

MR. HOLT BACK AFTER TRIP EAST TO CANNERS MEET

Canners of the west are starting at once to do their part in the program outlined under the farm act, according to J. O. Holt, manager of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association, who was back in his office Friday morning following a trip to Washington, D. C., where he was called to attend a meeting of canners and pickers.

The canners of the northwest will meet in Seattle next Tuesday to draw up their code of ethics and work out their problems to conform with the farm act provisions. Mr. Holt will attend the meeting. Mr. Holt was one of two Oregon men who attended the meeting in Washington, D. C. Some 75 attended the conference from all parts of the United States. The purpose of the gathering was to crystallize the ideas of the canners as to how they want the government to aid them. The government is requiring the canners of different commodities to get together and lay down a set of rules or code of ethics they wish to follow. If a substantial majority votes the code, the plan will be to take necessary steps to make all follow the program laid down.

All canners agree their industry is in a bad way and that something is necessary to save it. If the canning industry can rid itself of secret rebates, free goods, and such practices, a big step will have been taken to aid the industry, Mr. Holt said, pointing out such practices had wrecked the business.

The government, too, has as primary interests now in this movement, the objects to return more to the producer and the laborer.

Speaking of business in general, Mr. Holt said he observed throughout his trip, a much more cheerful attitude. "Even in our own line we find plenty of buyers ready to buy. They are only fighting the price levels," he said. Mr. Holt stated he found the general outlook much more cheerful than on his annual business trip east in January. Referring to the action of the administration in enlarging the scope of the farm act to take in fruits, vegetables, and other special crops, Mr. Holt repeated his statement given out Thursday in Portland to the Associated Press that the decision on the part of the administration will be of great importance in the movement now on foot to stabilize that industry and the business of canning such produce.

is getting over and Roosevelt has done much to make the people of the world understand.

The Kellogg pact, Davis said, put upon the United States an inherent obligation to confer.

"We would be fools not to confer," he said. "We have a large stake in peace as a matter of self-interest. We ought not to play the sucker and put our head in the sand like an ostrich. Peace is now getting to be looked upon as one of the coldest-blooded propositions in the world."

Speaking of a change of sentiment in Europe, especially toward acceptance of the idea of international supervision in place of security pacts as a basis for disarmament, Davis defended the necessity of arms inspection.

"I would be opposed to the United States disarming unless we had assurance that nobody would play any tricks on us," he said. "We would want other countries inspected and there is no reason why inspection should embarrass us. If we failed to keep an agreement, then we should be embarrassed."

"Inspection is no insult. They have it in yacht racing—a gentlemen's sport."

Industrial self government. The problem is different now from what it was with the war industries board. I want to avoid any caricature appearance of fact."

Beginning the conference while seated behind a table, the vigorous Johnson soon became enthused over what he was saying and rose to his feet to gesture more freely.

The administrator said he proposed to avoid any appearance of using police powers in carrying out the industrial recovery program by which the government hopes to increase wages, shorten working hours and spread employment to several million additional men before winter.

He said he believed that "chislers and recalcitrants" would be "shown up" by complaints. Johnson promised labor full representation in the deliberations and hearings leading up to final approval of codes. He described the set-up as being an impartial administration, advised on three sides by boards representing capital, labor and the consumer.

buoyant and hopeful heart," Mr. MacDonald said.

He explained that the American program was regarded by men of high standing, interested in the success of this conference, as of the greatest importance.

Adjournment Foolish "It is an open question and I do not state my personal views," he declared. "The situation left by the note of yesterday is not at all cloudy and it enables us to go on with our work."

The conference is going on, the prime minister said, but "success will depend finally on stabilization; all the work that can go on is going on."

He revealed that the question of adjournment was again brought before the steering committee this morning "but it was laughed off."

"Adjournment is foolish," he went on, "and cannot be imagined. If we adjourn now and try to come back in August, the chances are 90 1/2 per cent that conditions will then be worse than now. The beginning of a final settlement must be made now."

Peterson Wanted In Many Cities

M. B. Peterson, who was arrested here by the state police Thursday on a charge of passing a bad check and taken to Corvallis for prosecution, is also wanted in Portland on a similar charge, the officers here have learned. Besides passing a $43 check at Preston and Hales' store, Peterson passed one at Wade Bros' clothing store for $21.15.

The officers have learned that Peterson is wanted in San Francisco for the theft of a car and in Los Angeles, Olympia, Portland, San Francisco and Oakland on check charges.

DRUNK FINED

Louis Morris, Florida, arrested by city police Thursday on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was fined $50 when he appeared in police court Friday. Morris said he was a jockey, headed for the races at Gresham.

The vote on the candidates must be in by Saturday night or it will not be counted. County school Superintendent Lawrence C. Moffitt announced Friday. This is a provision of the new law.

As all the candidates who appear to be chosen by the voters as members of the board have expressed themselves as being opposed to bus transportation of high school pupils this question is settled in advance. One of the duties of the board is to provide transportation for students living at a distance from high schools if it sees fit.

COST OF WATER IS LOW IN EUGENE

and increased use brings decreased rates

It's a good idea to learn how to figure your water bills

On the ordinary 3/4 inch house meter the first 400 cubic feet (3,000 gallons) cost you $1.00. The next 600 cubic feet (4,500 gallons) cost you 11c per 100 cubic feet or 66c. So for 1,000 cubic feet (7,500 gallons) you pay only $1.66. All over the first 1,000 cubic feet cost you only 5c per hundred.

If you use 4,000 cubic feet (30,000 gallons), 3,000 cubic feet is at 5c which equals $1.50, plus the $1.66 for the first 1,000 used amounts to $3.16 for the 4,000 cu. ft.

By following the line beginning with 4,000 to the point where it crosses the line marked Eugene—you will find the price marked at the left of the chart amounts to $3.16.

Now follow up the line marked Portland, the cost of the same 4,000 cubic feet amounts to approximately $3.50—Salem and Tacoma approximately $4.00—Grants Pass $4.15—Albany $4.40—Oakland, California $8.50.

The above figures show that the water used over the 1,000 cubic feet costs only 5c for 750 gallons or 23 1/2 barrels. Surely anyone can afford to water the lawn at a price of 23 1/2 barrels for 5c.
