played the organ music and John Radmore sang before the ceremony.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Brechtel are to live in San Francisco.

One Hundred Out For Dinner

More than one hundred attended the parish dinner given Wednesday evening for the parish of St. Mary's Episcopal church. This was the last monthly dinner of the season. The men were in charge, the committee being Walter P. Fell, T. R. Greenwood, Lee Peters, and Thomas Bennett.

During the afternoon the women's guild of the church entertained with a silver tea and quilt display, a large group calling for the event. Forty-two quilts, new and old, some dating back to more than one hundred years, were displayed about the rooms. The guild is one of the most active church groups in the city in making and quilting quilts. Mrs. H. Herbert Smedley, Mrs. S. L. Lowry, and Mrs. A. H. McDonald were in charge of the quilts. Miss Edna Swartz, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. V. V. Homenway were in charge of the tea.

Mrs. H. R. White poured. The tea table was attractively set with a lace cover, a bowl of pink and white flowers, with lighted candles.

Birthday Event

Mr. and Mrs. James Calvert were hosts for a family gathering at their residence near Junction City on Sunday in honor of the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Calvert. The event is an annual one for members of the family. A cafeteria lunch was served at noon. PROOF THAT NEW FACE POWDER WON'T MAKE BLOTCHES

Many face powders are made out of cosmetics which are oil in the perspiration strikes them.

Perspiration comes out through the openings of your pores and the oil along with it. Every pore which is giving out oil is darkening the powder around the opening of the pores. Thus you have dark spots around the pores and white spots between them, making an ugly, blotchy face of blotches, especially on the nose.

The new Mello-glo Face Powder contains none of these interior cosmetics which are easily darkened by the oil in your perspiration. Prove it for yourself. Powder one side of your nose with another powder. Powder the other side with the new Mello-glo. In five minutes, let your mirror give you the answer.

We challenge the world to produce a finer and more famous face powder than the new Mello-glo. The new Mello-glo formula is the formula used by the most exclusive cosmetic houses in New York and Paris.

You don't buy face powder to make your face look blotchy and blotchy. Therefore, do not waste your money on powders that you are not sure of. Ask for Mello-glo Face Powder by name. Look for the name Mello-glo Face Powder on the gold box. Refuse the unfair offer of "something just as good," which may blotch your face. Ask for Mello-glo
