

"Gambling Ship" Opens At Rex; Heilig Presents "Child of Manhattan"

Another Language" on At McDonald; Colonial Keeps Musical Comedy

McDonald theater announces "The Boat Annie" which was made for a five-day run starting Sunday, Aug. 13, will not be shown today due to their inability to get the print. The world premiere of "The Boat Annie" at the Avenue theater in Seattle proved so successful that it was decided to show the film another week, starting the showing of the picture at the Rex and Eugene. "Tugboat Annie" will, however, be shown at McDonald for five days starting Sunday, Aug. 27.

"Another Language" starring Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery is McDonald's feature for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

THIS WEEK'S BILLS

McDONALD: Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "Another Language" with Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery; Wednesday and Thursday, "Storm at Daybreak" with Guy Francis, Walter Huston and Guy Arthur; Friday and Saturday, "The Mayor of Hell" with Guy Francis, Madge Evans and Guy Arthur.

HEILIG: Sunday and Monday, "The Child of Manhattan" with John Carrall, Nancy Carroll, and Buck Jones; Tuesday and Wednesday, "The White Sister" with Nancy Carroll and Cary Grant; Thursday and Friday, "The White Sister" with Nancy Carroll and Cary Grant; Saturday, double bill, "The White Sister" and "The Mayor of Hell" with Guy Francis and Madge Evans.

COLONIAL: Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "Gold Diggers of 1933" with John Barrymore, Fredric March, and Nancy Carroll; Wednesday and Thursday, "The White Sister" with Nancy Carroll and Cary Grant; Friday and Saturday, "The Mayor of Hell" with Guy Francis and Madge Evans.

made him to buy an interest in one of the ships. When the owner of the other, an old-time enemy, goes running for him, however, he changes his mind. He takes charge, and, by the employment of methods which would not meet with the approval of the authorities—had they any say in the matter—succeeds in appropriating all the trade. When the rival operator takes steps to retaliate a series of breath-taking events ensues, bringing the film to a crackling climax. Miss Hume, dark eyed English star, plays opposite Grant. Jack LaRue, the "menace" of "The Story of Temple Drake" is the rival operator.

To accommodate the hundreds of Eugeneans who have been unable to attend "Gold Diggers of 1933," musical extravaganza which has played the past week at the Colonial, Manager Glen Godfrey announces that the film will be held over until Tuesday. The picture is a behind-the-scenes story of the production of a great musical comedy, and combines an excellent plot with snappy action, beautiful chorus displays, and smooth acting. Five song hits, "Remember My Forgotten Man," "Shadow Waltz," "Pettin' in the Park," "I've Got to Sing a Torch Song," and "We're in the Money" feature the production. A huge cast, headed by Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, Joan Blondell, Warren William, and Aline MacMahon make the picture one of the most extraordinary seen here since the advent of the talkies. Two hundred lovely chorus girls go through the routine devised by Busby Berkeley, noted Hollywood dance master. Aline MacMahon, Guy Kibbee and Ned Sparks "have a lot of what it takes" in the comedy roles, and Ruby (Mmmmm-mm) Keeler and Dick Powell supply the love interest.

John Boles, whose name instantly leaps to mind whenever the great musical films are mentioned, has the leading role opposite Nancy Carroll in "Child of Manhattan," Columbia's thrilling story of love in a ten-cent-a-dance palace, which opens Sunday at the Heilig theater. But it is an entirely new role that Boles will present to his admirers in the picture which was directed by Eddie Buzzell. Instead of appearing as a very young man, the popular player will be seen as the wealthy scion of a Knickerbocker family, a sophisticate of about 37 years, whose romance with the beautiful, naive little taxi-dancer, Miss Carroll, forms one of the most dramatic yet fascinating love stories to appear on the screen for many, many months. In addition to Miss Carroll and Boles, the supporting cast of "Child of Manhattan" consists of Clara Handick, Gary Owen, Jane Darwell, Tyler Brooke, Nat Pendleton, Jessie Ralph, Betty Kendall, Luis Alberni and Betty Grable. Incidentally, Betty Grable will be remembered by local people as the blonde singer with Ted Fio-Rito's dance band, which appeared here recently.

from the front, she enters a convent. The story rises to a sensational climax when the lover returns and finds the girl's religious vows an obstacle to his happiness.

"The White Sister," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new talking picture version of F. Marion Crawford's undying romance, opens Sunday at the State theater for a two day run. Helen Hayes and Clark Gable are co-starred for the first time on the screen in the classic love story and a prominent supporting cast features Lewis Stone, Louise Closser Hale, May Robson, Edward Arnold and Alan Edwards, under the direction of Victor Fleming, who filmed the successful Gable-Jean Harlow talkie, "Red Dust." In the present film, Miss Hayes plays the role of an aristocratic Italian girl who turns down the suitor of her father's choice in favor of a young officer in the Italian air force.
