Take 2 1/2 pounds of chicken or meat, boiled or stewed, from which you can get at least a pint of liquor. Take the chicken off the bone, cut it up in the size for creaming. Take a cup of macaroni or spaghetti and boil in hot water with salt for 10 or 15 minutes. Turn it into a colander and run cold water over it. Have a half-dozen hard boiled eggs ready. Make a white sauce with the liquor from the chicken and the milk, enough for a quart of sauce. Alternate the chicken, macaroni, eggs, and sauce in the baking dish. Bake for 45 minutes.
