From repeal headquarters came a statement predicting the action two days ago of Tennessee's sister states, Alabama and Arkansas, the first of the traditionally dry deep south to vote against prohibition.

The anti-prohibition statement added there was no chance to "stave off repeal in 1933" and forecast a majority in this state for it of at least 50,000.

THE TENNESSEE VOTES NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 20.—(AP)—Tennessee voted its verdict on prohibition today. It was the nineteenth state to declare its will on the proposed prohibition repeal amendment.

ticket in favor of the 21st, or repealing amendment.

Dry "Fighting Chance." In addition to balloting directly on the 21st amendment, Oregon voters will elect 116 delegates to the constitutional convention on repeal.

Herman J. Maulbetsch, chairman of the "committee of nine," a unit of the United Dries of Oregon, told the Associated Press the dries "have a fighting chance." He blamed "the depression, the hope of employment, and the expectation of circulation of funds held out by wet opponents" for the wet tide.

E. M. Hencock, president of the Oregon Anti-Liquor League, said "we will keep on fighting, win or lose. We had our inning and we will come back. We are not quitters. The wets now have the down-hill pull. If the voters do repeal prohibition they will soon learn to regret it."

Sales Tax Up

Mrs. Ada Jolley, state president of the W. C. T. U., said "The work of temperance education must go on. The liquor problem cannot be settled by repeal. The drink traffic must be destroyed."

Anti-prohibitionists expressed no concern as to the outcome. The Women's Organization for prohibition reform, the Crusaders, the Oregon League for Repeal of the 18th amendment, and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment joined in covering the state with advertisements, speakers and repeal "tickets."

In addition to the two repeal measures, Oregon will vote tomorrow on a 2 per cent state sales tax, the revenue to be used to lift part of the burden of the property tax.
