

Local Markets Steady; Stock Irregular Again

GREEN BEANS IN; BERRIES COME ON MORE PLentifully

Saturday markets had but few changes to report. Wheat prices here remained unchanged, the prices in Chicago and Portland fluctuating too much for much change here.

No local hay is in yet. However, dairymen and others in need of hay are buying the alfalfa in the field before it is brought into market, it is said. Taken in the field, it has been selling around $10 and $10.50, according to reports. It will be some time before any is offered in the local market, and local dealers say there is really no market to quote.

Berries of all kinds were plentiful Saturday, except strawberries which are getting scarce all the time, the season being nearly over.

Blackberries are looked to be coming on the first of the week.

Local green beans were in Saturday.

Eggs showed no change except for the boost on wholesale prices forecast Friday.

Butter, butterfat, livestock, and poultry were all steady for the day here.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Hops steady, unchanged. Dried fruits steady and unchanged.

TRADING IS LIGHT; PROFIT TAKING IS CAUSE FOR LOSS

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Financial markets breathed a sigh of relief today and emerged a net loser for a pulmotor. It was a brief session of minor ups and downs in stocks and only a few specialties showed an inclination to race for higher levels. The close was somewhat irregular. Transfers approximated 2,900,000 shares.

Notwithstanding further bright reports of business and industry throughout the country, a cautious attitude was apparent in most trading categories. The dollar again dropped in foreign exchange markets although its recessions were not so pronounced as previously. Grains were a bit irregular.

The carriers generally failed to register announcement of another substantial gain in freight car loadings for the week ended July 1, which showed a gain of nearly 30 per cent above those for the same period in 1932.

Wall street noted the warning issued by General Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial recovery director, that wage increases and re-employment must catch up with production if the first of the improvement already recorded is to be maintained.

PUBLIC MARKET HAS BUSY DAY

The Producers' Public market had a very busy day Saturday and a wonderful display of local vegetables and fruits.

Blackberries dropped to three boxes for 25 cents Saturday.

A good supply of local green beans was in, selling at 10 cents a pound. Peas continued at four pounds for 10 cents, but an advance is looked for the first of the week.

Butter, poultry, and eggs were displayed in good quantities. As announced Friday, butter was boosted to 25 cents and poultry took a cut.

Fewer strawberries were seen. Raspberries continue plentiful.

One of the outstanding displays Saturday was that of flowers.

Following was the price list for the day on the market:

demanded especially in the eastern and southern sections.

Not only is there a better feeling in butter with occasional premiums showing for butterfat but the entire dairy products situation appears somewhat improved.

Market for eggs reflects continued betterment in undertone with the day's advance of 1c doz, being generally maintained. Receipts continue to decrease and premium stock is held firm.

There is quite a fair demand for chickens. The recent weakness due to forced marketing by scared producers who disposed of their flocks with advancing feed prices, has disappeared.

All prices in the country meat market are holding well at the week-end. Veal and hogs are well held at late advances and there is a slight betterment in the lamb trade.

There is an erratic tone for lettuce. While top quality is finding a shipping call; the market is loaded with stock just off the No. 1 grade and low prices are continuing.

All potato prices, both old and new crop, continue to show a firm tone. Demand is very active at sources as well as at consuming points. More local new crop is being marketed.

Shirley Grey appears as Buck Jones' worst enemy at the start of the western star's latest picture, "Treason," showing Saturday only at the Heilig, but before the film ends, she is clasped in his manly breast. Jones portrays the role of a young army scout delegated to capture Shirley, leader of a band of confederate outlaws. He reaches her camp, only to fall in love with her and realize that her raids are prompted by mistaken idealism, and that she is really innocent of any crime. His solution of the problem of carrying out his duty and at the same time winning the girl he loves make for a thrilling picture, replete with action.

Two romances of an entirely different type are featured in the picture, "Black Beauty," closing Saturday at the Colonial. One is the customary love story between a man and a girl, in this case, Esther Ralston and Alexander Kirkland, and the other is the extreme devotion between the man and his horse, who plays the title role. The picture is said to be one of great pathos, amusing comedy, and satisfying romance, and Glen Godfrey, manager, endorses it as a picture with appeal for young and old.

Irene Dunne's greatest picture! That's the way they're describing "The Secret of Madame Blanche," which, with "Smoke Lightning," Geo. O'Brien's latest western, closes Saturday at the State. The film gives Miss Dunne a chance to reach dramatic heights never before available, and she plays the role perfectly. "Smoke Lightning" is a fast-riding, hard-shooting western that packs a thrill a minute. It is taken from the Zane Grey novel, "Canon Walls."

Two fine pictures have been booked by Jim O'Connell for Saturday at the Rex. A thrilling western, far above the usual variety, and a sweet and appealing picture of youth and love make up the bill. The western is "Sunset Pass," and it was given a high rating by reviewers wherever it played. "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," taken from the immortal book by that name makes up the bill. Randolph Scott, Tom Keene and Kathleen Burke are starred in the former and Marion Nixon and Ralph Bellamy are featured in the latter.
